THIS Harmony is a reproduction in English of the author's "Harmony of the Four Gospels," in Greek. Being intended for English readers, so much of the Introduction and of the notes as require a knowledge of Greek, is omitted. Other notes have been abridged in many cases.

The text is throughout that of the Authorized or common Version, except where critical labors upon the original text, since that version was made, have established a change in the Greek ; and also in a very few instances in which the translation admits of correction by common consent. In such passages the required change is made, and the words of the Authorized Version are given at the foot of the page.

The arrangement of the paragraphs, as far as the nature of the work allows, is that of the Rev. Dr. Coit, in his admirable "Paragraph Bible."

Quotations from the Old Testament, whenever the language varies at all from that given in the Gospels, are printed at the foot of the page. In the same place also a very few parallel references are given, chiefly to point out similar language or incidents in other parts of the Gospels, or passages in the Old Testament on which the language of the Gospels may be founded, or sometimes quotations in the Epistles or references to language of the Gospels.

Brief notes, relating only to matters of harmony, and not intended to serve in any sense as a commentary, have been placed at the bottom of the page. In a few instances, in which these were unavoidably of inconvenient length, the subject-matter is treated in an introduction to the part to which it pertains, and a simple reference thereto given in the foot-note.

The synoptical table of the arrangement of several Harmonists, given at the close of the Introduction is taken from the author's Greek Harmony, and it is hoped, may prove useful. It shows at a glance how general is the agreement on the main points of chronology; and also, when differences exist, with which of these Harmonists the present arrangement accords. In this table the order of each Harmonist is of course preserved without change.

That what has been done may be to the furtherance of the glory of God, and may be blessed by Him to the increase of the knowledge of His word, is the earnest prayer of the Author,

FREDERIC GARDINER.

INTRODUCTION.

THE three first Gospels are commonly called Synoptical, because they each give to some extent a synopsis of our Lord's life, or rather of the part of it subsequent to his baptism ; while the Gospel of St. John has always been considered as supplementary in its character. It has comparatively little in common with the others, and contains far less of narrative ; yet it has generally been thought to preserve the true chronological order of the events mentioned in it, and thus to form the proper basis for the chronological arrangement of a Harmony. For the reasons for this the reader is referred to the General Introduction to the Author's Greek Harmony. The general opinion is here followed, and the events recorded by St. John are assumed to have occurred in the order in which they are written.

Having, then, adopted the order of St. John, as far as it goes, it will be found that St. Mark fully accords with this, and thus another step can be taken. The intermediate events having been arranged according to what seems the most probable sequence, it will be found, either that there are no deviations from the order of St. Mark, or, at most, that they are few and unimportant. This is shown at a glance by the synoptical table of the arrangement of various harmonists, and the evidence would be increased were there room to include a larger number. St. Mark does not especially say that he follows a chronological order ; but as he accords with St. John in all the points common to the two, and as the probable order, as determined by many independent writers, is found generally to be that given by St. Mark, it seems safe — especially in the absence of all evidence to the contrary — to take his Gospel for a further basis of the chronological arrangement. The order of St. John, therefore, as more fully carried out by St. Mark, has been adopted in the following pages. It is believed also, that this is the only possible scheme by which any two of the Gospels can be both presented in the same order in which they were written.

There will still remain, on this or any other basis, a portion of the Gospel of St. Luke which is without sufficient notes of time or points of contact with the other Gospels to be positively determined in its chronological relations to them. The difficulty is not one of any inconsistency, but simply a want of sufficient data. Happily, however, the points which are thus difficult to fix, it is of little importance, except as a matter of interest and curiosity, to have fixed. They are, therefore simply placed in what seems their most probable position, with full liberty to transpose them within certain limits.

In connection with any plan of arrangement it is necessary to determine the entire length of our Lord's ministry. Any difference in regard to this will involve corresponding differences of arrangement throughout. Three several theories have been proposed at different times, called the Bipaschal, the Tri-paschal, and the Quadripaschal schemes, from the number of Passovers subsequent to our Lord's baptism severally admitted by them.

The earliest Christian writers, before the time of Eusebius (A. D. 300), appear not to have examined the question, and in so far as they have said anything on the subject, have expressed themselves variously. A careful consideration of the matter was at last undertaken by Eusebius, and resulted in the adoption of the Quadripaschal scheme, or that which makes the duration of our Lord's ministry to have been something more than three years. In this decision, for many centuries, there was a general acquiescence; other theories, however, having been proposed, it may be well briefly to examine them.

The Bipaschal theory allows but one Passover between our Lord's baptism and that at which he was crucified. It gives little time therefore for our Saviour's teaching to have sunk into the minds of the people, and for their rulers to have wrought themselves up to their infuriated madness against him. Especially does it allow very short opportunity for the disciples to have been with him in the enjoyment of his instructions, since it was some time subsequent to his baptism that they were called. On these general grounds the presumption against it must be considered too strong to be overthrown without clear evidence.

The chief arguments in its support are these: 1st. That on this hypothesis we have the record of our Lord's attendance on all the great festivals which occurred during his ministry, and which every Israelite was by the Mosaic law required to attend at Jerusalem. 2d. From the three earlier Gospels there is no positive evidence of the occurrence of a greater number of Passovers, and "the fourth Gospel being capable of being reduced to the same number, this should be adopted as in fact the concurrent testimony of all." Such further support as this theory is thought to derive from the opinions of early writers has already been sufficiently considered.

In regard to the first of these arguments, it could only be considered of weight if our Gospels had far more the air of complete narratives and less that of memorabilia than they actually present. Such festivals as our Lord may have attended in a more private way it would hardly have fallen within their scope to record; and for a considerable period the determination and effort of the Jews to put him to death was a sufficient reason for his non-attendance. Moreover, unless we are prepared to make a great inversion in the order of St. John, we have the certain record of one of the greatest festivals—the approaching Passover of Jno. vi. 4—which he certainly did not attend. The argument at best, must be looked upon rather as an inference from a supposed fitness of our Lord's conduct and the Evangelists' record thereof, than as sustained by any evidence properly so called.

Much the same things may be said of the second argument also. The inference from the silence of the three first Evangelists in regard to other Passovers is of a purely negative character, and whatever weight it might be entitled to if alone, cannot stand for a moment against any positive evidence to the contrary. In regard to the Gospel of St. John, this theory certainly derives no support therefrom, and only by a serious exegetical strain can the Passover mentioned as near, in vi. 4, be supposed to be the last Passover; while the necessity of disturbing the order of this Gospel should not be admitted without urgent reason. The method of avoiding this by a conjectural emendation of that text is still more objectionable.

On the other hand, if the feast mentioned in Jno. v. 1 is to be understood of a Passover, it is then no longer possible to maintain this theory at all. For so understanding it, as will presently appear, there is strong reason. The Bipaschal theory, then, must be left as one which lacks the support of any direct evidence, is open to serious objections on general grounds, and grave difficulties in the arrangement of St. John; while it may be, and probably is, absolutely excluded by the mention of the Feast in Jno. v. 1.

The Tripaschal theory leaves the order of St. John undisturbed, and allows the natural sense of vi. 4, as referring to a Passover close at hand, to stand. The question between this and the Quadripaschal turns upon the interpretation of Jno. v. 1; aside from this, the difficulties commonly alleged against the one are much the same as against the other. It is therefore only necessary to discuss the sense of that passage. It will indeed still remain possible that a Passover may be there understood, and yet the Passover of vi. 4 be taken to be the same as that at which our Lord was crucified; but as there is no one now to advocate this, it cannot be necessary to refute it.

The chief argument against the reference of Jno. v. 1 to the Passover has been drawn from the supposed absence of the definite article before the word feast. At the time the English version was made, the weight of authority was in favor of its omission; later researches, however, show that it ought probably to be inserted. Yet neither the presence nor the absence of the article can be considered as entirely decisive; "a feast of the Jews" undoubtedly may refer to the Passover; and "the feast of the Jews" may possibly be understood of any of the three great festivals, although there is, of course, a strong presumption that such an expression, put absolutely, means the greatest of them all, that which was emphatically "THE Feast of the Jews."

This could not have been either the Pentecost or the feast of Tabernacles following the first Passover, since they were already both past before our Lord's return from that feast into Galilee (see Jno. iv. 35 and note). This supposition, although formerly advocated, has now no defenders.

The only other interpretation (except that of the Passover) now advocated, is that which understands the expression of the feast of Purim. This festival occurred on the fourteenth and fifteenth of Adar, just one month before the Passover. The strongest argument for this view is also the chief objection, both to referring the expression to the Passover, and in general to the Quadripaschal scheme, viz. that in that case our Lord would have absented himself from Jerusalem for eighteen months, inasmuch as he did not attend the Passover of Jno. vi. 4 (on the supposition that this was not the final one), but only the subsequent feast of Tabernacles (viii. 2-10), and thus, moreover, a whole year would have intervened between Jno. v. 1 and vi. 4. A sufficient reason for our Lord's absence, may be found in the statement in vii. 1 (cf. v. 18), that the Jews sought to kill him. In regard to the abruptness of the transition in point of time, and the interval passed over in silence, it has been well remarked that such transitions are not uncommon with St. John. Thus chap. vi. is concerned with a Passover, chap. vii. with the feast of Tabernacles, six months later; so in x. 22 there is another sudden transition from the latter feast to that of the Dedication.

On the other hand, the following considerations are well urged by Robinson against the supposition that the feast of Purim is here intended: (a) That feast, so far from requiring the presence of the Jews at Jerusalem, was kept as a home festival, by reading the Book of Esther in the synagogues and "sending portions one to another and gifts to the poor" (Esth. ix. 22; Jos. Ant. ii. 6, 13). (b) It is unlikely that Jesus would have gone to Jerusalem at the feast of Purim—which was not required, nor even usual—and not have gone to the Passover. The reference in support of such a supposition to his presence at the Dedication (Jno. x. 22) is not to the point, since he seems to have gone up in that instance to attend the feast of Tabernacles (Jno. vii. 2-10), and remaining some time in or near Jerusalem, to have been at the Dedication because it happened to occur during his stay. (c) "The infirm man was healed on the Sabbath (v. 9); which Sabbath belonged to the festival, as the whole context shows, v. 1, 2, 10-13. But the Purim was never celebrated on a Sabbath; and when it happened to fall on that day was regularly deferred." Andrews well says (Life of our Lord, p. 176): "It was not one of their divinely appointed feasts, nor was there any legal obligation to keep it. It was not a feast specifically religious, but patriotic; a day, making due allowance for difference in customs and institutions, not unlike the day that commemorates our own national independence. There were no special rites that made it necessary to go up to Jerusalem, and even those residing in villages where there was no synagogue were not obliged to go to a village where one was to be found. Why, then, should Jesus go up from Galilee to be present at this feast?" If the Purim be rejected, the only other tenable interpretation is the Passover. Besides the probability of this from the presence of the article (already mentioned), it seems confirmed by the account in the other three Evangelists of the plucking of the "ears of corn" on the Sabbath (Matt. xii. 1; Mar. ii. 23; Lk. vi. 1). This must have occurred soon after some Passover, when the first-fruits had been already offered, but the harvest not yet gathered; and it seems, to say the least, most natural to refer the occurrence to a time just subsequent to the feast in question. It may be added that the phrase in Jno. v. 1, "and Jesus went up to Jerusalem," implies that he went up in consequence of the feast, which must therefore have been one of the three of universal obligation; also, that the Passover having been spoken of just before as the feast (iv. 45, twice), if any other feast had been here intended, it would have been specified; and further, that only the Passover is spoken of in the Gospels as the feast (Matt. xxvi. 5; xxvii. 15; Mar. xv. 6; Lk. ii. 42; xxiii. 17). Too much stress, however, ought not to be laid upon the last point, as in every instance the context sufficiently shows what feast is meant. See an excellent note in Pusey on Daniel, Lect. iv. note 7, p. 175.

On the whole, therefore, it seems reasonable to follow the opinion of Irenæus (adv. Hær. 2, 39), — expressly bringing this text to bear on the question of the length of our Lord's ministry, — of Eusebius, Theodoret, and others among the ancients, and of Luther, Scaliger, Grotius, Lightfoot, Le Clerc, Hengstenberg, Robinson, and many more, that the feast here intended is the Passover, the second which had occurred since our Lord entered upon his public ministry.

A third Passover is expressly named in Jno. vi. 4. This renders the Bipaschal theory untenable, and it is therefore no longer of consequence to discuss whether it may not be possible to make this identical with the final Passover. Such an hypothesis is, at best, strained; and there is no longer any sufficient reason for it when a third Passover has once been admitted. It follows, therefore, that the Passover of the crucifixion was the fourth, and thus that our Saviour's ministry covered a period of something more than three years.

With this outline of the argument, it seems unnecessary to enlarge upon the many minor reasons which might be urged in favor of this view, or to spend time in answering all the unimportant difficulties that have been suggested by the ingenuity of interpreters.

But although this point be satisfactorily settled, and with it the general outline of the harmony be determined; yet it is not to be supposed that a perfect chronological arrangement in all details is attainable with the data in our possession. Everything which bears any note of time may be put in its proper place; but there will yet remain passages which, being without such note, cannot be assigned with certainty to their true chronological place. Such passages are placed in the following pages where they seem most probably to belong, but yet no disturbance would be occasioned could evidence be presented that they ought to be transposed. Indeed, the true object of a harmony is not so much the attainment of an absolutely correct chronology in every minute point, as the exhibition of the several narratives side by side for the purpose of examination and comparison.

One incidental effect of a harmony must be to present to the eye certain slight discrepancies between the several Evangelists, without the existence of which — according to the ordinary laws of human writing — it would be impossible to consider them as really independent witnesses to the truth of the evangelic story. It will be one aim of the brief notes at the foot of the page to show, as far as their limits allow, that these discrepancies are superficial only, and are consistent with entire truthfulness and accuracy on the part of each narrator. They are enough to show the independence of each, that they looked upon the events from somewhat different points of view, and wrote with different classes of readers immediately in their minds ; but on the other hand, they show a substantial unity, and that each single Gospel, in a truly wonderful way, supplements all the others. It often happens that one expresses distinctly some fact or teaching which, when expressed, may be seen to have been present to the thoughts, although passed over in the explicit narrative, of the others ; and each often furnishes the clew by which to understand what might otherwise have been obscure in the expression of another.

The uses of a Harmony in connection with the evidences of Christianity are thus apparent ; but still greater is its value in bringing together, for examination and comparison, all the accounts of the words and acts of Him on whom alone depend our peace with God on earth and our hope of eternal salvation in heaven.

As an Appendix to this General Introduction the following extract is given from a manuscript of the late Rt. Rev. Geo. Burgess, D.D., which unfortunately remains still unpublished.

“ It is affirmed by several writers of the fourth century that certain Christians actually laid the first three Gospels before St. John, and desired him to add whatever might make them more complete ; and that he did thereupon attest their truth, sanction their authority, and undertake his own Gospel. External testimony to such a fact seems unimportant ; since he could not but confirm those other books if he did not denounce them, and since the very character of his own Gospel is so decisive. It is essentially and evidently a sequel to the others ; and had they never existed, it could never have been written in its present form and with its present contents. For it contains very little of the information which would be expected in an original and independent account of the life of Jesus. It relates nothing of His birth, His childhood, His temptation ; only six of His miracles ; contains not one of His narrative parables ; no list of His Apostles, and no record of His sacramental supper, or of His ascension. It does contain, almost throughout, exactly that which the other Evangelists omitted. Matthew and Mark have substantially one and the same succession of facts and discourses, except as the more rapid narration of Mark studies abridgement. The materials from which the Gospel of St. Luke is constructed embrace almost all which were introduced by Matthew and Mark, but with manifold additions, which enhance its completeness ; but the Gospel of St. John, except in the history of the baptism of our Lord, of the miracles of the five thousand, of the walking upon the sea, of the anointing at Bethany, of the final entry into Jerusalem, and of some of the events belonging to the betrayal, crucifixion, and resurrection, studiously avoids whatever had been told before. Even when it relates something in common with the other three, it introduces some sayings preserved by him alone. His account of the crucifixion and resurrection, with the appearances which followed, is the personal narration of an eye-witness, who singles out from his own recollections what was before passed by. Everywhere the reader is supposed to be acquainted with the previous Gospels. Jesus of Nazareth is named without any mention of his abode at Nazareth; and Andrew is introduced as calling Him "Jesus of Nazareth, the son of Joseph," as if the whole of the first two chapters of Matthew or of Luke were in fresh remembrance. When St. Luke leaves behind the childhood of our Saviour, we see His mother keeping His sayings in her heart. When St. John opens the next page of the history, after the lapse of eighteen unrecorded years, she appears with the very same consciousness, anticipating a miracle at the marriage-feast at Cana. Of John the Baptist he writes, "for John was not yet cast into prison"; and yet he alone among the Evangelists does not relate the imprisonment itself, or the death of the Baptist. He mentions the objection of some of the Jews that Christ should come out of Bethlehem, without pausing to say that Bethlehem was really His birthplace, as all readers knew from Luke and Matthew. When he mentions Bethany, it is as "the town of Mary and her sister Martha"; but he has not before told us who they were. The Gospel of St. Luke had told us; and in a few words had sketched the same striking difference in their beautiful characters which is soon expanded in the larger narration of the resurrection of Lazarus. In St. Luke, Martha is encumbered about much serving, while Mary sits at the feet of Jesus, and listens to his words. In St. John, Martha still serves at the supper; and Mary anoints the feet of Jesus, and wipes them with her hair. It seems as if John had taken up, while the ink was still fresh, the pen which Luke had dropped. When our Saviour was betrayed, one of those who were with Him in the garden, having a sword, smote with it a servant of the high-priest and cut off his ear. So much is related by Matthew, who subjoins also the command of Jesus to the disciple to put up his weapon; the warning that those who took the sword should perish with the sword; the intimation that legions of angels waited but for his summons; and the question how, if he called them to his aid, the Scriptures could be fulfilled. The account of Matthew is abbreviated, as usual, by Mark, who simply states the infliction of the wound on a servant of the high-priest by one of them that stood by; and adds no more. Luke, while he repeats as little as was possible of the account of his predecessors, introduces the facts that two swords had been produced in mistaken reply to an expression of our Lord; that, under the same mistake, they who were about him now said, "Lord shall we smite with the sword?" that it was the right ear which was wounded; and that Jesus, with the words "Suffer ye thus far," touched and healed the wound. The names of the assailant and the assailed were till now suppressed; a circumstance not in itself wonderful, when it is considered how few names are inserted at all in the Gospels; but somewhat surprising when these are given at last by the fourth Evangelist. Whatever the reason was for the omission, it had ceased when the aged John reviewed the history, after all the other actors and witnesses were in the grave. He recorded that the name of the servant was Malchus, and that Peter struck the blow. St. Matthew proceeds to relate that those who had seized Jesus led Him away to the house of Caiaphas the high-priest; and St. Mark and St. Luke add nothing beside. St. John interposes the fact that He was first brought before Annas, the father-in-law of Caiaphas; thus the order of the transactions is rearranged and completed. Immediately after, he illustrates, from his personal recollections, the thrice repeated and now thrice told denial of Peter. It was John who had opened the way for his entrance through his own acquaintance with the high-priest; for, having thus entered with Jesus, he went back and desired the portress to admit his companion. It was this very portress, he says, who first questioned Peter, and called out his first denial. The second is attributed also by Matthew and Mark to the suggestions of a maid, who drew the eyes of the bystanders upon him; while Luke, not an eye-witness, takes no notice of this maid, but only of the first, a figure prominent in all the four narratives, but identified by John only as the damsel who kept the door. At the second denial, John, like Luke, disregards the second maid, but only, as Mark had done before, shows us the picture of Peter warming himself by the fire, while his soul trembles before the suspicious questions and looks of men or women. At the third denial, the other Evangelists all represent the bystanders as insisting that Peter was a Galilean, betrayed by his very accent. But John, leaving this aside, singles out the kinsman of Malchus, who had noted the face of Peter in the garden, but perhaps in the confusion and darkness had failed to observe that it was he who drew the sword, else his arraignment of Peter might have been more decisive. The narrative of John still supplies what the others had left untold, and gleans where they have reaped; but the grain is not the less golden. The first two of the Evangelists record one cry of our Lord upon the cross; the "Eli, Eli, lama sabaethani"! The third, omitting this, relates three others: the prayer, "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do"; the promise to the penitent thief, "Verily I say unto thee, to-day shalt thou be with me in Paradise"; and the surrender of life, "Father, into thy hands I commend my spirit." St. John had stood at the foot of the cross, and there supported the mother of the Lord in her anguish. He repeats the words which made him from that day a son unto her, and she to him a mother. He brings to our ears the accent of utmost distress, "I thirst," and the cry of solemn triumph, "It is finished." But how could he have omitted the still more affecting and still weightier words recorded by St. Luke, unless because he knew that they had been thus recorded already? So too, after the resurrection, he relates only events or circumstances which the three had left untold, and to which he gives all the freshness of his glowing memory. He is there once more at the dawn of day, outrunning the eager but older Peter, and yet pausing at the entrance of the sepulchre; and in this narrative we have the expansion of the merest mention by St. Luke of a visit of Peter. From such a mere mention by the other three Evangelists of Mary Magdalene as one of the women, and indeed the first, who saw the Lord, is developed by St. John the full story of that rapturous interview. So the account given by St. Luke of the appearance of our Lord to the eleven in the evening of that day, is filled out by St.

John through the introduction of the renewal of their commission, while the Saviour breathed upon them and bade them receive the Holy Ghost; and by the details of the absence and incredulity of Thomas, and of the appearance on the succeeding Sunday, when that incredulity ended. Throughout he perfects the story; and in more places than one, adds the full force of his personal asseveration, "He that saw it bear record." If his Gospel be, as it certainly is, a sequel which presupposes and completes the other three, it must also reaffirm them with all the weight which belonged to the last of the Apostles. "There were many other things which Jesus did, which, if every one of them should be written, the world itself could not contain the books that should be written." It seems like an attestation of the books which had been written already, and to which his own was immediately appended.

"But certainly the Gospel of St. John would never have been what it is, had not the Gospel of St. Luke existed before. The later yields to the earlier the support of its own authority and of its author. At the end of the first century, when St. John died, the Gospel of St. Luke had all the sanction and the certainty which could attend a record universally received as sacred. It was read by the Christian churches in their assemblies; it bore the name of an associate of St. Paul, who had possessed every opportunity for gathering up the facts, and every needful gift of the Spirit for judging, discriminating, and recording them as the counsel of God; and it has the seal of the patriarchal John, the only one who remained of those whom the Lord had chosen to be his companions, heralds, and witnesses."

On the following pages is presented a synoptical view of the various arrangements adopted by several harmonists. The order of each author is strictly preserved, but no attention is paid to their divisions into sections. A concurrence of them all is marked by underlining the type. The Harmonists selected are: GRESWELL, as the most common authority at present in England; STROUD (a London physician who spent thirty years in working out his scheme), as the independent and conscientious work of a layman little influenced by the labors of others, and free from any theological bias; ROBINSON, hitherto the almost universal authority in America; Archbishop THOMSON, in the article Gospels in Smith's Dictionary of the Bible, as giving the latest results of study in England; TISCHENDORF the latest, and best, authority in Germany; while in the last column the arrangement of the present Harmony is given for the purpose of comparison.

The eye will at once catch the points upon which all are agreed; and such points, may be considered as well settled. At the same time it will readily be seen what is the balance of opinion in regard to other passages; while in regard to a very few—after making allowance for differences occasioned by different theories in relation to the length of our Lord's ministry—it will be observed that the variations are so great as to show that the data are insufficient for a positive conclusion.

INTRODUCTORY NOTE TO PART I.

§ 9. THE Genealogies. I. Some points require to be noted, especially concerning the genealogy given by St. Matthew, before comparing this with the one given by St. Luke. 1. The first division ends with David, including him in the number 14; the second division begins with David, including him also in the second 14. This is in accordance with usage, but shows that the statement in Matt. i. 17, as to the number of the generations is meant to apply only to the list given, and not to the number which had actually existed. 2. The same thing appears from the fact that in v. 8, three names of Jewish kings are omitted between Joram and Ozias (Uzziah), viz.: Ahaziah, Joash, and Amaziah (2 Kings viii. 25, and 2 Chron. xxii. 1; 2 Kings xi. 2, 21, and 2 Chron. xxii. 11; 2 Kings xii. 21; xiv. 1, and 2 Chron. xxiv. 27). Also, between Josiah and Jechoniah in v. 11, the name of Jehoiakim is omitted (2 Kings xxiii. 34; 2 Chron. xxxvi. 4; Cf. 1 Chron. iii. 15, 16). Of the existence of these intermediate generations St. Matthew, regarded simply as a pious Jew, could not have been ignorant. Such omissions in genealogies abound in Scripture. Thus, Ezra (vii. 1-5), in recording his own genealogy, omits six or seven of the names given in 1 Chron. vi. 3-15. (Cf. also, 1 Chron. iv. 1, with ii. 50, etc.). The descent of David as given by St. Matthew (5, 6), is identical with that in Ruth, iv. 20-22, and in 1 Chron. ii. 10-12; but the Salmon mentioned in all was contemporary with Joshua and married Rahab. Three names only are given between him and David, which, in view of the time embraced, implies that as many more must have been omitted.

Again, from David at the time of Solomon's birth, to Christ, was above a thousand years, giving, according to St. Matthew's genealogy, about thirty-six years to a generation: but the same period in St. Luke has forty-three generations, or fifteen more, making less than twenty-four years to a generation. It is hardly possible that in two parallel lines there could have been so great a difference in the average time of a generation. It is apparent therefore, that St. Matthew has given simply a copy of the official register, without alteration, as was plainly required in a Gospel designed to show the Jews that Jesus was the Messiah.

II. We come now to the comparison of this genealogy with that of St. Luke. Before David they differ only in going back to different starting-points, in accordance with the different objects of the writers; but after David the two lines part, and it is plain that they can never come together again simply by natural descent. They can only unite by a constructive or legal sonship in one or the other. Again: both are in form the genealogies of Joseph; but as he could not have had two natural fathers, this must be a case of legal in contradistinction to natural paternity, or else of double names. The latter hypothesis may be at once set aside as involving a complicated series of suppositions applying not merely to the father, but also to the ancestors, of Joseph for many generations. Since, then, the parted lines can come together only by a case of legal paternity; since they do come together in Joseph; and since there must be a legal paternity in his case, it is obvious that the simplest possible supposition is that the lines are distinct to that point, and then unite by a legal or constructive sonship.

Assuming that one of the genealogies is intended to give the descent of Joseph from the official record, there can be little difficulty in determining that this has been done by St. Matthew. Moreover, it is noticeable that while he concurs with the Old Testament genealogies until after the captivity, and afterwards uses the same phrase, "begat," as far as Joseph, he then changes it in the most marked way. It is no longer Joseph who "begat;" but Joseph "the husband of Mary, of whom was born Jesus." It is unnecessary to pursue the point; there is a general agreement in considering the genealogy given by St. Matthew to be that of Joseph.

2. Is that of St. Luke the same? Some writers have so supposed, and a variety of learned and ingenious, but for the most part, cumbrous suppositions have been made to sustain this view. The student is referred to the article Genealogy, in Smith's Bible Dictionary, for one of the latest arguments (by Lord A. C. Hervey) in favor of this theory. But if St. Matthew has given the official descent of Joseph, why should St. Luke have traced another descent through an inferior line? The only assignable reason would be to furnish the actual in contradistinction to the official descent of Christ; but for this purpose the actual descent of Joseph would have been of no use whatever, inasmuch as Jesus was only legally his son. On the supposition, however, that St. Luke gives the genealogy of Mary, all becomes clear. The lines parting from David, do not need to be again joined, except officially in Joseph; and a sufficient reason appears for St. Luke's choice of a different line.

To this hypothesis there is but one objection, and it requires but one unproved assumption. The objection is, that the names of Salathiel and Zorobabel as father and son, occur in both genealogies, and may be supposed to belong to the same persons. This, however, is by no means necessary. Similar names are common in different genealogies, as may be seen even from the first in Gen. iv. and v.; and when it is remembered that in St. Matthew's genealogy there are but fourteen names between David and Salathiel, while in St. Luke's there are twenty, it seems probable that these names belong to different persons. The unproved assumption is, that Joseph by his marriage to Mary, became the heir, and therefore legally the son of Heli. And this, though not positively proved, is rendered probable by a variety of circumstances. The language of the angel in Lk. i. 32, implies that Mary was herself of the lineage of David; and the words of Lk. ii. 5, "to be enrolled with Mary," etc., seem to indicate that Mary was to be enrolled with Joseph, — a circumstance most readily explained on the supposition that she also represented a family of the descendants of David. There is no allusion in the New Testament to her having had brothers; and as St. Luke, in his diligent inquiries, must have derived his account of the circumstances connected with the birth of Jesus directly or indirectly from the Virgin Mary, it seems altogether likely that he would at the same time have obtained this, her private genealogical tree.

But even this supposition, probable as it is, is not necessary. The words of St. Luke admit perfectly well of being read — "being (as was supposed son of Joseph) son of Eli"; i.e. he was supposed to be the son of Joseph, but was really the son (grandson) of Eli. In this case the whole clause "as was supposed of Joseph," is parenthetical, and the grandfather's name is given because, there being no natural father, he was the nearest male progenitor. This view is ably defended by Andrews (Life of our Lord, 4th ed., pp. 57–59) and is that of Lightfoot and many others. Lightfoot refers to a similar instance in Gen. xxxvi. 2, "Abolibamah the daughter of Anah the daughter of Libeon." As it appears from vv. 24, 25, that Anah was a man and the father of children, it is evident that the second daughter must be connected, like the first, with Abolibamah and must mean grand-daughter. Lightfoot also finds some evidence in Jewish tradition that Mary was the daughter of Heli.

THE INCARNATION, BIRTH, AND CHILDHOOD OF OUR LORD.

§ 1. Preface to St. John's Gospel.

ST. JOHN I. 1-18.

<sup>1</sup> IN the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the <sup>2</sup> Word was God. The same was in the beginning with God. All things were <sup>4</sup> made by him; and without him was not anything made that was made. In <sup>5</sup> him is <sup>1</sup> life: and the life was the light of men. And the light shineth in darkness; and the darkness comprehended it not.

<sup>6</sup> There was a man sent from God, whose name was John. The same came for a witness, to bear witness of the Light, that all men through him might <sup>8</sup> believe. He was not that Light, but was sent to bear witness of that Light.

<sup>9</sup> That was the true Light, which lighteth every man that cometh into the <sup>10</sup> world. He was in the world, and the world was made by him, and the world <sup>11</sup> knew him not. He came unto his own, and his own received him not. But <sup>12</sup> as many as received him, to them gave he power to become the sons of God, <sup>13</sup> even to them that believe on his name: which were born, not of blood, nor <sup>14</sup> of the will of the flesh, nor of the will of man, but of God. And the Word was made flesh, and dwelt among us, (and we beheld his glory,<sup>a</sup> the glory as of the only-begotten of the Father,) full of grace and truth.

<sup>15</sup> John bare witness of him, and cried, saying, This was he of whom I spake,
He that cometh after me is preferred before me: for he was before me.
<sup>17</sup> law was given by Moses, but grace and truth came by Jesus Christ. No man hath seen God at any time; the only-begotten Son, which is in the bosom of the Father, he hath declared him.

§ 3. Gabriel announces to Zacharias the Birth of John.—Jerusalem.

ST. LUKE I. 5-25.

5 There was in the days of Herod, the king of Judæa, a certain priest named Zacharias, of the course of Abia: and his wife was of the daughters of Aaron,
 6 and her name was Elizabeth. And they were both righteous before God, walking in all the commandments and ordinances of the Lord blameless.
 7 And they had no child, because that Elizabeth was barren, and they both 8 were now well stricken in years. And it came to pass, that while he executed 9 the priest's office before God in the order of his course, 'according to the custom of the priest's office, his lot was to burn incense when he went into 10 the temple of the Lord. And the whole multitude of the people were praying 11 without at the time of incense. And there appeared unto him an angel of 12 the Lord standing on the right side of the altar of incense. And when 13 Zacharias saw him, he was troubled, and fear fell upon him. But the angel said unto him, Fear not, Zacharias: for thy prayer is heard; and thy wife 14 Elizabeth shall bear thee a son, and thou shalt call his name John. And 15 thou shalt have joy and gladness; and many shall rejoice at his birth. For he shall be great in the sight of the Lord, and shall drink neither wine nor strong drink; and he shall be filled with the Holy Ghost, even from his 16 mother's womb. And many of the children of Israel shall he turn to the 17 Lord their God. And he shall go before him in the spirit and power of Elias, to turn the hearts of the fathers to the children, and the disobedient to the wisdom of the just; to make ready a people prepared for the Lord. And Zacharias said unto the angel, Whereby shall I know this? for I am an old 18 man, and my wife well stricken in years. And the angel answering said unto him, I am Gabriel, that stand in the presence of God; and am sent to speak 19 unto thee, and to shew thee these glad tidings. And, behold! thou shalt be dumb, and not able to speak, until the day that these things shall be performed, because thou believest not my words, which shall be fulfilled in their season.
 20 And the people waited for Zacharias, and marvelled that he tarried so long 21 in the temple. And when he came out, he could not speak unto them: and they perceived that he had seen a vision in the temple; for he beckoned unto them, and remained speechless.
 22 And it came to pass, that, as soon as the days of his ministration were

§ 3. It has hitherto been found impracticable to determine the time of the service of Zacharias from the order of the courses of the priests. After their original appointment by David (1 Chron. xxiv. 7-18) and Solomon (2 Chron. viii. 14), the disorders of the times and consequent changes in those courses were so great, that it is impossible to rely upon such calculations.

 25 Elizabeth conceived, and hid herself five months, saying, "Thus hath the Lord

ST. LUKE I. 26-38.

26 And in the sixth month the angel Gabriel was sent from God unto a city 27 of Galilee, named Nazareth, to a virgin espoused to a man whose name was 28 Joseph, of the house of David; and the virgin's name was Mary. And the angel came in unto her, and said, Hail! thou that art highly favored, the Lord 29 is with thee.<sup>1</sup> And she was troubled at the<sup>2</sup> saying, and cast in her mind 30 what manner of salutation this should be. And the angel said unto her, Fear 31 not, Mary: for thou hast found favor with God. And, behold! thou shalt conceive in thy womb, and bring forth a son,<sup>a</sup> and shalt call his name JESUS.
 32 He shall be great, and shall be called the Son of the Highest: and the Lord 33 God shall give unto him the throne of his father David: and he shall reign over the house of Jacob for ever; and of his kingdom there shall be no end.<sup>b</sup> 34 Then said Mary unto the angel, How shall this be, seeing I know not a man?
 35 And the angel answered and said unto her, The Holy Ghost shall come upon thee, and the power of the Highest shall overshadow thee: therefore also that holy thing which shall be born of thee shall be called the Son of God.
 36 And, behold! thy cousin Elizabeth, she hath also conceived a son in her old 37 age: and this is the sixth month with her, who was called barren. For with 38 God nothing shall be impossible. And Mary said, Behold the handmaid of the Lord; be it unto me according to thy word. And the angel departed from her.

§ 5. Mary visits Elizabeth.— Hill Country of Judaea.

ST. LUKE I. 39-56.

39 And Mary arose in those days, and went into the hill country with haste, 40 into a city of Juda; and entered into the house of Zacharias, and saluted 41 Elizabeth. And it came to pass, that, when Elizabeth heard the salutation of Mary, the babe leaped in her womb; and Elizabeth was filled with the Holy 42 Ghost: and she spake out with a loud cry,<sup>3</sup> and said, Blessed art thou among 43 women! and blessed is the fruit of thy womb! and whence is this to me, 44 that the mother of my Lord should come to me? for lo! as soon as the voice of thy salutation sounded in mine ears, the babe leaped in my womb for joy.

ST. LUKE I. 57-80.

57 Now Elizabeth's full time came that she should be delivered; and she brought 58 forth a son. And her neighbors and her cousins heard how the Lord had shewed great mercy upon her; and they rejoiced with her.

59 And it came to pass, that on the eighth day they came to circumcise the 60 child;<sup>c</sup> and they called him Zacharias, after the name of his father. And his 61 mother answered and said, Not so; but he shall be called John. And they 62 said unto her, There is none of thy kindred that is called by this name. And 63 they made signs to his father, how he would have it<sup>1</sup> called. And he asked for a writing-table, and wrote, saying, His name is John. And they marvelled 64 all. And his mouth was opened immediately, and his tongue loosed, and he 65 spake, and praised God. And fear came on all that dwelt round about them; and all these sayings were noised abroad throughout all the hill country of § 7. An Angel appears to Joseph in a dream.—*Nazareth.*ST. MATT. I. 18–25<sup>a</sup>.

- 18 Now the birth of Jesus Christ was on this wise : When as his mother Mary was espoused to Joseph, before they came together, she was found with child 19 of the Holy Ghost. Then Joseph her husband, being a just man, and not 20 willing to make her an <sup>4</sup>example, was minded to put her away privily.<sup>c</sup> But while he thought on these things, behold ! the angel of the Lord appeared unto him in a dream, saying, Joseph, thou son of David, fear not to take unto thee Mary thy wife : for that which is conceived in her is of the Holy Ghost.
 21 And she shall bring forth a son, and thou shalt call his name JESUS ; for he went out a decree from Cæsar Augustus, that 2 all the world should be taxed. (And this taxing was first made when Cyrenius was governor of 3 Syria.) And all went to be taxed, every one

 Judæa, unto the city of David, which is called Bethlehem; (because he was of the house and § 8. The question of the date of the birth of Christ cannot be here discussed. A large collection of authorities on the subject may be found in Jarvis's Introd. to the Hist. of the Ch. The most commonly accepted date is B.C. 4, some scholars placing it a year or two earlier, others a little later. The present era was fixed by Dionysius Exiguus in the sixth century, was first used in history by Bede early in the eighth, and soon after introduced into public transactions by Pepin and Charlemagne.

Discussions have been almost endless also in regard to the time of the year of our Lord's birth; and the subject must be passed by with the same general reference. Meantime there seems no sufficient reason for giving up the date, Dec. 25th, so long and so generally observed; and which agrees well with such indications as we have of the time, even though it be now impossible to decide positively upon its accuracy on other than traditional grounds. It appears from St. Augustine that this day was observed in the West in his time as an ancient custom; and from St. Chrysostom — who glowingly advocates the accuracy of the date — that it was introduced into the East from the West about A.D. 376 and its observance spread rapidly and widely. Some evidence in its favor may be found collected in Selden's very learned work, "A Tract proving the Nativity of our Saviour to be on the 25th of December."

The clause in Luke ii. 2, "this taxing was first made," has also occasioned discussion. Suffice it here to say that taxing and to be taxed may, and probably must, mean enrolment with a view to taxation. See J. Von Gumpach's "The Gospel Narrative vindicated, or the Roman Census, Lk. ii. 1-5, explained, etc." (London: S. Bagster and Sons). He argues that by a collation of several statements of ancient authors, the fact of such an enrolment at this very time is proved. He also notes that the census being Roman, yet carried into effect under Herod, was necessarily marked by both Roman and Jewish characteristics; the former in the registration of women and children, the latter in obliging each one to be registered "in his own city." Cyrenius, or as the name reads in the Latin records, Publius Sulpicius Quirinus, under whom St. Luke says the enrolment took place, was made governor of Syria after the banishment of Archelans, in A.D. 6 (Joseph. Ant. xvii. [xv] 13, § 5; xviii. 1, § 1); thus apparently showing an anachronism of some ten years. The researches of Zumpt, however, have made it highly probable that Cyrenius was twice governor of Syria, and that his first governorship extended from about B.C. 4 to B.C. 1.

§ 9. For remarks on these Genealogies see Introductory note to Part I. pp. 1-4. An incidental advantage of the reversion of the order of St. Luke is that it allows of the omission of the words "which was the son" with each name. These are not contained in the Greek; and when omitted, it is easier to see the ground of that interpretation which considers the Evangelist as saying that "Jesus was (as was supposed) the son of Joseph; but really of Heli, of Melchi, of Janna, . . . of God."

ST. MATT. II. 1-12.

1 Now when Jesus was born in Bethlehem of Judæa in the days of Herod
 2 the king, behold! there came wise men from the east to Jerusalem, <sup>1</sup>saying,
 Where is he that is born King of the Jews? for we have seen his star<sup>b</sup> in the 3 east, and are come to worship him. When Herod the king had heard these 4 things, he was troubled, and all Jerusalem with him. And when he had gathered all the chief priests and scribes of the people together, he demanded 5 of them where Christ should be born. And they said unto him, In Bethlehem 6 of Judæa: for thus it is written by the prophet,<sup>c</sup> 'And thou Bethlehem, in the land of Juda, art not the least among the princes of Juda: for out of thee 7 shall come a Governor, that shall rule my people Israel. Then Herod, when he had privily called the wise men, enquired of them diligently what time the § 12. The presentation (§ 11) is placed before the visit of the Magi, because it could hardly have taken place after the events connected with that visit. St. Luke passes over all that occurred between the presentation and the return to Nazareth; but it would be an excessive precision which should consider 'when' in v. 39 as precluding those occurrences. As Bethlehem was but a couple of hours walk from Jerusalem, a departure from the one is much the same as from the other in view of a more distant journey. A comparison of both narratives is very necessary to a full knowledge of the events. Each is the complement of the other.

 9 again, that I may come and worship him also. When they had heard the king, they departed; and, lo! the star, which they saw in the east, went 10 before them, till it came and stood over where the young child was. When 11 they saw the star, they rejoiced with exceeding great joy. And when they were come into the house, they saw the young child with Mary his mother, and fell down, and worshipped him: and when they had opened their treasures, 12 they presented unto him gifts; gold, and frankincense, and myrrh. And being warned of God in a dream that they should not return to Herod, they departed into their own country another way.

ST. MATT. II. 13-18.

13 And when they were departed, behold! the angel of the Lord appeareth to Joseph in a dream, saying, Arise, and take the young child and his mother, and flee into Egypt, and be thou there until I bring thee word: for Herod 14 will seek the young child to destroy him. When he arose, he took the young
 15 child and his mother by night, and departed into Egypt: and was there until the death of Herod: that it might be fulfilled which was spoken of the Lord by the prophet, saying, Out of Egypt have I called my Son.<sup>a</sup>
 16 Then Herod, when he saw that he was mocked of the wise men, was exceeding wroth, and sent forth, and slew all the children that were in Bethlehem, and in all the coasts thereof, from two years old and under, according to the nature of the air and the water at that season, is abundantly shown by Andrews, Life of our Lord, pp. 33-35 (4th ed.). The traditional day (January 6th) seems quite as likely as any other suggested. The difference in the record of the words pronounced by the heavenly voice in Matt. iii. 17, as compared with the parallel places, seems almost too slight to require notice. It is, however, made the occasion, by Robinson, for the following excellent note which is quoted from his Harmony (p. 187) : " A like difference is seen in the four copies of the title on the cross, Matt. xxvii. 37 ; Mar. xv. 26 ; Lk. xxiii. 38 ; Jno. xix. 19. And still more, in the solemn words of our Lord at the institution of the cup, Matt. xxvi. 28 ; Mar. xiv. 24 ; Lk. xxii. 20 ; 1 Cor. xi. 25. Similar varieties of expression in the different reports of the same language are found in the following passages, as well as very many others : Matt. iii. 11 = Mar. i. 7 = Lk. iii. 16 = Jno. i. 27. Matt. ix. 11 = Mar. v. 16 = Lk. v. 30. Matt. xv. 27 = Mar. vii. 28. Matt. xvi. 6-9 = Mar. viii. 17-19. Matt. xx. 33 = Mar. x. 51 = Lk. xviii. 41. Matt. xxi. 9 = Mar. xi. 9 = Lk. xix. 38. Matt. xxvi. 39 = Mar. xiv. 36 = Lk. xxii. 42. Matt. xxviii. 5, 6 = Mar. xvi. 6 = Lk. xxiv. 5, 6. All these examples go only to show that when the Evangelists profess to record the expressions used by our Lord and others, they usually give them according to the sense, and not according to the letter. As Le Clerc expresses it : ' The Apostles seek rather to express the sense than the words.' Harm. p. 518." Of course some allowance is to be made for the transfer of the original expressions into Greek ; but an examination of the above passages abundantly shows that this alone will not fully explain the facts.
 17 time which he had diligently enquired of the wise men. Then was fulfilled

ST. LUKE IV. 1-13.

1 Then was Jesus led up of the Spirit into the wilderness to be tempted of the devil.
2 And when he had fasted forty days and forty nights, he was afterward au hungered.

3 And when the tempter came to him, he said, If thou be the Son of God, command that these stones be made

5 Then the devil taketh him up into the holy city, and set<sup>b</sup> him on a pinnacle of the § 18. The occurrence of the temptation immediately after the baptism seems indicated by the narrative, Jno. i. 29-44, as well as by the 'immediately' of St. Mark. The difference in the order of the temptations in St. Matthew and St. Luke is perhaps designed to show that these are but instances of the multitude of temptations with which our Lord was assailed.

And he answered, No. Then said they unto him, Who art thou? that we may give an answer to them that sent us. What sayest thou of thyself? He said, I am the voice of one crying in the wilderness, Make straight the way of the Lord, <sup>24</sup> as said the prophet Esaias.<sup>b</sup> And they<sup>2</sup> were sent of the Pharisees. And they asked him, and said unto him, Why baptizest thou then, if thou be not <sup>26</sup> that Christ, nor Eliás, neither that prophet? <sup>29</sup> The next day he<sup>5</sup> seeth Jesus coming unto him, and saith, Behold the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world! This is he of whom I said, After me cometh a man which is preferred before me: for he was before me. <sup>31</sup> And I knew him not; but that he should be made manifest to Israel, therefore <sup>32</sup> am I come baptizing with water. And I knew him not: but he that sent me to baptize with water, the same said unto me, Upon whom thou shalt see the Spirit descending, and remaining on him, <sup>34</sup> the same is he which baptizeth with the Holy Ghost. And I saw, and bare record that this is the Son of God.

<sup>38</sup> Jesus<sup>7</sup> turned, and saw them following, and saith unto them, What seek ye? They said unto him, Rabbi, (which is to say, being interpreted, Master), where <sup>39</sup> dwellest thou? He saith unto them, Come and ye shall see.<sup>8</sup> They came, therefore<sup>9</sup> and saw where he dwelt, and abode with him that day: it<sup>10</sup> was about <sup>40</sup> the tenth hour. One of the two which heard John speak, and followed him, <sup>41</sup> was Andrew, Simon Peter's brother. He first findeth his own brother Simon, and saith unto him, We have found the Messias, which is, being interpreted,

43 The day following he<sup>5</sup> would go forth into Galilee, and findeth Philip, and 44 Jesus<sup>6</sup> saith unto him, Follow me. Now Philip was of Bethsaida, the city 45 of Andrew and Peter. Philip findeth Nathanael, and saith unto him, We have found him, of whom Moses in the law, and the prophets did write, Jesus of 46 Nazareth, the son of Joseph. Nathanael<sup>7</sup> said unto him, Can there any good thing come out of Nazareth? Philip saith unto him, Come and see!
47 Jesus saw Nathanael coming to him, and saith of him, Behold an Israelite 48 indeed, in whom is no guile! Nathanael saith unto him, Whence knowest thou me? Jesus answered and said unto him, Before that Philip called 49 thee, when thou wast under the fig tree, I saw thee. Nathanael answered 50 him,<sup>8</sup> Rabbi! thou art the Son of God; thou art the King of Israel. Jesus answered and said unto him, Because I said unto thee, I saw thee under the 51 fig tree, believest thou? thou shalt see greater things than these. And he saith unto him, Verily, verily, I say unto you,<sup>9</sup> ye shall see heaven open, and the angels of God ascending and descending upon the Son of Man.

§ 22. The Marriage at Cana, and Departure to Capernaum.

ST. JOHN II. 1-12.

1 And the third day there was a marriage in Cana of Galilee; and the mother
2 of Jesus was there: and both Jesus was called, and his disciples, to the marriage. And<sup>10</sup> they had no wine, because the wine of the marriage was finished.
3 Then the mother of Jesus saith unto him, There<sup>11</sup> is no wine. Jesus saith unto her, Woman, what have I to do with thee? mine hour is not yet come.
4 His mother saith unto the servants, Whatsoever he saith unto you, do. And there were set there six waterpots of stone, after the manner of the purifying
5 of the Jews, containing two or three firkins apiece. Jesus saith unto them,

§ 22. The third day may refer back to i. 44, as two days would suffice for the journey, which could not have been above fifty miles; or it may have reference to the time of his arrival in Galilee. "Cana, now Kāna el-Jelil, was situated about seven miles north of Nazareth, and about three miles N. by E. of Sepphoris." See Robinson's Bibl. Res. in Palest. III. p. 204.

PART III.

OUR LORD'S FIRST PASSOVER AND THE EVENTS UNTIL HIS SECOND.

§ 23. At the Passover Jesus purifies the Temple. — Jerusalem.

ST. JOHN II. 13-25.

13 And the Jews' passover was at hand, and Jesus went up to Jerusalem, 14 and found in the temple those that sold oxen and sheep and doves, and the 15 changers of money sitting: And when he had made a scourge of small cords, he drove them all out of the temple, and the sheep, and the oxen; and poured 16 out the changer's money, and overthrew the tables; And said unto them that sold doves, Take these things hence! make not my Father's house an house
thine house eateth me up.<sup>2</sup>

18 Then answered the Jews and said unto him, What sign shewest thou unto 19 us, seeing that thou doest these things? Jesus answered and said unto them, 20 Destroy this temple, and in three days I will raise it up. Then said the Jews, Forty and six years was this temple in building, and wilt thou rear it up in 21 three days? But he spake of the temple of his body. When therefore he 22 was risen from the dead, his disciples remembered that he had said this;<sup>3</sup> and they believed the scripture, and the word which Jesus had said.

23 Now when he was in Jerusalem at the passover, in the feast day, many 24 believed in his name, when they saw the miracles which he did. But Jesus 25 did not commit himself unto them, because he knew all men, And needed not that any should testify of man; for he knew what was in man.

§ 23. In Matt. iv. 12; Mar. i. 14; Lk. iv. 14 (§ 26) it is said that Jesus returned into Galilee, implying a previous absence. This succeeds the account of the temptation, but evidently did not immediately follow it; for the two former Gospels say expressly that it was after the imprisonment of John the Baptist. Now St. John tells us (§ 19) that our Lord went into Galilee on the next day after the Baptist's public testimony to him. The Baptist, therefore, had not then been imprisoned, nor was he for some time afterwards. Cf. Jno. iii. 22-24; iv. 1-3. Hence the return mentioned by the other Evangelists refers to some subsequent return, and most probably to that from the Passover of Jno. ii. 13. Thus they imply the attendance at the Passover which St. John alone mentions.

In regard to the purification of the temple here mentioned and that recorded by the other

ST. JOHN III. 1-21.

1 There was a man of the Pharisees named Nicodemus, a ruler of the Jews :
 2 The same came to him<sup>1</sup> by night, and said unto him, Rabbi, we know that thou art a teacher come from God : for no man can do these miracles that thou doest, except God be with him.

3 Jesus answered and said unto him, Verily, verily, I say unto thee, Except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God.

4 Nicodemus saith unto him, How can a man be born when he is old? can he 5 enter the second time into his mother's womb, and be born? Jesus answered, Verily, verily, I say unto thee, Except a man be born of water and of the 6 Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God. That which is born of the 7 flesh is flesh; and that which is born of the Spirit is spirit. Marvel not 8 that I said unto thee, Ye must be born again. The wind bloweth where it listeth, and thou hearest the sound thereof, but canst not tell whence it cometh, and whither it goeth : so is every one that is born of the Spirit.

9 Nicodemus answered and said unto him, How can these things be?

10 Jesus answered and said unto him, Art thou a master of Israel, and knowest 11 not these things? Verily, verily, I say unto thee, We speak that we do know, 12 and testify that we have seen; and ye receive not our witness. If I have told you earthly things, and ye believe not, how shall ye believe, if I tell you of 13 heavenly things? And no man hath ascended up to heaven, but he that came 14 down from heaven, even the Son of man which is in heaven. And as Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness,<sup>a</sup> even so must the Son of man be lifted 15 up : that whosoever believeth in him<sup>2</sup> should have eternal life. For God so 16 loved the world, that he gave the<sup>3</sup> only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth
 17 in him should not perish, but have everlasting life. For God sent not the<sup>3</sup>
 Son into the world to condemn the world; but that the world through him 18 might be saved. He that believeth on him is not condemned :<sup>4</sup> he that believeth not is condemned already, because he hath not believed in the name 19 of the only begotten Son of God. And this is the condemnation, that light is come into the world, and men loved darkness rather than light, because their

Evangelists (see § 114) it must now be considered as settled by common agreement that they refer to different events. The notes of time, in either case, are sufficiently definite, this being placed by St. John near the beginning, and that by the Synoptical Evangelists at the close, of our Lord's ministry. The distinguishing circumstances are somewhat different, and there is no improbability that there should have been occasion for the repetition of such an act after so long an interval, nor that it should have been repeated. That St. John should have mentioned only one, while the earlier Evangelists mention only the other, is a natural consequence of the supplementary character of his Gospel, for the most part forbearing to repeat what has been already told by them, and calling attention to such important incidents as they had left unnoticed.

ST. JOHN III.

deeds were evil. For every one that doeth evil hateth the light, neither cometh to the light, lest his deeds should be reproved. But he that doeth truth cometh to the light, that his deeds may be made manifest, that they are wrought in God.

§ 25. Our Lord Baptizes in the Country of Judæa. Further Testimony of John, while still Baptizing.

ST. JOHN III. 22-36.

After these things came Jesus and his disciples into the land of Judæa; and there he tarried with them and baptized. And John also was baptizing in Ænon near to Salim, because there was much water there: and they came, and were baptized. For John was not yet cast into prison.

Then there arose a question between some of John's disciples and a Jew<sup>1</sup> about purifying. And they came unto John, and said unto him, Rabbi, he that was with thee beyond Jordan, to whom thou barest witness, behold! the same baptizeth, and all men come to him. John answered and said, A man can receive nothing except it be given him from heaven. Ye yourselves bear me witness, that I said, I am not the Christ, but that I am sent before him. He that hath the bride is the bridegroom: but the friend of the bridegroom, which standeth and heareth him, rejoiceth greatly because of the bridegroom's voice: this my joy therefore is fulfilled. He must increase, but I must decrease. He that cometh from above is above all: he that is of the earth is earthly, and speaketh of the earth: he that cometh from heaven testifieth<sup>2</sup> what he hath seen and heard, and no man receiveth his testimony. He that hath received his testimony hath set to his seal that God is true. For he whom God hath sent speaketh the words of God: for he<sup>3</sup> giveth not the Spirit by measure unto him. The Father loveth the Son, and hath given all things into his hand. He that believeth on the Son hath everlasting life: he<sup>4</sup> that believeth not the Son shall not see life; but the wrath of God abideth on him.

§ 26. The seizing of John the Baptist is mentioned by St. Mark as having taken place some time before. The account is placed here because of its parallelism with the other Evangelists; but, of course, this is not to be considered as any real exception to the accuracy of chronological sequence preserved throughout by St. Mark.

7 There cometh a woman of Samaria to draw water: Jesus saith unto her, 8 Give me to drink. (For his disciples were gone away unto the city to buy 9 meat.) Saith<sup>1</sup> the woman of Samaria unto him, How is it that thou, being a Jew, askest drink of me, which am a woman of Samaria?<sup>2</sup>

10 Jesus answered and said unto her, If thou knewest the gift of God, and who it is that saith to thee, Give me to drink; thou wouldest have asked of him, 11 and he would have given thee living water. The woman saith unto him, Sir, thou hast nothing to draw with, and the well is deep: from whence then hast 12 thou that living water? Art thou greater than our father Jacob, which gave us the well, and drank thereof himself, and his children, and his cattle?

13 Jesus answered and said unto her, Whosoever drinketh of this water shall 14 thirst again; but whosoever drinketh of the water that I shall give him shall never thirst; but the water that I shall give him shall be in him a well of 15 water springing up into everlasting life. The woman saith unto him, Sir, give me this water, that I thirst not, neither come hither to draw.

16 He<sup>3</sup> saith unto her, Go, call thy husband, and come hither. The woman 17 answered and said, I have no husband.

18 Jesus said unto her, Thou hast well said, I have no husband: for thou hast had five husbands; and he whom thou now hast is not thy husband: in 19 that saidst thou truly. The woman saith unto him, Sir, I perceive that thou 20 art a prophet. Our fathers worshipped in this mountain; and ye say, that in Jerusalem is the place where men ought to worship.

21 Jesus saith unto her, Woman, believe me, the hour cometh, when ye shall 22 neither in this mountain, nor yet at Jerusalem, worship the Father. Ye worship ye know not what: we know what we worship: for salvation is of the 23 Jews. But the hour cometh, and now is, when the true worshippers shall worship the Father in spirit and in truth: for the Father seeketh such to 24 worship him. God is a spirit; and they that worship<sup>4</sup> must worship in spirit 25 and in truth. The woman saith unto him, I know that Messias cometh, (which is called Christ:) when he is come, he will tell us all things.

26 Jesus saith unto her, I that speak unto thee am he. And upon this came 27 his disciples, and marvelled that he talked with the woman: yet no man said, 28 What seekest thou? or, Why talkest thou with her? The woman, then left 29 her waterpot, and went her way into the city, and saith to the men, Come, see a man, which told me all things that ever I did: is not this the Christ? 30 They<sup>5</sup> went out of the city, and came unto him.

§ 27. ver. 35. This gives an important, though not very precise, indication of the time. The first-fruits of the harvest were by the law (Lev. xxiii. 5, 10, 11, etc.) to be offered on the morrow after the paschal Sabbath. This is said to refer to the barley harvest (Robinson, Bibl. Res. in Palest. II. p. 99 sq.), the wheat harvest being two or three weeks later. The reference here must be to the earlier harvest, the harvest, of which mention is made in Leviticus. Hence this journey, four months before, took place somewhere about the beginning of December. This gives a probable duration of a year and six months to the ministry of John before his imprisonment.

§ 29. The healing of the Son of a Nobleman of Capernaum at Cana.

<sup>47</sup> When he heard that Jesus was come out of Judæa into Galilee, he went unto him and besought him<sup>2</sup> that he would come down, and heal his son : for he <sup>48</sup> was at the point of death. Then said Jesus unto him, Except ye see signs <sup>49</sup> and wonders, ye will not believe. The nobleman saith unto him, Sir, come <sup>50</sup> down ere my child die. Jesus saith unto him, Go thy way ; thy son liveth.

<sup>3</sup>The man believed the word that Jesus had spoken unto him, and he went <sup>51</sup> his way. And as he was now going down, the<sup>4</sup> servants met him, and told <sup>52</sup> him, that his<sup>5</sup> son liveth. Then enquired he of them the hour when he began to amend. And they said unto him, Yesterday at the seventh hour the fever <sup>53</sup> left him. So the father knew that it was at the same hour, in the which Jesus said unto him, Thy son liveth : and himself believed, and his whole <sup>54</sup> house. This is again the second miracle that Jesus did, when he was come out of Judæa into Galilee.

ministry. The arrangement of Robinson and Thomson is here followed, in opposition to that of Tischendorf, inasmuch as all the accounts seem to present this as the entrance, in Galilee, of our Lord upon his public work of preaching, and it seems more natural to place this before the miracle mentioned in § 29.

§ 30. This visit to Nazareth was before our Lord's taking up his abode at Capernaum (Matt. iv. 13 ; Lk. iv. 31). In Matt. xiii. 54-58 ; Mar. vi. 1-6 (§ 58) we have the record of a subsequent visit, and repeated rejection. It is very noticeable that this is the first record of any open opposition to our Lord, and occurred in the town in which he had been brought up. Hitherto, whatever dislike any had felt to his teaching, there had been no public manifestation of it.

And he closed the book, and he gave it again to the minister, and sat down. And the eyes of all them that were in the synagogue were fastened on him.

21 And he began to say unto them, This day is this scripture fulfilled in your ears. And all bare him witness, and wondered at the gracious words which proceeded out of his mouth. And they said, Is not this Joseph's son? <sup>22</sup> And he said unto them, Ye will surely say unto me this proverb, Physician, heal thyself: whatsoever we have heard done in Capernaum, do also here in thy <sup>23</sup> country. And he said, Verily I say unto you, No prophet is accepted in his <sup>24</sup> own country. But I tell you of a truth, many widows were in Israel in the days of Elias, when the heaven was shut up three years and six months,<sup>b</sup> when <sup>25</sup> great famine was throughout all the land; but unto none of them was Elias sent, save unto Sarepta,<sup>c</sup> a city of Sidon, unto a woman that was a widow. <sup>26</sup> And many lepers were in Israel in the time of Eliseus the prophet; and none <sup>27</sup> of them was cleansed, saving<sup>d</sup> Naaman the Syrian. And all they in the syn- <sup>28</sup> agogue, when they heard these things, were filled with wrath, and rose up, and thrust him out of the city, and led him unto the brow of the hill whereon <sup>29</sup> their city was built, that they might cast him down headlong. <sup>a</sup> Jno. i. 40-44.

§ 32. How long subsequent this primary call of the four apostles was to the interview with three of them mentioned in Jno. i. 40-42, it would be difficult to determine with precision, as well as how long it preceded the final definite choice of the twelve from among the whole number of the disciples (Matt. x. 2-4 ; Mar. iii. 13-19 ; vi. 12-19), because data are wanting for the exact determination of the time of the events in this section. It is evident, however, that this was not our Lord's first meeting with these disciples, and it may very naturally have happened that they had had many other interviews with him besides the one recorded by St. John.

There must probably have been a peculiar intimacy between those thus for a time associated with Jesus before others were called (with which also their natural relationship to each other harmonized) and a peculiar relation to their Lord. Accordingly it is found in many of the subsequent events that three of them, Peter, James, and John, were singled out from among the rest of the Apostles to stand especially near to Jesus.

On the differences in this narrative between St. Luke and the other Evangelists, the remark here quoted by Robinson from Spanheim (Dubia Evang. Tom. III. Dub. 72. vii.) is excellent : "The things related by St. Luke are not denied by St. Matthew, but only passed over. Nothing indeed is more common than that what is passed over by one, is supplied by another ; lest, either the sacred writers should seem to have written by agreement, or the readers should cling to one of them, the others being despised."

§ 37. The feast of Levi is here placed next after his call (although it may not have occurred on the same day), in accordance with the order of the narrative in all three Evangelists, which order seems also in itself the most natural and probable. There is no reason to suppose that the teaching at this feast extended beyond the limits of this section ; indeed the circumstances which led to the discourse on fasting render it more likely that this discourse was held on another occasion. It is accordingly placed by itself in the following section.

For I desired mercy; and not sacrifice. Cf. Matt. xii. 7.

§ 38. The discourse concerning fasting here follows in the order in which it is placed by all the Evangelists who record it. It is, however, very difficult to determine the time when it was uttered. Were this to be decided by a reference exclusively to St. Matthew it must be placed just before the healing of the daughter of Jairus, inasmuch as he says (ix. 18) that Jairus came to him "while he spake these things." But the healing of Jairus' daughter did not take place until a long time after this, when Jesus had crossed the sea of Galilee and returned (Mar. v. 21, 22; Lk. viii. 40, 41). On the other hand, if this discourse be placed there, the order of both St. Mark and St. Luke would be disturbed; and St. Mark is always careful to observe chronological order. Perhaps the true solution is to be found in the fact that our Lord often encountered this same attempt to mingle the dead letter of the old ceremonial with the living spirit of his Gospel, and may therefore have repeated these same comparisons more than once. St. Matthew, like the other Evangelists, has recorded them only as they were uttered in answer to the question about fasting, and then very naturally goes on to speak of what happened on occasion of a subsequent repetition of them; cf. note on §§ 51, 52.

It having been assumed that § 38 formed part of the same discourse with that in § 37, great difficulty has generally been felt by Harmonists. Robinson, like Newcome, postpones the feast

And no man putteth new wine into old bottles: else the new wine will burst the bottles, and be spilled, and the bottles shall<sup>38</sup> perish. of Levi until just before the healing of Jairus' daughter, which seems unnatural, and disturbs the order of all the Evangelists at once. Greswell (Dissert. vol. II. diss. x. p. 358-368) considers St. Matthew's narrative to relate to a different feast and different discourse from that of the other Evangelists. It is hoped the above suggestions may at least lessen the difficulty.

PART IV.

OUR LORD'S SECOND PASSOVER, AND THE EVENTS UNTIL THE THIRD.

§ 39. Our Lord comes to Jerusalem at the Feast; heals an infirm man at the Pool of Bethesda; and teaches.

ST. JOHN V. 1-47.

- 1 After this there was the<sup>1</sup> feast of the Jews; and Jesus went up to Jerusalem.
2 Now there is at Jerusalem by the sheep market a pool, which is called in the 3 Hebrew tongue Bethesda, having five porches. In these lay a<sup>2</sup> multitude of 5 impotent folk, of blind, halt, withered.<sup>3</sup> And a certain man was there, which 6 had his<sup>4</sup> infirmity thirty and eight years. When Jesus saw him lie, and knew that he had been now a long time in that case, he saith unto him, Wilt thou 7 be made whole? The impotent man answered him, Sir, I have no man, when the water is troubled, to put me into the pool: but while I am coming, another 8 steppeth down before me. Jesus saith unto him, Rise, take up thy bed, and 9 walk. And<sup>5</sup> the man was made whole, and took up his bed, and walked: and on the same day was the Sabbath.
10 The Jews therefore said unto him that was cured, It is the Sabbath day, 11 and<sup>6</sup> it is not lawful for thee to carry thy bed. He answered them, He that 12 made me whole, the same said unto me, Take up thy bed, and walk. They<sup>7</sup> asked him, What man is that which said unto thee, Take up,<sup>8</sup> and walk?
13 And he that was sick<sup>9</sup> wist not who it was: for Jesus had conveyed himself

<sup>3</sup> halt, withered, waiting for the moving of the water. For an angel went down at a certain season into the pool, and troubled the water: whosoever then first after the troubling of the water stepped in was made whole of whatsoever disease he had.

§ 39. On the important question as to the meaning of 'the feast' of ver. 1, see the general Introduction pp. vii-ix. It is here understood of the Passover, the second since our Lord's baptism; the reasons for this will be found in the Introduction.

The latter part of ver. 3, and the whole of ver. 4, are retained in much the greater number of existing Greek manuscripts, but are omitted in the two most ancient, as well as in several others of great authority. The balance of evidence was against their genuineness before the discovery of the Sinaitic manuscript; and this also rejects them.

ST. JOHN V.

14 away, a multitude being in that place. Afterward Jesus findeth him in the temple, and said unto him, Behold! thou art made whole; sin no more, lest 15 a worse thing come unto thee. The man departed, and told the Jews that it 16 was Jesus, which had made him whole. And therefore did the Jews persecute Jesus,<sup>1</sup> because he did<sup>2</sup> these things on the Sabbath day.

17 But he<sup>3</sup> answered them, My Father worketh hitherto, and I work.
 18 Therefore the Jews sought the more to kill him, because he not only had broken the Sabbath, but said also that God was his own<sup>4</sup> Father, making himself equal with God.

19 Then answered Jesus and said unto them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, The Son can do nothing of himself, but what he seeth the Father do: for 20 what things soever he doeth, these also doeth the Son likewise. For the Father loveth the Son, and sheweth him all things that himself doeth: and 21 he will shew him greater works than these, that ye may marvel. For as the Father raiseth up the dead, and quickeneth them; even so the Son quickeneth 22 whom he will. For the Father judgeth no man, but hath committed all 23 judgment unto the Son: That all men should honor the Son, even as they honor the Father. He that honoreth not the Son honoreth not the Father 24 which hath sent him. Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that heareth my word, and believeth on him that sent me, hath everlasting life, and shall not 25 come into condemnation; but is passed from death unto life. Verily, verily, I say unto you, The hour is coming, and now is, when the dead shall hear 26 the voice of the Son of God: and they that hear shall live. For as the Father hath life in himself; so hath he given to the Son to have life in 27 himself; and hath given him authority to execute judgment,<sup>5</sup> because he is the Son of man. Marvel not at this: for the hour is coming, in the which 28 all that are in the graves shall hear his voice, and shall come forth; they that have done good, unto the resurrection of life;<sup>6</sup> they that have done evil, 29 unto the resurrection of damnation. I can of mine own self do nothing: as I hear, I judge: and my judgment is just; because I seek not mine own will,
 30 but the will of him<sup>7</sup> which hath sent me. If I bear witness of myself, my 31 witness is not true. There is Another that beareth witness of me; and ye<sup>8</sup> know that the witness which he witnesseth of me is true.

32 Ye sent unto John, and he bare witness unto the truth. But I receive 33 not testimony from man: but these things I say, that ye might be saved. He was a burning and a shining light: and ye were willing for a season to 34 rejoice in his light. But I have greater witness than that of John: for the works which the Father hath given me to finish, the same works that I do, 35 bear witness of me, that the Father hath sent me. And the Father<sup>9</sup> which

bath sent me, he<sup>1</sup> hath borne witness of me. Ye have neither heard his voice 38 at any time, nor seen his shape. And ye have not his word abiding in you: 39 for whom he hath sent, him ye believe not. Search the scriptures; for in them ye think ye have eternal life: and they are they which testify of me.
 40 And ye will not come to me, that ye might have life. I receive not honor 41 from men. But I know you, that ye have not the love of God in you.
 42 I am come in my Father's name, and ye receive me not: if another shall 43 come in his own name, him ye will receive. How can ye believe, which receive honor one of another, and seek not the honor that cometh from God 45 only? Do not think that I will accuse you to the Father; there is one that 46 accuseth you, even Moses, in whom ye trust. For had ye believed Moses, 47 ye would have believed me: for he wrote of me. But if ye believe not his writings, how shall ye believe my words?

 certain of the Pharisees them said, Have ye not

§ 40. It is not easy to determine certainly the meaning of the expression 'the second Sabbath after the first.' In the Greek there are but two words, literally 'the second first Sabbath.' Probably it means the first Sabbath after the second day of unleavened bread, from which the seven Sabbaths were reckoned to Pentecost. See Lev. xxiii. 15, etc.

§ 43. The time of the appointment of the twelve is nowhere indicated by St. Matthew, who merely mentions their names (x. 2), as of those previously chosen. The appointment is here given in the order of St. Mark, with which St. Luke substantially agrees.

Although the phrase in Matt. x. 3, "whose surname was Thaddeus," appears to be a gloss, yet the Vatican and Sinaitic MSS. and some others read Thaddeus instead of Lebbeus (a read-

The differences in the order of the names are less than might at first appear. Peter is named first by all, and the traitor last. The four first called are placed first by all, and in the same order, except that Andrew is placed after the three chief apostles by St. Mark, while he is very naturally mentioned next to his brother by the others. The couple, Thomas and Matthew, is placed together by all, although St. Matthew, perhaps from modesty, places his own name after that of his companion. There is no other variation except the putting of the two Judases together by St. Luke.

§ 44. The place of the delivery of the Sermon on the Mount must have been some high land in the neighborhood of Capernaum, though there is nothing to identify the precise locality, nor is there any early tradition on the subject.

The question as to whether the discourse as given by St. Matthew is the same with the much shorter form contained in St. Luke, is one which, as we learn from St. Augustine, has divided opinion from very early times. The following are briefly, some of the reasons for supposing them to be the same, as indeed they are now almost universally considered to be :

1. The choice of the twelve is expressly mentioned by St. Luke as the occasion of the discourse. St. Matthew nowhere mentions their appointment, but in v. 13, 14 ; vii. 6, and elsewhere, the language seems to imply their previous selection.

2. The beginning and end of both discourses, the circumstances under which they were spoken, and the general course of thought, are the same.

3. The events immediately following both discourses, the entrance into Capernaum, and the healing of the centurion's servant, are the same.

St. Matthew has given a much fuller report of the discourse than St. Luke. It has been suggested that as he wrote especially for the Jews, he was particularly careful to record our Lord's exposition of the spiritual nature of his dispensation and doctrine, in opposition to the technicalities of the Scribes and Pharisees; while St. Luke, writing more particularly for the Gentiles, has mentioned only what was of more general importance to all. However this may be, few things can less need explanation than a difference in the fulness of two reports of the same discourse. There are a few parts of the discourse as it stands in St. Matthew (v. 25, 26; vi. 22-34, and vii. 7-11), which are somewhat apart, less intimately joined with the context, but which are given by St. Luke in connection with circumstances minutely detailed by him. As these circumstances are not mentioned by St. Matthew at all, it was natural that he should have added the teaching connected with them to the Sermon on the Mount, although not spoken just at that time. These passages are transferred to the connection in which they are given by St. Luke.

Putting together the two accounts, it would appear that our Lord retired to the mountain to pray, and then chose the twelve; descending with them to the plain, he performed many cures; and then, the crowd pressing upon him, he again drew back to the mountain, where he uttered the discourse.

§ 44. Lk. xvi. 17 is here widely separated from its context. The sixteenth chapter of St. Luke, with the exception of verses 16-18, is peculiar to him; the connection of the part before these verses with the parable immediately after them is very close; while the three verses interposed are not intimately connected with either what precedes or what follows, but are parallel to passages of the other Evangelists, and those passages are closely connected with a context which is nowhere given by St. Luke. Under these circumstances, while it is plain that the words contained in these verses were uttered in the connections given by the other Evangelists, it is unnecessary to suppose that they were repeated at the time when they are introduced by St. Luke. There is no other indication of such repetition, and they have altogether the air of detached utterances. St. Luke could not, of course, give them in their connection, as he does not record that connection.

This diversity is satisfactorily explained by the old law-maxim: Qui facit per alium, facit per se. Matthew narrates briefly; Luke gives the circumstances more fully. 11 And it came to pass the day after, that he went into a city called Nain; 12 and many of his disciples went with him, and much people. Now when he came nigh to the gate of the city, behold, there was a dead man carried out, the only son of his mother, and she was a widow: and much people of the 13 city was with her. And when the Lord saw her, he had compassion on her, 14 and said unto her, Weep not. And he came and touched the bier: and they that bare him stood still. And he said, Young man, I say unto thee, Arise!
 15 And he that was dead sat up, and began to speak. And he delivered him to § 47. This narrative is plainly not in chronological order in St. Matthew. He places it after the mission of the twelve, x. 5 ss.; whereas it appears by comparing Matt. xiv. 1 and 13, with Mar. vi. 14; vii. 30, 31, that John was beheaded during their absence. The continuous order of St. Luke is therefore followed.

4 Jesus answered and said unto them,
Go and shew John again those things 5 which ye do hear and see:<sup>a</sup> the blind receive their sight, and the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, and the deaf hear, and<sup>2</sup> the dead are raised up, and the poor have the gos-is he, whosoever shall not be offended in me.

7 And as they departed, Jesus began to say unto the multitudes concerning John, What went ye out into the wilderness to see? A reed shaken 8 with the wind? But why went ye out?<sup>3</sup> for to see a man clothed in soft raiment?<sup>4</sup> Behold! they that wear soft 9 clothing are in king's houses. But why went ye out?<sup>5</sup> for to see a of whom it is written, <sup>b</sup>Behold! I send my messenger before thy face, which shall prepare thy way before thee.

11 Verily I say unto you, Among them that are born of women there hath not risen a greater than John the Baptist: notwithstanding he that is least in the kingdom of heaven is 12 greater than he. And from the days of John the Baptist until now the kingdom of heaven suffereth violence, ties and plagues, and of evil spirits;

and unto many that were blind he said unto them, Go your way, and tell John what things ye have seen and heard:<sup>a</sup> how that the blind see, the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, the deaf hear, the dead are raised, to the poor the gospel is preached.

23 And blessed is he, whosoever shall not be offended in me.

24 And when the messengers of John were departed, he began to speak unto the people concerning John,
What went ye out into the wilderness for to see? A reed shaken with the 25 wind? But what went ye out for to see? A man clothed in soft raiment?
Behold! they which are gorgeously apparelled, and live delicately, are 26 in kings' courts. But what went ye out for to see? A prophet? Yea,

16 But whereunto shall I liken this generation? It is like unto children sitting in the markets, and calling 17 unto others,<sup>3</sup> saying, We have piped unto you, and ye have not danced; we have mourned,<sup>5</sup> and ye have not eating nor drinking, and they say, 19 He hath a devil. The Son of man came eating and drinking, and they say, Behold a man gluttonous, and a winebibber, a friend of publicans and sinners! But wisdom is justified of her works.<sup>6</sup>

16 The law and the prophets were until John: since that time the kingdom of God is preached, and every man presseth into it.

29 (And all the people that heard him, and the publicans, justified God, being baptized with the baptism of John. But 30 the Pharisees and lawyers rejected the counsel of God against themselves, being not baptized of him.) 31 <sup>2</sup>Whereunto then shall I liken the men of this generation? and to what 32 are they like? They are like unto children sitting in the market-place, and calling one to another,<sup>4</sup> saying,
 We have piped unto you, and ye have not danced; we have mourned,<sup>5</sup> 33 and ye have not wept. For John say, Behold a gluttonous man, and a winebibber, a friend of publicans 35 and sinners! But wisdom is justified of all her children.

§ 48. Our Lord, at meat with Simon a Pharisee, is anointed by a Woman

36 And one of the Pharisees desired him that he would eat with him. And 37 he went into the Pharisee's house, and sat down to meat. And, behold, a woman which was in the city, a sinner, and knowing<sup>1</sup> that Jesus sat at meat

§ 48. The anointing here recorded is obviously a different one from that recorded of Mary, the sister of Lazarus, in Jno. xii. 1-11, and which was certainly the same with that mentioned in Matt. xxvi. 6-13; Mar. xiv. 3-9. In both cases, indeed, there was an anointing while Jesus was at meat, and in both cases the name of his host was Simon; but in that case he is 39 them with the ointment. Now when the Pharisee which had bidden him saw it, he spake within himself, saying, This man, if he were a prophet, would have known who and what manner of woman this is that toucheth him: for she is a sinner.

40 And Jesus answering said unto him. Simon, I have somewhat to say unto 41 thee. And he saith. Master, say on. 'There was a certain creditor which had two debtors: the one owed five hundred pence, and the other fifty.
42 <sup>1</sup>When they had nothing to pay, he frankly forgave them both. Which of 43 them therefore <sup>2</sup>will love him most? Simon answering <sup>3</sup>said, I suppose that he, to whom he forgave most. And he said unto him, Thou hast rightly 44 judged. And he turned to the woman, and said unto Simon, Seest thou this woman? I entered into thine house, thou gavest me no water for my feet: but she hath washed my feet with tears, and wiped them with her hairs.<sup>4</sup>
45 Thou gavest me no kiss: but this woman since the time I came in hath not 46 ceased to kiss my feet. My head with oil thou didst not anoint: but this 47 woman hath anointed my feet with ointment. Wherefore I say unto thee, Her sins, which are many, are forgiven; for she loved much: but to whom 48 little is forgiven, the same loveth little. And he said unto her, Thy sins are 49 forgiven. And they that sat at meat with him began to say within themselves, 50 Who is this that forgiveth sins also? And he said to the woman, Thy faith hath saved thee; go in peace.

§ 49. Our Lord makes another circuit of Galilee with the Twelve.

ST. LUKE VIII. 1-3.

1 And it came to pass afterward, that he went throughout every city and village, preaching and shewing the glad tidings of the kingdom of God: and
2 the twelve were with him, and certain women, which had been healed of evil spirits and infirmities, Mary called Magdalene, out of whom went seven devils,

Again, in that case the woman was the sister of Lazarus, and seems to have been held in much esteem among the Jews; in this case she was "a sinner," and it is on that ground that Simon bases his objection, while in the other instance it is the disciples who are offended, and that simply because of the waste.

§ 50. The parallelism of the three Evangelists is obvious, and as neither St. Matthew nor St. Luke furnish any definite note of time, the order of St. Mark is observed. St. Mark passes over in silence all the matters which occurred between the appointment of the twelve and this miracle. What is commonly divided into two sections is here thrown into one as really forming one continuous narrative, although only the former part of it is given by St. Mark.

Two verses from the Sermon on the Mount are added at the close of this section, as being parallel to St. Luke, and not closely attached to the context in St. Matthew.

§§ 51. 52. The beginning of Matt. xii. 46 connects § 51 intimately with what precedes, and this is also in accordance with the order of St. Mark. So also the first words of Matt. xiii. give a definite note of time connecting § 52 with the previous section; and this also is the order of St. Mark. On the other hand, the observance of this order makes it necessary to defer the narrative beginning with Lk. xi. 37. That passage, however, begins with the words, And as he spake; and we are therefore brought to the conclusion that such expressions may be used by the Evangelist simply to designate the circumstances under which Jesus was invited by the Pharisee — that is, while he was in the midst of discoursing — without special reference to the particular discourse recorded in the preceding verses. The difficulty, though of less importance, is similar to the one already noticed in regard to the time of the healing of Jairus' daughter, and the solution is in either case substantially the same. Compare the remarks on § 33.

§ 52. The sixteenth and seventeenth verses of St. Matthew are indeed appropriate in this connection; but yet not more so than to the connection in which the same language is given by St. Luke (x. 23, 24). 29 ear. But when the fruit is brought forth, immediately he put-teth in the sickle, because the harvest is come.

30 And he said, How <sup>2</sup> shall we liken the kingdom of God? or with what comparison shall we set it forth? <sup>3</sup> 31 It is like a grain of mustard seed, which, when it is sown in the earth, is less than all the seeds that be in 32 the earth: But when it is sown, it groweth up, and becometh greater than all herbs, and shooteth out great branches; so that the fowls of the air may lodge under the shad-

31 Another parable put he forth unto them, saying, The kingdom of heaven is like to a grain of mustard seed, which a man took, and sowed in his field: 32 which indeed is the least of all seeds: but when it is grown, it is the greatest among herbs, and becometh a tree, so that the birds of the air come and lodge in the branches thereof.
33 Another parable
spake he unto them;
The kingdom of heaven is like unto leaven which a woman took,
and hid in three measures of meal, till the whole was leavened.

18 Then said he, Unto what is the kingdom of God like? and whereunto shall I resemble 19 it? It is like a grain of mustard seed, which a man took, and cast into his garden; and it grew, and waxed a <sup>4</sup> tree, and the fowls of the air lodged in the branches of it.

20 And again he said, Whereunto shall I liken

a woman took and hid

§ 59. The charge to the Twelve, as they were sent forth two and two, is in some points much like the corresponding charge to the Seventy (Lk. x. 1-16), as they also were sent forth in like manner. Of the latter St. Luke gives the only account, and some of his language there is quite parallel to that of the Evangelists in the present passage. From a comparison, however, of Lk. ix. 4 with x. 5, it is plain that something of the same instruction, as might indeed have been expected, was given on both occasions.

On the other hand, much of the latter part of the charge, as given by St. Matthew (vs. 17-42), seems to have more distinctly in view the Apostolic work at a later period, after Christ's own ascension, inasmuch as it refers to trials and persecutions which could not have occurred at this time. St. Matthew appears therefore, to have here followed his custom of grouping like things together, without especial regard to their chronological connection, and has thus collected together in one, instructions given at different times to the Apostles. The portion of the charge indicated is therefore detached from the former part, and inserted at a later period, in accordance with the order of both St. Mark and St. Luke (§§ 90, 92, 97, and 126).

In regard to the superficial discrepancy between the language of Matt. x. 10, and that of Mar. vi. 8, 9; Lk. ix. 3, it is enough to say that the thought in all is identical — they should make no preparation for the journey. They were to go as they were, in the clothes and with the staff and the sandals they had with them, providing nothing further.

§ 60. John the Baptist was beheaded by Herod in the castle of Machærus (Joseph. Ant. 18. 5. 2.) at the southern extremity of Perea, near the Dead Sea. It appears to have occurred during the absence of the Twelve, and from the mention by St. John in the next section (vi. 4) of the approach of the Passover, must have been near eighteen months from the time of his imprisonment. The account of his imprisonment, which is mentioned by St. Matthew and St. Mark only in connection with his execution, has been transferred to its chronological position (§ 26). Both evangelists narrate the execution in explanation of Herod's remark.

And the king was exceeding sorry; yet for his oath's sake, and for their sakes which sat with him,<sup>1</sup> he would not reject her. And immediately the king sent an executioner, and commanded to bring<sup>2</sup> his head: and he went and beheaded him in the prison; and brought his head in a charger, and gave it to the damsel: and the damsel gave it to her mother. And when his disciples heard of it, they came and took up his corpse, and laid him<sup>4</sup> in a tomb.

§ 61. The feeding of the five thousand evidently took place on the N. E. side of the Sea of Galilee, in Perea. Tischendorf makes the time to have been just that at which the Passover was celebrated at Jerusalem, considering the remark in Jno. vi. 4 as referring to the assembling of the multitudes. The coincidence would be a most interesting one, if it could be distinctly established. Certainly the two events were in close proximity, and the relation between them ought not to pass unnoticed.

§ 62. There is a seeming discrepancy between the point at which the Apostles aimed in Mark vi. 45, Bethsaida, and in Jno. vi. 17, Capernaum. Attention to the geographical features removes this. From Lk. ix. 10, compared with the other evangelists, it appears that the place of the feeding of the five thousand was an appurtenance of Bethsaida, as indeed is expressly asserted in the reading of the text. rec. Bethsaida, according to the best authorities, was situated just at the northern junction of the Jordan with the sea of Galilee, probably occupying both banks of the river; from it stretches eastward a triangular plain having the Jordan for one side, the sea for another, and the barren eastern mountains for the third. At the S. E. corner of this plain Thomson (ii. 29) locates the miracle, the distance from Bethsaida being about three miles. From Bethsaida to Tell Hum, the probable site of Capernaum, was about the same distance along the N. W. coast of the lake, the plain of Gennesaret lying just south of it. The disciples therefore in going from the place of the miracle to Capernaum would necessarily pass close by Bethsaida and would naturally try to make it, both that they might keep as much as possible in the lee of the land on that stormy night, and also that they might then take in their master if he pleased, as he also must pass through Bethsaida. storm, however, made this impossible and even drove them south of Capernaum to the shore of Gennesaret. Thomson (ii. 32) experienced a furious storm just in this locality, continuing for three days, during which it would have been impossible for a boat to make the northern shore. The width of the sea opposite Gennesaret is about six miles; the disciples therefore (Jno. vi. 19), rowed somewhat more than half the distance, having struggled with the winds and waves (Mar. vi. 48) some eight or ten hours.

§ 63. Our Lord's Discourse concerning the Bread of Life. — Capernaum.

ST. JOHN VI. 22–VII. 1.

22 The day following, when the people which stood on the other side of the sea saw that there was none other boat there, save one,<sup>1</sup> and that Jesus went not with his disciples into the ship,<sup>2</sup> but that his disciples were gone away 23 alone: (howbeit there came other boats from Tiberias nigh unto the place 24 where they did eat bread, after that the Lord had given thanks): when the people therefore saw that Jesus was not there, neither his disciples, they took 25 boats<sup>3</sup> and came to Capernaum, seeking for Jesus. And when they had found him on the other side of the sea, they said unto him, Rabbi, when camest thou hither?

26 Jesus answered them and said, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Ye seek me, not because ye saw the miracles, but because ye did eat of the loaves, and 27 were filled. Labor not for the meat which perisheth, but for that meat which endureth unto everlasting life, which the Son of man giveth<sup>4</sup> unto you: for 28 him hath God the Father sealed. Then said they unto him, What shall we 29 do, that we might work the works of God? Jesus answered and said unto them, 30 This is the work of God, that ye believe on him whom he hath sent. They said therefore unto him, What sign shewest thou then, that we may see, and 31 believe thee? what dost thou work? Our fathers did eat manna in the desert:
as it is written, He gave them bread from heaven to eat.<sup>a</sup>

32 Then Jesus said unto them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Moses gave you not that bread from heaven; but my Father giveth you the true bread from 33 heaven. For the bread of God is he which cometh down from heaven, and 84 giveth life unto the world. Then said they unto him, Lord, evermore give 35 us this bread. And Jesus said unto them, I am the bread of life:<sup>a</sup> he that cometh to me shall never hunger: and he that believeth on me shall never 36 thirst.<sup>b</sup> But I said unto you, that ye also have seen me, and believe not.

 37 All that the Father giveth me shall come to me; and him that cometh to me
 38 I will in no wise cast out. For I came down from heaven, not to do mine 39 own will, but the will<sup>c</sup> of him that sent me. And this is the will of him<sup>1</sup> which hath sent me, that of all which he hath given me I should lose nothing, but 40 should raise it up again at the last day. For this is the will of my Father;<sup>2</sup> that every one which seeth the Son, and believeth on him, may have everlasting life: and I will raise him up at the last day.

41 The Jews then murmured at him, because he said, I am the bread which 42 came down from heaven. And they said, Is not this Jesus, the son of Joseph, whose father and mother we know? how is it now<sup>3</sup> that he saith, I came down 43 from heaven? Jesus<sup>4</sup> answered and said unto them, Murmur not among 44 yourselves. No man can come to me, except the Father which hath sent me 45 draw him; and I will raise him up at the last day. It is written in the prophets, And they shall be all taught of God.<sup>d</sup> Every man<sup>5</sup> that hath heard, 46 and hath learned of the Father, cometh unto me. Not that any man hath 47 seen the Father, save he which is of God,<sup>e</sup> he hath seen God.<sup>6</sup> Verily, verily, 48 I say unto you, He that believeth<sup>7</sup> hath everlasting life. I am that bread of 49 life. Your fathers did eat manna in the wilderness, and are dead. This is 50 the bread which cometh down from heaven, that a man may eat thereof and 51 not die. I am the living bread which came down from heaven: if any man eat of my<sup>8</sup> bread, he shall live forever: and the bread that I will give for the life of the world is my flesh.<sup>9</sup>

52 The Jews therefore strove among themselves, saying, how can<sup>f</sup> this man 53 give us his flesh to eat? Then Jesus said unto them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Except ye eat the flesh of the Son of man, and drink his blood, ye 54 have no life in you. Whoso eateth my flesh, and drinketh my blood, hath 55 eternal life: and I will raise him up at the last day. For my flesh is true<sup>10</sup> 56 meat, and my blood is true drink. He that eateth my flesh, and drinketh my 57 blood, dwelleth in me, and I in him. As the living Father hath sent me,

62 murmured at it, he said unto them, Doth this offend you ? What and if ye 63 shall see the Son of man ascend up where he was before ? It is the spirit that quickeneth ; the flesh profiteth nothing ; the words that I have spoken<sup>2</sup> unto 64 you, they are spirit, and they are life. But there are some of you that believe not. For Jesus knew from the beginning who they were that believed not, 65 and who should betray him. And he said, Therefore said I unto you, that no man can come unto me, except it were given unto him of the<sup>3</sup> Father.

66 From that time many of his disciples went back, and walked no more with 67 him. Then said Jesus unto the twelve, will ye also go away ? <sup>4</sup> Simon Peter 68 answered him, Lord, to whom shall we go ? thou hast the words of eternal life.

§ 63. In Jno. vii. 1, a sufficient reason is given for our Saviour's non-attendance at the Passover mentioned in vi. 4. According to the chronological order here adopted he must have absented himself from Jerusalem for about a year and a half. It is not inconsistent with Jno. vii. 1, that after the lapse of so much time he should again have gone up to the Holy City.

It enables us the better to appreciate the significance of the Saviour's teaching concerning the Bread of Life to remember that it was uttered during the Paschal week, and certainly while the feast of the Passover was going on at Jerusalem, — perhaps, at the hour of the sacrifice of the Paschal Lamb itself (between three o'clock and sunset), but hardly, as Tischendorf (following Wieseler) supposes, at the very time of eating it, which was later in the evening.

§ 66. The name Decapolis, which in Scripture occurs elsewhere only in Matt. iv. 25 (§ 42) and Mar. v. 20 (§ 55), is frequently used by Josephus and other ancient writers. The names of the ten cities are very variously given by different authors, but they agree in placing them all, except Seythopolis, on the east of the Jordan. The tract of country included under the name was not clearly defined, but lay on the east and southeast of the Sea of Galilee.

Accepting the reading in Mar. vii. 31, through Sidon, it appears that after the miracle narrated in § 65, our Lord went on still to the northward, and from Sidon probably went along the Phenician border to Dan, and thence turned to the southward on the eastern side of the river and lake and thus "came to the Sea of Galilee through the midst of the coasts of Decapolis."

§ 75. (D.) The parables in Matt. xviii. 12, 13 and Lk. xv. 3-7 have a close resemblance, but yet, on examination, show marks of distinction. Each is so closely bound in with its context that it cannot well be separated, and there is thus a considerable interval of time between them. They were uttered on different occasions, and for different purposes: the parable in St. Matthew has for its subject a sheep that has wandered from the fold, and is diligently sought, tenderly restored, and rejoiced over as the brother should be who has strayed into the paths of sin; the parable in St. Luke is concerned with a lost sheep, as the Publicans and sinners were considered to be, and whose recovery ought to be a cause of joy to all. Between the two there are necessarily strong resemblances, but they seem intended to illustrate somewhat different points.

19 Again I say unto you, That if two of you shall agree on earth, as touching any thing that they shall ask, it shall be done for them of my Father which is in heaven. For where two or three are gathered together in my name, there am I in the midst of them.

21 Then came Peter to him, and said, Lord, how oft shall my brother sin against me, and I forgive him? 22 till seven times? Jesus saith unto him, I say not unto thee, Until seven times: but, Until seventy times seven. Therefore is the kingdom of heaven likened unto a certain king, which would take account of his servants. § 76. The difficulties presented at this point in the chronological arrangement of the material furnished by the several Evangelists are usually thought the most considerable in the whole work of a Harmony. There is not space here to enter into the multitude of schemes which have been proposed. A very clear and succinct account of the more important of them may be found in Andrews' "Life of our Lord," pp. 345-362. Suffice it briefly to state the arrangement here adopted, with the chief reasons therefor. Lk. ix. 51 bears upon the face of it that this was our Lord's final departure from Galilee, and his entrance upon a series of jour-

ST. MATT. XIX.	ST. MARK X.	ST. LUKE IX.	ST. JOHN VII.
1 And it came to pass, that when Jesus had finished these sayings, he departed from Galilee.	1 And he arose from thence.	51 And it came to pass, when the time was come that he should be received up, he steadfastly set his face to go 52 to Jerusalem, and sent messengers before his face: and they went, and entered into a city <sup>3</sup> of	10 But when his brethren were gone up unto the feast, <sup>1</sup> then went he also up, not openly, but <sup>2</sup> in secret.

neyings which terminated at last in his death at Jerusalem and his ascension. Any other interpretation of 'received up' is forced; and the expression 'the time was come' implies that this was now so near at hand that there was no longer any intervening object of magnitude, but rather that all things were rapidly converging to this consummation. The first point in this journey was the attendance upon the Feast of Tabernacles in Jerusalem, and so far, the journey appears, from Jno. vii. 9, 10, to have been made somewhat privately and rapidly. Matt. xix. 1 and Mar. x. 1 are necessarily placed in parallelism, as both mention a departure from Galilee, and this was the final one. Soon after entering upon this journey our Lord appears to have sent forth the seventy (probably wholly or chiefly into Perea); allowing them the time required for his attendance at the feast in which to prepare the people for his own journeyings in Perea. This should be particularly noted, as it forms the turning point of the arrangement. The difficulties usually found in this part of the narrative arise chiefly from supposing that our Lord followed immediately after the seventy, in the same road. If, however, as the nature of their mission seems to require, a little time be allowed for their labors by themselves before our Saviour goes over the same ground, these difficulties in great part disappear.

Having attended the Feast of Tabernacles (of which, however, the Synoptical Evangelists make no mention), our Lord retires to Perea, whence he again resumes his slow and public progress toward Jerusalem, teaching as he went in those numerous villages of Perea, hitherto little visited by him, but where the seventy had now prepared the people for his coming (Lk. xiii. 10). On this journey he was attended by great multitudes (Matt. xix. 2; Lk. xii. 1); and that it lay through Perea appears from Matt. xix. 1; Mar. x. 1, yet always tending, however circuitously, toward Jerusalem (Lk. xiii. 22). This journey appears to have been again interrupted, or perhaps it was brought to a close, by our Lord's attendance upon the Feast of the Dedication in Jerusalem. After the Dedication he "went away again beyond Jordan, into the place where John at first baptised, and there he abode" (Jno. x. 39). The question whether this sojourn is to be included in St. Luke's general account of the journey, or was subsequent thereto, is merely a formal one, and only involves the unimportant question at what point exactly Jno. x. 22-42 should be inserted.

From this retirement he is summoned to Bethany (Jno. xi. 3) and raises Lazarus from the dead. Thence he retires to Ephraim, near the wilderness, and "there continued with his disciples" (Jno. xi. 54) until the pilgrims began to gather for the Passover. He joins them, probably near the Jordan, and enters Jericho attended by the multitude, and thence goes to Jerusalem. The several narratives have now again coalesced, Lk. xvii. 11 being considered parallel with Jno. xi. 55.

ST. LUKE X. 1-11.

- 1 After these things the Lord appointed other seventy also, and sent them<sup>a</sup> two and two before his face into every city and place, whither he himself would come.
- 2 And he<sup>1</sup> said unto them, The harvest truly is great, but the laborers are few: pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he would send forth laborers into his harvest.<sup>b</sup> Go your ways: behold I send you forth as lambs among wolves. Carry neither purse, nor scrip, nor shoes: <sup>2</sup>salute no man by the way. And into whatsoever house ye enter, first say, Peace be to this house.
- 6 And if a <sup>3</sup>son of peace be there, your peace shall rest upon it: if not, it shall turn to you again. And in the same house remain, eating and drinking such things as they give: for the laborer is<sup>4</sup> worthy of his hire.<sup>c</sup> Go not from house to house. And into whatsoever city ye enter, and they receive you, eat such things as are set before you: and heal the sick that are therein, and say unto them, The kingdom of God is come nigh unto you. But into whatsoever city ye enter, and they receive you not, go your ways out into the streets of the same, and say, Even the very dust of your city, which cleaveth to us on our feet<sup>5</sup> we do wipe off against you: notwithstanding be ye sure of this, that the kingdom of God is come nigh.<sup>d</sup>

ST. LUKE X. 12-16.

- 20 Then began he to upbraid the cities wherein most of his mighty works were done, because they repented not: Woe unto thee, Chorazin! woe unto thee, Bethsaida!<sup>d</sup> for if the mighty works, which were done in you, had been done in Tyre and Sidon, they would have repented long ago in sackcloth and ashes.

§ 79. The order of narration in St. Luke is here also the most natural order, and is therefore retained rather than that of St. Matthew. To suppose a repetition on a different occasion of a passage so closely parallel is quite unnecessary. Our Lord had just instructed the Seventy in regard to cities which should reject them; the cities which had already rejected himself, and which he had now just left for the last time, would naturally have been present to their thoughts, and Jesus points out the fearful consequences of their folly.

ST. MATT. XI.

22 But I say unto you, It shall be more tolerable for Tyre and Sidon at the 23 day of judgment, than for you. And thou, Capernaum, art thou<sup>1</sup> exalted unto heaven? thou shalt be brought down to hell: for if the mighty works, which have been done in thee, had been done in Sodom, it would have remained until this day.

§ 80. The Ten Lepers healed.

ST. LUKE XVII. 11-19.

11 And it came to pass, as he went to Jerusalem, that he passed through the 12 midst of Samaria and Galilee. And as he entered into a certain village, there 13 met him ten men that were lepers, which stood afar off: and they lifted up 14 their voices, and said, Jesus, Master, have mercy on us. And when he saw them, he said unto them, Go shew yourselves unto the priests. And it came 15 to pass, that, as they went, they were cleansed. And one of them, when he saw that he was healed, turned back, and with a loud voice glorified God, 16 and fell down on his face at his feet, giving him thanks: and he was a Samar-17 itan. And Jesus answering said, Were there not ten cleansed? <sup>2</sup>where are 18 the nine? There are not found that returned to give glory to God, save this 19 stranger. And he said unto him, Arise, go thy way: thy faith hath made thee whole.

§ 80. The record of this miracle in St. Luke, who alone mentions it, has no other note of time than that it was performed while our Lord was passing through the midst of Galilee and Samaria on his way to Jerusalem. As this was his final departure from Galilee (see note on § 76), it should be placed here (as has been done by Robinson), being narrated by St. Luke out of its chronological order. It stands in his Gospel entirely isolated from the context, a short narrative by itself, with no indication of time.

PART VI.

THE FESTIVAL OF TABERNACLES, AND THENCEFORWARD UNTIL OUR LORD'S FINAL ARRIVAL AT BETHANY.

§ 81. Our Lord at the Feast of Tabernacles. — Jerusalem.

ST. JOHN VII. 11–52.

<sup>11</sup> Then the Jews sought him at the feast,<sup>a</sup> and said, Where is he? And there
<sup>13</sup> He is a good man; others said, Nay; but he deceiveth the people. Howbeit no man spake openly of him for fear of the Jews.

<sup>14</sup> Now about the midst of the feast Jesus went up into the temple, and taught.
<sup>16</sup> never learned? Jesus therefore<sup>3</sup> answered them, and said, My doctrine is not <sup>17</sup> mine, but his that sent me. If any man will do his will, he shall know of the <sup>18</sup> doctrine, whether it be of God, or whether I speak of myself. He that speaketh of himself seeketh his own glory; but he that seeketh his glory that sent <sup>19</sup> him, the same is true, and no unrighteousness is in him. Did not Moses give you the law,<sup>b</sup> and yet none of you keepeth the law? Why go ye about to kill
sabbath day receive circumcision, that the law which is<sup>e</sup> of Moses should not be broken: are ye angry at me, because I have made a man every whit <sup>24</sup> whole on the sabbath day? Judge not according to the appearance, but judge righteous judgment.

<sup>25</sup> Then said some of them of Jerusalem, Is not this he, whom they seek to <sup>26</sup> kill? But, lo, he speaketh boldly, and they say nothing unto him. Do the <sup>27</sup> rulers know indeed that this is the<sup>f</sup> Christ? Howbeit we know this man whence he is:<sup>g</sup> but when Christ cometh, no man knoweth whence he is.
<sup>28</sup> Then cried Jesus in the temple as he taught, saying, Ye both know me, and ye know whence I am: and I am not come of myself, but he that sent me is

29 true, whom ye know not. <sup>1</sup> I know him; for I am from him, and he hath sent 30 me. Then they sought to take him: but no man laid hands on him, because 31 his hour was not yet come. And many of the people believed on him, and said, When Christ cometh, will he do more miracles than these which this man doeth? <sup>2</sup>

32 The Pharisees heard that the people murmured such things concerning 33 him; and the Pharisees and the chief priests sent officers to take him. Then said Jesus, <sup>3</sup> Yet a little while am I with you, and then I go unto him that 34 sent me. Ye shall seek me, and shall not find me: and where I am, thither 35 ye cannot come. Then said the Jews among themselves, Whither will he go, that we shall not find him? will he go unto the dispersed among the Gentiles, 36 and teach the Gentiles? What manner of saying is this that he said, Ye shall seek me, and shall not find me: and where I am, thither ye cannot come?

37 In the last day, that great day of the feast, <sup>a</sup> Jesus stood and cried, saying, 38 If any man thirst, let him come, <sup>4</sup> and drink. He that believeth on me, as the 39 scripture hath said, out of his belly shall flow rivers of living water. <sup>b</sup> (But this spake he of the Spirit, <sup>c</sup> which they that believe on him should receive: for the Spirit <sup>5</sup> was not yet given; because that Jesus was not yet glorified.)
 40 Some <sup>6</sup> of the people therefore, when they heard these sayings, <sup>7</sup> said, Of a truth 41 this is the Prophet. Others said, This is the Christ. Others <sup>8</sup> said, Shall 42 Christ come out of Galilee? Hath not the scripture said, That Christ cometh of the seed of David, <sup>d</sup> and out of the town of Bethlehem, <sup>e</sup> where David was? <sup>f</sup> 43 So there was a division among the people because of him. And some of them 44 would have taken him: but no man laid hands on him.

45 Then came the officers to the chief priests and Pharisees; and they said 46 unto them, Why have ye not brought him? The officers answered, Never 47 man spake thus as this man speaketh. <sup>9</sup> The Pharisees answered them, <sup>10</sup> Are 48 ye also deceived? Have any of the rulers or of the Pharisees believed on 49 him? But this people who knoweth not the law are cursed. Nicodemus 50 saith unto them, <sup>11</sup> being one of them, Doth our law judge any man, before it 52 hear him, and know what he doeth? They answered and said unto him, Art thou also of Galilee? Search, and look: for out of Galilee ariseth no

§ 82. The Woman taken in Adultery. — Jerusalem.

ST. JOHN VII. 53—VIII. 11.

<sup>2</sup> Olives. And early in the morning he came again into the temple, and all the <sup>3</sup> people came unto him: and he sat down, and taught them. And the scribes and Pharisees brought unto him a woman taken in adultery; and when they <sup>4</sup> had set her in the midst, they said unto him, Master, this woman was taken <sup>5</sup> in adultery, in the very act. Now Moses in the law commanded us,<sup>a</sup> that <sup>6</sup> such should be stoned; but what sayest thou? This they said, tempting him, that they might have to accuse him. But Jesus stooped down, and with his <sup>7</sup> finger wrote on the ground, as though he heard them not. So when they continued asking him, he lifted up himself, and said unto them, He that is without <sup>8</sup> sin among you, let him first<sup>b</sup> cast a stone at her. And again he stooped down, <sup>9</sup> and wrote on the ground. And they which heard it, being convicted by their own conscience, went out one by one, beginning at the eldest, even unto the <sup>10</sup> last: and Jesus was left alone, and the woman standing in the midst. When Jesus had lifted up himself, and saw none but the woman, he said unto her,
Woman, where are those thine accusers? hath no man condemned thee?
<sup>11</sup> She said, No man, Lord. And Jesus said unto her, Neither do I condemn thee: go, and sin no more.]

§ 83. Further Teaching in the Temple; the Jews attempt to stone Jesus, and He escapes. — Jerusalem.

ST. JOHN VIII. 12—59.

<sup>12</sup> . Then spake Jesus again unto them, saying, I am the light of the world: he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life.
<sup>13</sup> The Pharisees therefore said unto him, Thou barest record of thyself; thy <sup>14</sup> record is not true. Jesus answered and said unto them, Though I bear record of myself, yet my record is true: for I know whence I came, and whither I
<sup>16</sup> flesh: I judge no man. And yet if I judge, my judgment is true: for I am <sup>17</sup> not alone, but I and He<sup>4</sup> that sent me. It is also written in your law, that <sup>18</sup> the testimony of two men is true.<sup>c</sup> I am one that bear witness of myself, and <sup>19</sup> the Father that sent me beareth witness of me. Then said they unto him, Where is thy father? Jesus answered, Ye neither know me, nor my Father:
if ye had known me, ye should have known my Father also.

20 These words spake He<sup>1</sup> in the treasury, as he taught in the temple: and no man laid hands on him; for his hour was not yet come.

21 Then said He<sup>2</sup> again unto them, I go my way, and ye shall seek me, and shall die in your sins: whither I go, ye cannot come. Then said the Jews, 22 Will he kill himself? because he saith, Whither I go, ye cannot come. And he said unto them, Ye are from beneath; I am from above: ye are of this 23 world; I am not of this world. I said therefore unto you, that ye shall die in your sins: for if ye believe not that I am He, ye shall die in your sins. Then 24 said they unto him, Who art thou? <sup>3</sup>Jesus saith unto them, Even the same 25 that I said unto you from the beginning. I have many things to say and to judge of you: but he that sent me is true; and I speak to the world those things 26 which I have heard of him. They understood not that he spake to them of the Father.

27 Then said Jesus,<sup>4</sup> When ye have lifted up the Son of man, then shall ye know that I am He, and that I do nothing of myself; but as the<sup>5</sup> Father hath taught me, I speak these things. And he that sent me is with me: He<sup>6</sup> hath not left me alone; for I do always those things that please him.

28 As he spake these words many believed on him. Then said Jesus to those 29 Jews which believed on him, If ye continue in my word, then are ye my disci- 30 ples indeed; and ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free.

31 They answered him, We be Abraham's seed, and were never in bondage to any man: <sup>a</sup> how sayest thou, Ye shall be made free?

32 Jesus answered them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Whosoever, committeth 33 sin is the servant of sin. And the servant abideth not in the house for ever: 34 but the Son abideth ever. If the Son therefore shall make you free, ye shall 35 be free indeed. I know that ye are Abraham's seed; but ye seek to kill me, 36 because my word hath no place in you. I speak that which I have seen with the<sup>7</sup> Father; and ye do that which ye have heard with your<sup>8</sup> father.

37 They answered and said unto him, Abraham is our father.

38 Jesus saith unto them, If ye were Abraham's children, ye would do the 39 works of Abraham. But now ye seek to kill me, a man that hath told you the truth, which I have heard of God: this did not Abraham. Ye do the 40 deeds of your father.

41 They<sup>9</sup> said to him, We be not born of fornication; we have one Father, even God.

42 Jesus said unto them, If God were your Father, ye would love me; for I proceeded forth and came from God; neither came I of myself, but he sent me. 43 Why do ye not understand my speech? even because ye cannot hear my word. 44 Ye are of your father the devil, and the lusts of your father ye will do. He was a murderer from the beginning, and abode not in the truth, because there is no truth in him. When he speaketh a lie, he speaketh of his own; for he 45 is a liar, and the father of it. And because I tell you the truth, ye believe 46 me not. Which of you convinceth me of sin? <sup>1</sup> If I say the truth, why do ye 47 not believe me? He that is of God heareth God's words; ye therefore hear them not, because ye are not of God.

48 The Jews<sup>2</sup> answered and said unto him, Say we not well that thou art a Samaritan, and hast a devil?

49 Jesus answered, I have not a devil; but I honor my Father, and ye do 50 dishonor me. And I seek not mine own glory: there is One that seeketh and 51 judgeth. Verily, verily, I say unto you, If a man keep my saying, he shall never see death.

52 The Jews said<sup>3</sup> unto him, Now we know that thou hast a devil. Abraham is dead, and the prophets: and thou sayest, If a man keep my saying, he shall 53 never taste of death! Art thou greater than our father Abraham, which is dead? and the prophets are dead: whom makest thou thyself?

54 Jesus answered, If I honor myself, my honor is nothing: it is my Father 55 that honoreth me: of whom ye say, that he is our<sup>4</sup> God: yet ye have not known him; but I know him: and if I should say, I know him not, I shall be 56 a liar like unto you: but I know him, and keep his saying. Your father Abraham rejoiced to see my day: and he saw it, and was glad.

57 Then said the Jews unto him, Thou art not yet fifty years old, and hast thou seen Abraham?

58 Jesus said unto them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Before Abraham was, 59 I am.<sup>a</sup> Then took they up stones to cast at him; but Jesus hid himself, and went out of the temple.<sup>5</sup>

ST. JOHN IX. 1-X. 21.

1 And as Jesus passed by, he saw a man which was blind from his birth.
 2 And his disciples asked him, saying, Master, who did sin, this man, or his 3 parents, that he was born blind? Jesus answered, neither hath this man sinned, nor his parents; but that the works of God should be made manifest

§ 84. This section may be placed either before or after the journey in Perea, of which St. Luke gives so full a record. Its connection is perhaps rather more close with what precedes than with what follows, and it is accordingly here placed before the Perea journey. The allusion in x. 26 to the discourse in x. 1-18 would be perfectly appropriate on the next occasion of addressing the people at Jerusalem after an interval of only two or three months.

6 the light of the world. When he had thus spoken, he spat on the ground, 7 and made clay of the spittle, and he anointed his eyes with clay.<sup>1</sup> And said unto him, Go, wash in the pool of Siloam,<sup>a</sup> (which is by interpretation, Sent.)
He went his way therefore, and washed, and came seeing.

8 The neighbors therefore, and they which before had seen him that he was 9 a beggar,<sup>2</sup> said, Is not not this he that sat and begged? Some said, this is 10 he: others said, No, but he<sup>3</sup> is like him: but he said, I am he. Therefore 11 said they unto him, How then<sup>4</sup> were thine eyes opened? He answered,<sup>5</sup> A man that is called Jesus made clay, and anointed mine eyes, and said unto me, Go to<sup>6</sup> Siloam, and wash: I went therefore,<sup>7</sup> and washed, and I received 12 sight. They said<sup>8</sup> unto him, Where is he? He said, I know not.

<sup>13</sup> They brought to the Pharisees him that aforetime was blind. And it was <sup>14</sup> the sabbath day when Jesus made the clay, and opened his eyes. Then again the Pharisees also asked him how he had received his sight. He said unto 15 them, He put clay upon mine eyes, and I washed, and do see. Therefore said some of the Pharisees, This man is not of God, because he keepeth not the sabbath day. Others said, How can a man that is a sinner do such mira-16 cles? And there was a division among them. They say therefore<sup>9</sup> unto the blind man again, What sayest thou of him, that he hath opened thine eyes?
17 He said, He is a prophet. But the Jews did not believe concerning him, that he had been blind, and received his sight, until they called the parents of him 18 that had received his sight. And they asked them, saying, Is this your son, 19 who ye say was born blind? how then doth he now see? His parents answered therefore,<sup>10</sup> and said, We know that this is our son, and that he was 20 born blind: but by what means he now seeth, we know not; or who hath opened his eyes, we know not: he is of age; ask him: he shall speak for 21 himself. These words spake his parents, because they feared the Jews: for the Jews had agreed already, that if any man did confess that he was Christ, 22 he should be put out of the synagogue. Therefore said his parents, He is of age: ask him.

24 Then again called they the man that was blind, and said unto him, Give God the praise: we know that this man is a sinner. He answered,<sup>11</sup> whether he be a sinner or no, I know not; one thing I know, that, whereas I was blind, 25 now I see. They said therefore<sup>12</sup> to him, What did he to thee? how opened 27 he thine eyes? He answered them, I have told you already, and ye did not 28 hear: wherefore would ye hear it again? will ye also be his disciples? <sup>13</sup> They reviled him, and said, Thou art his disciple; but we are Moses' disciples.

 29 We know that God spake unto Moses: as for this fellow, we know not from 30 whence he is. The man answered and said unto them, Why herein is a marvellous thing, that ye know not from whence he is, and yet he hath opened 31 mine eyes. Now we know that God heareth not sinners: but if any man be 32 a worshipper of God, and doeth his will, him he heareth. Since the world began was it not heard that any man opened the eyes of one that was born 33 blind. If this man were not of God, he could do nothing. They answered 34 and said unto him, Thou wast altogether born in sins! and dost thou teach us?
 And they cast him out.

35 Jesus heard that they had cast him out; and when he had found him, he 36 said,<sup>1</sup> Dost thou believe on the Son of Man?<sup>2</sup> He answered and said, and<sup>3</sup>
 37 who is he, Lord, that I might believe on him? <sup>4</sup>Jesus said unto him, Thou 38 hast both seen him, and it is he that talketh with thee. And he said, Lord, 39 I believe. And he worshipped him. And Jesus said, For judgment I am come into this world, that they which see not might see; and that they which see might be made blind.

40 <sup>5</sup>Some of the Pharisees which were with him heard,<sup>6</sup> and said unto him, 41 Are we blind also? Jesus said unto them, If ye were blind, ye should have 1 no sin: but now ye say, We see:<sup>7</sup> your sin remaineth. X. Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that entereth not by the door into the sheepfold, but climb-2 eth up some other way, the same is a thief and a robber. But he that entereth 3 in by the door is the shepherd of the sheep. To him the porter openeth; and the sheep hear his voice: and he calleth his own sheep by name, and 4 leadeth them out. <sup>8</sup>When he putteth forth all his own,<sup>9</sup> he goeth before them, 5 and the sheep follow him: for they know his voice. And a stranger will they not follow, but will flee from him: for they know not the voice of stran-6 gers. This parable spake Jesus unto them: but they understood not what things they were which he spake unto them.

7 Then said Jesus unto them again, Verily, verily, I say unto you, I am the 8 door of the sheep. All that ever came<sup>10</sup> are thieves and robbers: but the 9 sheep did not hear them. I am the door: by me if any man enter in, he shall 10 be saved, and shall go in and out, and find pasture. The thief cometh not but for to steal, and to kill, and to destroy: I am come that they might have life, 11 and that they might have it more abundantly. I am the good shepherd: the 12 good shepherd giveth his life for the sheep. But he that is an hireling, and not the shepherd, whose own the sheep are not, seeth the wolf coming, and leaveth the sheep, and fleeth; and the wolf catcheth and scattereth them,<sup>11</sup>

ST. JOHN X.

14 because he is an hireling, and careth not for the sheep. I am the good shep-15 herd, and know mine, and mine know me.<sup>1</sup> As the Father knoweth me, even 16 so know I the Father: and I lay down my life for the sheep. And other sheep I have, which are not of this fold: them also I must bring, and they 17 shall hear my voice; and there shall be one flock<sup>1a</sup> and one shepherd. Therefore doth my Father love me, because I lay down my life, that I might take it 18 again. No man taketh it from me, but I lay it down of myself. I have power to lay it down, and I have power to take it again. This commandment have I received of my Father.

<sup>19</sup> There was a division<sup>2</sup> again among the Jews for these sayings. Therefore<sup>3</sup> 21 many of them said, He hath a devil, and is mad; why hear ye him? Others said, These are not the words of him that hath a devil. Can a devil open the eyes of the blind?

ST. LUKE X. 17-24.

17 And the seventy returned again with joy, saying, Lord, even the devname! And he said unto them, I be-§ 85. The return of the Seventy is shown to have occurred in or near Jerusalem by the narrative of the following sections, evidently relating to that neighborhood. Very likely our Lord waited at Jerusalem after the feast of Tabernacles until joined by them, and then set out for Perea, where they had been preparing his way.

There is no reason for disturbing the order of St. Luke, although the visit to Jerusalem at the feast (of which he makes no mention) comes between the sending forth and the return of the Seventy.

§ 86. Parable of the Good Samaritan. — Near Jerusalem.

ST. LUKE X. 25-37.

25 And behold, a certain lawyer stood up, tempting<sup>2</sup> him, saying, Master, what 26 shall I do to inherit eternal life ? He said unto him, What is written in the 27 law ? how readest thou ? And he answering said, Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, 28 and with all thy mind : and thy neighbor as thyself. And he said unto him, 29 Thou hast answered right : this do, and thou shalt live. But he, willing to 30 justify himself, said unto Jesus, And who is my neighbor ? <sup>3</sup> Jesus answering said, A certain man went down from Jerusalem to Jericho, and fell among thieves, which stripped him of his raiment, and wounded him, and departed, leaving 31 him half dead. And by chance there came down a certain priest that way :
 32 and when he saw him, he passed by on the other side. And likewise a Levite, when he was at the place, came and looked on him, and passed by on the other

 when he saw him,<sup>4</sup> he had compassion on him, and went to him and bound up

 36 thou spendest more, when I come again, I will repay thee. Which<sup>3</sup> of these three, thinkest thou, was neighbor unto him that fell among the thieves?

ST. LUKE X. 38-42.

Now it came to pass, as they went, that he entered into a certain village: 39 and a certain woman named Martha received him into the<sup>5</sup> house. And she had a sister called Mary, which also sat at the Lord's<sup>6</sup> feet, and heard his word.
 40 But Martha was cumbered about much serving, and came to him, and said, Lord, dost thou not care that my sister hath left me to serve alone? bid her 41 therefore that she help me. And the Lord<sup>7</sup> answered and said unto her, 42 Martha, Martha, thou art careful and troubled about many things: but one thing is needful: for<sup>8</sup> Mary hath chosen that good part, which shall not be taken away from her.

<sup>1</sup> And it came to pass, that, as he was praying in a certain place, when he ceased, one of his disciples said unto him, Lord, teach us to pray, as John also taught 2 his disciples. And he said unto them, When ye pray,

§ 87. St. Luke here mentions our Lord's acquaintance with Martha and Mary, which St. John (xi.) assumes, but does not mention, while St. Luke makes no allusion to the miracle recorded by St. John.

§ 88. The much abridged form of the Lord's prayer as given (according to the text) by St. Luke is perhaps to be considered as our Lord's recalling to the recollection of the disciples, in answer to their request, the prayer he had already long since taught them in the Sermon on the Mount (Matt. vi. 9 ss.); in the common version it appears almost as a full repetition of the prayer itself.

§ 89. This discourse, as given by the two Evangelists, is too plainly the same to allow of the separation of the two records. It is more fully recorded by St. Matthew, as is his custom in regard to the discourses of our Lord; but as he gives no account of the journey in Perea, it is placed by him in connection with the warning against the Scribes and Pharisees in xxiii. 1-3 (§ 122). The closing verses of lament over Jerusalem are commonly considered as having been twice uttered: once in the connection given by St. Matthew, and once in that mentioned by St. Luke. This is indeed probable; for if they were uttered only once, it is not easy to see why St. Luke should have omitted them here, and have inserted them there; while in St. Matthew they cannot well be separated from the context. Nevertheless, the agreement of the two passages is so close, almost verbal throughout, that for the purposes of a harmony they must be exhibited together.

It has been already said (note to § 59) that this discourse can hardly have been originally spoken in connection with its context in St. Matthew; the order of St. Luke (except vs. 10) is therefore preserved. § 91. He refuses to divide an Inheritance. The Parable of the Rich Man.

ST. LUKE XII. 13-21.

13 And one of the company said unto him, Master, speak to my brother, that 14 he divide the inheritance with me. And he said unto him, Man, who made 15 me a judge or a divider over you? And he said unto them, Take heed, and beware of all<sup>1</sup> covetousness: for a man's life consisteth not in the abundance 16 of the things which he possesseth. And he spake a parable unto them, saying, 17 The ground of a certain rich man brought forth plentifully: and he thought within himself, saying, What shall I do, because I have no room where to 18 bestow my fruits? And he said, This will I do: I will pull down my barns, 19 and build greater; and there will I bestow all my fruits and my goods. And I will say to my soul, Soul, thou hast much goods laid up for many years; 20 take thine ease, eat, drink, and be merry. But God said unto him, Thou fool! this night thy soul shall be required of thee: then whose shall those 21 things be, which thou hast provided? So is he that layeth up treasure for himself, and is not rich toward God.

§ 92. As St. Matthew gives no account of this journey through Perea, he cannot, of course, record in their connection the discourses there spoken. Such portions of them as he has preserved at all, he has placed in connection with such other teachings of our Lord, given at various times, as they most resembled. It thus happens that in order to exhibit really parallel passages in their parallelism, it is necessary to bring together matter distributed in the Gospel of St. Matthew almost from one end to the other. The present section is the most striking instance of this, and it is noticeable in several others.

ST. MATT. VI.

do they reap, nor gather into barns ;
yet your heavenly Father feedeth them. Are ye not much better than 27 they ? Which of you by taking thought can add one cubit unto his 28 stature ? And why take ye thought for raiment ? Consider the lilies of the field, how they grow : they toil 29 not, neither do they spin ; and yet I say unto you, that even Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like 30 one of these. Wherefore, if God so clothe the grass of the field, which to day is, and to morrow is cast into the oven, shall he not much more 31 clothe you, O ye of little faith ? Therefore take no thought, saying, What shall we eat ? or, What shall we drink ? or, Wherewithal shall we be 32 clothed ? For after all these things do the Gentiles seek : for your heavenly Father knoweth that ye 33 have need of all these things. But seek ye first his <sup>3</sup> kingdom and righteousness ; and all these things shall 34 be added unto you. Take therefore no thought for the morrow : for the morrow shall take thought for <sup>6</sup> itself.

you with taking thought can add to not able to do that thing which is least, why take ye thought for the rest ?

27 Consider the lilies how they grow :
they toil not, they spin not ; and yet I say unto you, that Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these.
28 If then God so clothe the grass, which is to day in the field, and to morrow is cast into the oven ; how much more will he clothe you, O ye of little faith ?
29 And seek not ye what ye shall eat, and <sup>2</sup> what ye shall drink, neither be 30 ye of doubtful mind. For all these things do the nations of the world seek after : and your Father knoweth that 31 ye have need of these things. But rather seek ye his <sup>4</sup> kingdom ; and <sup>5</sup> these things shall be added unto you.

32 Fear not, little flock ; for it is your Father's good pleasure to give 33 you the kingdom. Sell that ye have, and give alms ; provide yourselves bags which wax not old, a treasure in the heavens that faileth not, where no

§ 93. Of the Slaughter of the Galileans; the Parable of the Fig-tree; a Woman healed on the Sabbath.

ST. LUKE XIII. 1-17.

1 There were present at that season some that told him of the Galileans, 2 whose blood Pilate had mingled with their sacrifices. And he<sup>3</sup> answering said unto them, Suppose ye that these Galileans were sinners above all the 3 Galileans, because they suffered these<sup>4</sup> things? I tell you, Nay: but, except 4 ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish. Or those eighteen, upon whom the tower in Siloam fell, and slew them, think ye that they were sinners above 5 all men that dwelt in Jerusalem? I tell you, Nay; but, except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish.

6 He spake also this parable:<sup>a</sup> A certain man had a fig tree planted in his 7 vineyard; and he came and sought fruit thereon, and found none. Then said he unto the dresser of his vineyard, Behold, these three years since<sup>5</sup> I come seeking fruit on this fig-tree, and find none: cut it down; why cumbereth it 8 the ground? And he answering said unto him, Lord, let it alone this year
9 also, till I shall dig about it, and dung it: And if it bear fruit after that,<sup>6</sup> well: and if not, thou shalt cut it down.

10 And he was teaching in one of the synagogues on the sabbath. And,
11 behold, there was<sup>7</sup> a woman which had a spirit of infirmity eighteen years, 12 and was bowed together, and could in no wise lift up herself. And when Jesus saw her, he called her to him, and said unto her, Woman, thou art 13 loosed from thine infirmity. And he laid his hands on her; and immediately she was made straight, and glorified God.

14 And the ruler of the synagogue answered with indignation, because that § 94. The Festival of the Dedication; Jesus retires beyond the Jordan.

ST. JOHN X. 22-42.

22 And it was at Jerusalem the feast of the dedication<sup>b</sup>:<sup>3</sup> it was winter. And 23 Jesus walked in the temple in Solomon's porch.<sup>c</sup> Then came the Jews round about him, and said unto him, How long dost thou make us to doubt? If thou 24 be the Christ, tell us plainly. Jesus answered,<sup>4</sup> I told you, and ye believe not; the works that I do in my Father's name, they bear witness of me. But ye 25 believe not, because ye are not of my sheep.<sup>5</sup> My sheep hear my voice, and I
 26 know them, and they follow me: And I give unto them eternal life; and they shall never perish, neither shall any man pluck them out of my hand. The<sup>6</sup>
 27 Father, which gave them me, is greater than all; and no man is able to pluck 28 them out of the<sup>6</sup> Father's hand. I and my Father are one.

29 The<sup>7</sup> Jews took up stones again to stone him. Jesus answered them, Many good works have I showed you from the<sup>6</sup> Father; for which of those works do 30 ye stone me? The Jews answered him,<sup>8</sup> For a good work we stone thee not; but for blasphemy; and because that thou, being a man, makest thyself God.
 31 Jesus answered them, Is it not written in your law, that<sup>9</sup> I said, Ye are gods?<sup>4</sup>
 32 If he called them gods, unto whom the word of God came, and the scripture cannot be broken; say ye of him, whom the Father hath sanctified, and sent into the world. Thou blasphemest; because I said, I am the Son of God?
 33 If I do not the works of my Father, believe me not. But if I do, though ye believe not me, believe the works; that ye may know, and understand,<sup>10</sup> that 34 the Father is in me, and I in the Father.<sup>11</sup> Therefore they sought<sup>12</sup> to take him; but he escaped out of their hand, and went away again beyond Jordan into the place where John at first baptized;<sup>c</sup> and there he abode. And many resorted unto him, and said, John did no miracle; but all things that

23 Then said one unto him, Lord, are there few that be saved? And he said 24 unto them, Strive to enter in at the strait door<sup>a2</sup>; for many, I say unto you, 25 will seek to enter in, and shall not be able. When once the master of the house is risen up, and hath shut to the door, and ye begin to stand without, and to knock at the door, saying, Lord,<sup>3</sup> open unto us; and he shall answer and 26 say unto you, I know you not whence ye are:<sup>b</sup> then shall ye begin to say,
We have eaten and drunk in thy presence, and thou hast taught in our streets.
27 But he shall say, I tell you, I know you not whence ye are; depart from me, 28 all ye workers of iniquity. There shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth,<sup>c</sup> when ye shall see Abraham, and Isaac, and Jacob, and all the prophets, in 29 the kingdom of God, and you yourselves thrust out. And they shall come from the east, and from the west, and from<sup>4</sup> the north, and from the south, these things by the other Evangelists, and the Perea journey being recorded by St. Luke alone, there are no points of comparison by which to determine with certainty the chronological order. This visit and discourse, however, must have taken place not far from this time; and as St. Luke, in the next section (xiii. 22), mentions our Lord's "journeying towards Jerusalem," he may intend to designate thereby another going up to the city, besides the one of which he has already given so full an account. This cannot, however, be considered as quite decisive. As attendance at the festival of Dedication was not obligatory, it is generally considered that our Lord must have been already in the neighborhood, — as he would very probably have been at the close of his journey through Perea.

§ 95. (A) According to the arrangement given above, as on the whole more probable than any other, some time must have elapsed since the events of the previous section. During this time our Lord abode where John had baptized; and there many, prepared by his forerunner, believed on him. He now began again to move towards Jerusalem, stopping as he went, to teach in the villages along the way. Here the latter part of Matt. xix. 1 and Mar. x. 1 is introduced, although these verses must cover the whole time from our Lord's final departure from Galilee until his near approach to Jerusalem for the last Passover.

If Jno. x. 22–42 be placed elsewhere than in the previous section, then Lk. xiii. 22 will refer only to the leisurely continuance of the journey begun so long before.

31 The same hour<sup>1</sup> there came certain of the Pharisees, saying unto him. Get thee out, and depart hence; for Herod will kill thee. And he said unto them, Go ye, and tell that fox, Behold, I cast out devils, and I do cures to-day and to-morrow, and the third day I shall be perfected. Nevertheless I must walk to-day, and to-morrow, and the day following; for it cannot be that a prophet perish out of Jerusalem.

§ 96. At Table with a chief Pharisee on the Sabbath; He heals the Dropsy, and teaches. — Perea.

ST. LUKE XIV. 1-24.

1 And it came to pass, as he went into the house of one of the chief Pharisees
2 to eat bread on the Sabbath-day, that they watched him. And, behold, there 3 was a certain man before him which had the dropsy. And Jesus answering spake unto the lawyers and Pharisees, saying, Is it lawful to heal on the 4 sabbath-day, or not?<sup>2</sup> And they held their peace. And he took him, and 5 healed him, and let him go; and answered them, saying, Which of you shall have a son<sup>3</sup> or an ox fallen into a pit, and will not straightway pull him out 6 on the Sabbath-day?<sup>b</sup> And they could not answer<sup>4</sup> again to these things.

7 And he put forth a parable to those which were bidden, when he marked 8 how they chose out the chief rooms; saying unto them, When thou art bidden of any man to a wedding, sit not down in the highest room; lest a more honor-9 able man than thou be bidden of him; and he that bade thee and him come and say to thee, Give this man place, and thou begin with shame to take the 10 lowest room. But when thou art bidden, go and sit down in the lowest room; that when he that bade thee cometh, he may say unto thee, Friend, go up higher; then shalt thou have worship in the presence of all<sup>5</sup> them that 11 sit at meat with thee. For whosoever exalteth himself shall be abased; and he that humbleth himself shall be exalted.<sup>c</sup>

§ 95. (B) Several of our Lord's sayings in this passage closely resemble parts of the Sermon on the Mount. These appear to have been a partial repetition in Perea of the instruction long before given in Galilee. Although particular expressions are even verbally the same, their context is quite different.

Verses 34 and 35 of Lk. xiii. are so closely parallel to Matt. xxiii. 37-39, that they may be better studied in connection with them, and they have been therefore placed in § 89. As a matter of fact, however, it is likely that they were uttered twice, first under the circumstances mentioned by St. Matthew, and afterwards repeated as they are recorded by St. Luke. They are most closely attached to the context in St. Matthew.

- 12 Then said he also to him that bade him, When thou makest a dinner or a supper, call not thy friends, nor thy brethren, neither thy kinsmen, nor thy rich neighbors; lest they also bid thee again, and a recompence be made thee.
- 13 But when thou makest a feast, call the poor, the maimed, the lame, the blind:
- 14 and thou shalt be blessed;<sup>a</sup> for they cannot recompense thee; but<sup>1</sup> thou shalt be recompensed at the resurrection of the just.
- 15 And when one of them that sat at meat with him heard these things, he said unto him, Blessed is he whosoever<sup>2</sup> shall eat bread in the kingdom of
- 16 God. Then said he unto him,<sup>b</sup> A certain man made a great supper, and bade
- 17 many: and sent his servant at supper time to say to them that were bidden,

- 21 have me excused. And another said, I have married a wife, and therefore I
- 22 cannot come. So the<sup>4</sup> servant came, and showed his lord these things.
- Then the master of the house being angry said to his servant, Go out quickly into the streets and lanes of the city, and bring in hither the poor, and the
- 23 maimed, and the halt, and the blind. And the servant said, Lord, what
- 24 thou hast commanded is done,<sup>5</sup> and yet there is room. And the lord said

11 And he said, A certain man had two sons : and the younger of them said to his father, Father, give me the portion of goods that falleth to me. And 12 he divided unto them his living. And not many days after the younger son gathered all together, and took his journey into a far country, and there wasted 13 his substance with riotous living. And when he had spent all, there arose a mighty famine in that land ; and he began to be in want. And he went and 14 joined himself to a citizen of that country ; and he sent him into his fields to feed swine. And he would fain have filled his belly with the husks that the 15 swine did eat ; and no man gave unto him. And when he came to himself, he said, How many hired servants of my father's have bread enough and to 17 will say unto him, Father, I have sinned against heaven, and before thee.<sup>2</sup> I

 24 asked what these things meant. And he said unto him, Thy brother is come ;
 and thy father hath killed the fatted calf, because he hath received him safe

- 2 And he called him, and said unto him, How is it that I hear this of thee? Give an account of thy stewardship; for thou mayest be no longer steward.
- 3 Then the steward said within himself, What shall I do? for my lord taketh
- 4 away from me the stewardship: I cannot dig; to beg I am ashamed. I am resolved what to do, that, when I am put out of the stewardship, they may receive me into their own <sup>3</sup> houses.

(C) The Parable of Dives and Lazarus.

ST. LUKE XVI. 19-31.

- 19 There was a certain rich man, which was clothed in purple and fine linen, 20 and fared sumptuously every day. And<sup>3</sup> a certain beggar named Lazarus 21 was laid at his gate, full of sores, and desiring to be fed with that<sup>4</sup> which fell from the rich man's table: moreover the dogs came and licked his sores.
 22 And it came to pass, that the beggar died, and was carried by the angels into 23 Abraham's bosom; the rich man also died, and was buried; and in hell he lift up his eyes, being in torments, and seeth Abraham afar off, and Lazarus 24 in his bosom. And he cried and said, Father Abraham, have mercy on me! and send Lazarus, that he may dip the tip of his finger in water, and cool 25 my tongue; for I am tormented in this flame. But Abraham said, Son, remember that thou in thy lifetime receivedst thy good things, and likewise Laz-26 arus evil things: but now he is comforted here,<sup>5</sup> and thou art tormented. And besides all this, between us and you there is a great gulf fixed: so that they which would pass from hence to you cannot; neither can they pass to us, 27 that would come from thence. Then he said, I pray thee therefore, father, 28 that thou wouldst send him to my father's house: for I have five brethren; that he may testify unto them, lest they also come into this place of torment.
 29 But Abraham saith,<sup>6</sup> They have Moses and the prophets; let them hear 30 them. And he said, Nay, father Abraham: but if one went unto them from 31 the dead, they will repent. And he said unto him, If they hear not Moses and the prophets, neither will they be persuaded, though one rose from the

ST. LUKE XVII. 5-10.

- 5 And the apostles said unto the Lord, Increase our faith. And the Lord 6 said, If ye have<sup>1</sup> faith as a grain of mustard-seed,<sup>a</sup> ye might say unto this sycammine-tree, Be thou plucked up by the root, and be thou planted in the sea; and it should obey you.
- 7 But which of you, having a servant ploughing, or feeding cattle, will say unto him<sup>2</sup> when he is come from the field, Go directly and sit down to meat?
- 8 And will not rather say unto him, Make ready wherewith I may sup, and gird thyself, and serve me, till I have eaten and drunken; and afterward thou 9 shalt eat and drink? Doth he thank the<sup>3</sup> servant, because he did the things 10 that were commanded?<sup>4</sup> So likewise ye, when ye shall have done all those things which are commanded you, say, We are unprofitable servants: we have done that which was our duty to do.

§ 101. The Resurrection of Lazarus and consequent Action of the Jews. —

Bethany, Jerusalem, and Ephraim.

ST. JOHN XI. 1-54.

- 1 Now a certain man was sick, named Lazarus, of Bethany, the town of Mary 2 and her sister Martha.<sup>b</sup> (It was that Mary which anointed<sup>c</sup> the Lord with ointment, and wiped his feet with her hair, whose brother Lazarus was sick.)
- 3 Therefore his sisters sent unto him, saying, Lord, Behold! he whom thou lovest is sick.
- 4 When Jesus heard that, he said, This sickness is not unto death, but for 5 the glory of God, that the Son of God might be glorified thereby. Now 6 Jesus loved Martha, and her sister, and Lazarus. When he had heard therefore that he was sick, he abode two days still in the same place where 7 he was. Then after that saith he to his disciples, Let us go into Judea
 8 again. His disciples say unto him, Master, the Jews of late sought to stone 9 thee<sup>d</sup>; and goest thou thither again? Jesus answered, Are there not twelve hours in the day? If any man walk in the day, he stumbleth not, because 10 he seeth the light of this world. But if a man walk in the night, he 11 stumbleth, because there is no light in him. These things said he: and after that he saith unto them, Our friend Lazarus sleepeth; but I go, that I 12 may awake him out of sleep. Then said his disciples unto him,<sup>5</sup> Lord, if he 13 sleep, he shall do well. Howbeit Jesus spake of his death: but they thought that 14 he had spoken of taking of rest in sleep. Then said Jesus unto them plainly,

<sup>1</sup> If ye had faith      <sup>2</sup> will say unto him by and by, when he is come from the field, Go and sit<sup>3</sup> that servant      <sup>4</sup> were commanded him? 15 Lazarus is dead. And I am glad for your sakes that I was not there, to the 16 intent ye may believe; nevertheless let us go unto him. Then said Thomas, which is called Didymus, unto his fellow disciples, Let us also go, that we may die with him.

17 Then when Jesus came, he found that he had lain in the grave four days
 18 already. Now Bethany was nigh unto Jerusalem, about fifteen furlongs 19 off: and many of the Jews came to Martha and Mary, to comfort them con-20 cerning their<sup>1</sup> brother. Then Martha, as soon as she heard that Jesus was 21 coming, went and met him: but Mary sat still in the house. Then said Martha unto Jesus, Lord, if thou hadst been here, my brother had not died.
 22 Even now I know, that<sup>2</sup> whatsoever thou wilt ask of God, God will give 23 it thee. Jesus saith unto her, Thy brother shall rise again. Martha saith 24 unto him, I know that he shall rise again in the resurrection at the last 25 day.<sup>a</sup> Jesus said unto her, I am the resurrection, and the life: he that 26 believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live: and whosoever 27 liveth and believeth in me shall never die. Believest thou this? She saith unto him, Yea, Lord: I believe that thou art the Christ, the Son of God, which should come into the world.

28 And when she had said this,<sup>3</sup> she went her way, and called Mary her sister 29 secretly, saying, The Master is come, and calleth for thee. As soon as she 30 heard that, she arose quickly, and came unto him. Now Jesus was not yet 31 come into the town, but was in that place where Martha met him. The Jews then which were with her in the house, and comforted her, when they saw Mary, that she rose up hastily and went out, followed her, thinking.<sup>4</sup> She 32 goeth unto the grave to weep there. Then when Mary was come, where Jesus was, and saw him, she fell down at his feet, saying unto him, Lord, if 33 thou hadst been here, my brother had not died. When Jesus therefore saw her weeping, and the Jews also weeping which came with her, he groaned in 34 the spirit, and was troubled, and said, Where have ye laid him? They said 35 unto him, Lord, come and see. Jesus wept. Then said the Jews, Behold 36 how he loved him! And some of them said, Could not this man, which 37 opened the eyes of the blind, have caused that even this man should not have died? Jesus therefore again groaning in himself cometh to the grave.
 38 It was a cave, and a stone lay upon it. Jesus said, Take ye away the stone.
 Martha, the sister of him that was dead, saith unto him, Lord, by this time he stinketh: for he hath been dead four days. Jesus saith unto her, Said I not 40 unto thee, that, if thou wouldest believe, thou shouldst see the glory of God?
 41 Then they took away the stone.<sup>5</sup> And Jesus lifted up his eyes, and said, 42 Father, I thank thee that thou hast heard me. And I knew that thou hearest me always: but because of the people which stand by I said it, that they

ST. JOHN XI.

43 may believe that thou hast sent me. And when he thus had spoken, he cried 44 with a loud voice, Lazarus, come forth. He<sup>1</sup> that was dead came forth, bound hand and foot with grave-clothes: and his face was bound about with a napkin. Jesus saith unto them, Loose him, and let him go.

45 Then many of the Jews which came to Mary, and had seen the things 46 which he<sup>2</sup> did, believed on him. But some of them went their ways to the Pharisees, and told them what things Jesus had done.

47 Then gathered the chief priests and the Pharisees a council, and said, 48 What do we? for this man doeth many miracles. If we let him thus alone, all men will believe on him: and the Romans shall come and take away both 49 our place and nation. And one of them, named Caiaphas<sup>a</sup> being the high 50 priest that same year, said unto them, Ye know nothing at all, 'nor consider that it is expedient for you,<sup>3</sup> that one man should die for the people, and that 51 the whole nation perish not. And this spake he not of himself: but being high priest that year, he prophesied that Jesus should die for that nation; 52 and not for that nation only, but that also he should gather together in one 53 the children of God that were scattered abroad. Then from that day forth they took counsel<sup>4</sup> for to put him to death.

54 Jesus therefore walked no more openly among the Jews; but went thence unto a country near to the wilderness, into a city called Ephraim, and there

§ 101. Ephraim, to which our Lord retired (vs. 54), is a small, but very strong, city in the N. E. of Judah, on the confines of Samaria, and is identified with the Ephron or Ephraim of 2 Chron. xiii. 19, and is also identified by Robinson (notes in loco, p. 204) with the Ophrah in Benjamin of Josh. xviii. 23; 1 Sam. xiii. 17, and with "the lofty site of the modern et-Taiyibeh, situated two hours northeast of Bethel, and six hours and twenty minutes N. N. E. of Jerusalem (reckoning three Roman miles to the hour), adjacent to and overlooking the broad tract of desert country lying between it and the valley of the Jordan." Our Saviour appears to have remained here until the near approach of the last Passover, when he again crossed the Jordan, and joined the crowds of worshippers going up to Jerusalem. At this point the other Evangelists resume their narrative. The length of the sojourn in Ephraim we have no means of ascertaining, and there are no certain data for determining at precisely what point in St. Luke's narrative the resurrection of Lazarus occurred. It is generally

 37 Son of Man be. But as the days of Noe<sup>a</sup> were, so shall <sup>4</sup> the coming 38 of the Son of Man be. For as in the days that were before the flood they were eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage, until the day that Noe entered into § 102. Another instance in which St. Matthew, having omitted the narrative of this period, preserves some important parts of its discourses, by connecting them with a similar discourse uttered somewhat later. By transposing these passages to this place, and into connection with the closely parallel language of St. Luke, the twenty-fourth chapter of St. Matthew may become clearer to the student. A single verse of St. Luke (31), on the other hand, requires to be transposed to that discourse by the arrangement of both St. Matthew and St. Mark. It is also intimately connected with what thus becomes its context in St. Luke.

§ 103. The Parables of the Importunate Widow, and of the Pharisee and Publican.

ST. LUKE XVIII. 1-14.

1 And he spake a parable unto them to this end, that they<sup>4</sup> ought always to 2 pray,<sup>a</sup> and not to faint; saying. There was in a city a judge, which feared not 3 God, neither regarded man: and there was a widow in that city; and she 4 came unto him, saying, Avenge me of mine adversary. And he would not 5 for a while: but afterward he said within himself, Though I fear not God, 6 nor regard man; yet because this widow troubleth me, I will avenge her, lest 7 by her continual coming she weary me. And the Lord said, Hear what the 8 unjust judge saith. And shall not God avenge his own elect, which cry day 9 and night unto him, though he bear long with them? I tell you that he will 10 avenge them speedily. Nevertheless when the Son of Man cometh, shall he 11 find faith on the earth?

9 And he spake this parable unto certain which trusted in themselves that 10 they were righteous, and despised others: Two men went up into the temple 11 to pray; the one a Pharisee, and the other a publican. The Pharisee stood 12 and prayed thus,<sup>5</sup> God, I thank thee, that I am not as other men are, extor-13 tioners, unjust, adulterers, or even as this publican. I fast twice in the week, 14 I give tithes of all that I acquire.<sup>6</sup> But<sup>7</sup> the publican, standing afar off, would not lift up so much as his eyes unto heaven, but smote<sup>8</sup> his breast, saying, God be merciful to me a sinner. I tell you, this man went down to his house justified rather<sup>9</sup> than the other: for every one that exalteth himself shall be abased; and he that humbleth himself shall be exalted.

And when he had agreed with the laborers for a penny a day, he sent them into <sup>3</sup> his vineyard. 35 And it came to pass, that as he was coming unto Jericho, a certain blind man sat by the way side begging: and hearing the multitude pass by, he asked what it meant.
37 And they told him, that Jesus of Nazareth passeth by. And he cried, saying, Jesus,

§ 109. St. Matthew speaks of two blind men, St. Mark and St. Luke mention only one of them, Bartimæus, who may have been, either previously or subsequently, better known.

A more important difference is, that St. Matthew and St. Mark describe the miracle as having been performed after our Lord's departure from Jericho, while St. Luke says that it was during his approach to the city. The attempt of Grotius, and others, to explain the latter expression merely of our Lord's being near the city, cannot be considered as sustained by satisfactory examples of such usage. The true solution of the difficulty seems to lie in the fact that our Lord probably spent some days in Jericho or its vicinity; and while there, would naturally have made excursions into the country. Very possibly he spent his nights at some house in the country, and came into the city during the day, as was his custom at Jerusalem, and as is still often done by travellers in the East. A miracle performed when he had thus gone into the country and was nearing the city on his return, might naturally be described by one Evangelist as taking place when he had gone out of the city, and by another with more particularity, as being performed on his approach to the city.

The only objection to this solution — that St. Luke speaks as if he were now first coming near the city on his journey — quite disappears when we remember that he gives no account of the journey at all, and does not so much as mention the sojourn at Ephraim, whence it was undertaken. He merely describes the circumstances under which the miracle was performed.

From the course of the narrative this miracle may have marked our Lord's last return to Jericho; for St. Luke goes on immediately to say that "entering, he passed through Jericho," and then, without pause, he gives the account of the visit to Zacchæus (whose residence must have been in the country), and then the parable of the talents, spoken (Lk. xix. 11) "because of his being near Jerusalem."

§ 111. The Parable of the Ten Minæ. — Near Jerusalem.

ST. LUKE XIX. 11–28.

11 And as they heard these things, he added and spake a parable, because he was nigh to Jerusalem, and because they thought that the 12 kingdom of God should immediately appear. He said therefore,
 A certain nobleman went into a far country<sup>b</sup> to receive for himself 13 a kingdom, and to return. And he called his ten servants, and delivered them ten pounds, and said 14 unto them, Occupy till I come. But his citizens hated him, and sent a message after him, saying, We will not have this man to reign over us.

14 For the kingdom of heaven is as a man travelling into a far country,<sup>b</sup> who called his own servants, and de-15 livered unto them his goods. And unto one he gave five talents, to another two, and to another one; to every man according to his several ability; and<sup>3</sup> took his journey.

§ 111. The question, whether this parable as given by the two Evangelists is the same, must be decided in the affirmative in view of its main scope and purport. There are considerable differences in the narration of it; but these arise from the greater fulness of detail in St. Matthew, and the greater prominence given to its main teaching in St. Luke. The evident design in both is to correct the expectation of the immediate manifestation of "the kingdom of God" (Lk. xix. 11), and to teach that the way to the attainment of its rewards is through long and patient labor in the service of its Lord. This design is more distinctly brought out by St. Luke, and the part of the parable describing the fate of those who would not accept their King, is given by him alone.

St. Matthew, according to his general plan, has placed this parable in a group with others of a somewhat similar character, so that its special design is not so readily observed. On attentive consideration, however, it appears quite plainly enough to show the identity of the two.

ST. MATT. XXV.

ST. LUKE XIX.

16 Straightway he that had received the five talents went and traded with the same, and made them other five talents.

17 <sup>1</sup>Likewise he that had received two, <sup>2</sup>gained other two. But he that had received one went and digged<sup>3</sup> the earth, and hid his lord's money. After a long time the lord of those servants cometh, and reckoneth with them.

20 And so he that had received five talents came and brought other five talents, saying, Lord, thou deliveredst unto me five talents: behold! I have <sup>4</sup>gained five talents more. His lord said unto him, Well done, thou good and faithful servant: thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things: enter <sup>5</sup>thou into the joy of thy lord. He<sup>5</sup> that had received two talents came and said, Lord, thou deliveredst unto me two talents: behold! I have gained <sup>6</sup>two other talents.<sup>6</sup> His lord said unto him, Well done, good and faithful servant; thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things: enter thou into <sup>24</sup>the joy of thy lord. Then he which had received the one talent came and said, Lord, I knew thee that thou art an hard man, reaping where thou hast not sown, and gathering where thou <sup>25</sup>hast not strawed: and I was afraid, and went and hid thy talent in the earth: lo, there thou hast that is thine.

26 His lord answered and said unto him,

15 And it came to pass, that when he was returned, having received the kingdom, then he commanded these servants to be called unto him, to whom he had given the money, that he might know how much every <sup>16</sup>man had gained by trading. Then came the first, saying, Lord, thy pound hath gained ten pounds.

17 And he said unto him, Well, thou good servant: because thou hast been faithful in a very little, have thou authority over ten cities.

18 And the second came, saying, Lord, thy pound hath gained five pounds.

19 And he said likewise to him, Be <sup>20</sup>thou also over five cities. And another came, saying, Lord, behold here is thy pound, which I have <sup>21</sup>kept laid up in a napkin: for I feared thee, because thou art an austere man: thou takest up that thou layedst not down, and reapest <sup>22</sup>that thou didst not sow. <sup>7</sup>He saith unto him, Out of thine own mouth

Thou wicked and slothful servant, thou knewest that I reap where I sowed not, and gather where I have not 28 received mine own with usury. Take therefore the talent from him, and give it unto him which hath ten talents.

29 For unto every one that hath shall be given, and he shall have abundance: but from him that hath not shall be taken away even that which he hath.<sup>a</sup>
 30 And cast ye the unprofitable servant into outer darkness: there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

will I judge thee, thou wicked servant. Thou knewest that I was an austere man, taking up that I laid not down, and reaping that I did not sow? wherefore then gavest not thou my money into the bank, that at my coming I might have required mine own with usury?
 24 And he said unto them that stood by, Take from him the pound, and give it to him that hath ten pounds.

§ 112. Our Lord arrives at Bethany six days before the Passover, and is there entertained in the House of Simon the Leper.

§ 112. St. John had apparently some reason for especially noting the time (xii. 1) of the feast at Bethany; while St. Matthew and St. Mark merely say that it was during our Lord's stay in Bethany. The two latter omit the account of it at the time of its occurrence; but afterwards, in order to explain why the Jews proceeded against Jesus at the feast, contrary to their intention, they go back to mention the circumstances under which Judas determined the country up to Jerusalem before the passover, to purify themselves.

<sup>56</sup> Then sought they for Jesus, and spake among themselves, as they stood in the temple, What think ye, that he will not come <sup>57</sup> to the feast? <sup>1</sup> Now both the chief upon his treachery. The account of this feast therefore, stands in the same relation to the general course of the narrative in their Gospels as their account of the apprehension of the Baptist (Matt. xiv. 3-5; Mar. vi. 17-20), and is not properly to be considered as a violation of chronological order. It is so plain that St. John has carefully noted the exact order of events, and also that the passage in Matt. xxvi. 6-13 and Mar. xiv. 3-9 is of the nature of an episode (vs. 10 in St. Mark being immediately connected with vs. 2, and vs. 14 in St. Matthew in the same way with vs. 5), that it is unnecessary to give further reasons for the arrangement adopted. The only argument of weight for a different arrangement, by which this narrative is transferred to the evening of the fourth day of the week, is drawn from the fact that on this day the question of putting Jesus to death was formally discussed (Matt. xxvi. 3, 4; Mar. xiv. 1, 2). It was after this that Judas approached the chief priests with his proposal, and this was plainly after the feast. So far there is no difficulty; for Judas may well have waited a couple of days before finding a convenient opportunity to close his guilty bargain. But it is urged that the then . . . . went of Matt. xxvi. 14, implies that he went immediately. The difficulty arises only from leaving out of view the parenthetical character of vs. 6-13. The true reference of then is not to vs. 13, but to vs. 5.

The anointing by the woman at this feast is not to be confounded with that which occurred at an earlier period in the house of another Simon, see Lk. vii. 36-50, § 48 and notes. Nor, on the other hand, can this anointing, as narrated by St. John, be considered different from that narrated in the parallel passages by St. Matthew and St. Mark. Robinson well says "The identity of circumstances is too great, and the alleged differences too few, to leave a doubt on this point."

It is noticeable that the two first Evangelists, neither here nor elsewhere, mention either Lazarus or his sisters.

The expression in Jno. xii. 1, "six days before the Passover," is of great importance to the chronology of this eventful week. The Paschal lamb, according to the law, was to be killed on the fourteenth Nisan (which fell this year on Thursday), and to be eaten the same evening, i.e. according to the Jewish reckoning of the day as beginning at sunset, on the fifteenth Nisan. Now counting back six days, including both days in the six, after the Jewish custom, we are brought to the tenth, or Saturday, the Sabbath, as the day on which the feast occurred, and this accords with the ancient tradition on the subject.

§ 113. The feast at Bethany having been on the Sabbath (see note § 112), the "next day" of Jno. xii. 12 must be the first day of the week, Sunday.

The topography explains this narrative. The road from Bethany to Jerusalem, as it passed along the side of the Mount of Olives, encountered a deep valley, and made a long detour around the head of the valley to avoid the ascent and descent. A short foot-path however, led directly across the valley, and it was probably from the point where this parted from the road that the disciples were sent for the ass to the village on the opposite side where the path again met the road, — "a place where two ways met" — a site still marked by ruins. The owner could here see the whole procession winding round the valley, and he must have already known from the multitudes going out from Jerusalem to meet Jesus (Jno. xii. 13) what it meant. He was therefore, ready to acquiesce in the arrangement; and the disciples, taking the ass, went down the road to meet our Lord.

Go your way <sup>30</sup> into the village over against you: and as soon as ye be entered into it, ye shall find a colt tied, whereon never man yet <sup>1</sup> sat; loose him, and <sup>31</sup> bring him . And if any man say unto you, Why do ye this? say ye that the Lord hath need of him; and straightway he sendeth him again <sup>2</sup> hither.	saying, Go ye into the village over against you ; in the which at your entering ye shall find a colt tied, whereon yet never man sat: loose him, and bring him hither. And if any man ask you, Why do ye loose him ? thus shall ye say, <sup>2</sup> Because the Lord hath need of him.

§ 114. St. Matthew mentions the cursing of the fig-tree retrospectively, in connection with the surprise of the disciples at its withering. It is plain from St. Mark that the day in the temple and the night at Bethany intervened between the two. Although the tree withered immediately, as mentioned by St. Matthew, this could not have been noticed by the disciples until they again passed that way.

St. Luke xxi. 37, 38, is inserted here because it is a general statement, covering several days, and, as it stands in his Gospel, is chiefly retrospective.

§ 115. The Fig-tree found withered away.

ST. MARK XI. 20–25.

20 And when the disciples saw it, they marvelled, saying. How soon

21 is the fig tree withered away! Jesus answered and said unto them, Verily I say unto you, If ye have faith, and doubt not, ye shall not only do this which is done to the fig tree, but also if ye shall say unto this mountain, Be thou removed, and be thou cast into the sea; it shall be done.

22 And all things, whatsoever ye shall ask in prayer, believing, ye shall receive.

20 And in the morning, as they passed by, they saw the fig tree dried up

And Jesus answering saith unto them, Have faith in God. <sup>1</sup>Verily I say unto you, That whosoever shall say unto this mountain, Be thou removed, and be thou cast into the sea; and shall not doubt in his heart, but shall believe that what <sup>2</sup>he saith shall come to pass; he shall have it. <sup>3</sup>Therefore I say unto

And Jesus answered and said unto them, I also will ask you one thing, which if ye tell me, I in like wise will tell you by what authority I do these things: 25 the baptism of John, whence was it? from heaven, or of men? ST. MATT. XXII. 1-14.

1 And Jesus answered and spake unto them again by parables, and said,
 2 The kingdom of heaven is like unto a certain king, which made a marriage 3 for his son, and sent forth his servants to call them that were bidden to the 4 wedding: and they would not come. Again, he sent forth other servants, saying, Tell them which are bidden, Behold! I have prepared my dinner:
 my oxen and my fatlings are killed, and all things are ready: come unto the 5 marriage. But they made light of it, and went their ways, one to his farm, 6 another to his merchandise: and the remnant took his servants, and entreated
 7 them spitefully, and slew them. But the king<sup>1</sup> was wroth: and he sent forth 8 his armies, and destroyed those murderers, and burned up their city. Then saith he to his servants, The wedding is ready, but they which were bidden 9 were not worthy. Go ye therefore into the highways, and as many as ye 10 shall find, bid to the marriage. So those servants went out into the highways, and gathered together all as many as they found, both bad and good: and the 11 bridechamber<sup>2</sup> was furnished with guests. And when the king came in to see the guests, he saw there a man which had not on a wedding garment:
 12 and he saith unto him, Friend, how earnest thou in hither not having a 13 wedding garment? And he was speechless. Then said the king to the servants, Bind him hand and foot,<sup>3</sup> and cast him into outer darkness; there

The woman<sup>11</sup> therefore in the resurrection, whose wife of them is she? for seven had her 34 to wife. And Jesus<sup>12</sup> said unto them, The children of this world marry, and are given in marriage: 35 but they which shall be accounted worthy to obtain that world, and the resurrection from the dead, neither marry, nor are given in marriage: 36 neither can they die any more: for they are equal unto the angels; and are the children of God, being the children of the 37 resurrection. § 120. C. Doubtless the wily Pharisees chose to put forward as their spokesman a really ingenuous man, who had hitherto honestly rejected the claims of our Lord. Hence St. Mark describes him as answering "discreetly." He came "tempting" (St. Matthew); but being deeply impressed by our Lord's answer, he went away (St. Mark) "not far from the kingdom of God." The answer to the question was really the Lord's — whether as St. Matthew describes it, he gave the answer himself; or as St. Mark more particularly specifies, He led on the lawyer to answer it himself.

§ 121. Our Lord's Question in return : How is Christ David's Son?

ST. MATT. XXII. 41-46.

ST. MARK XII. 35-37.

ST. LUKE XX. 41-44.

41 While the Pharisees were gathered together, 42 Jesus asked them, saying,
 What think ye of Christ?
 whose son is he? They say unto him, the son of 43 David. He saith unto them, How then doth David in spirit call him 44 Lord, saying, The Lord said unto my Lord, Sit thou on my right hand,
 till I put thine enemies 45 under thy feet?<sup>3 a</sup> If David then call him
 Lord, how is he his son?

35 And Jesus answered and said, while he taught in the temple, How say the scribes that Christ is the son 36 of David? <sup>1</sup>David himself said by the Holy Ghost, The Lord said to my Lord, Sit thou on my right hand,
 till I make thine enemies thy footstool.<sup>a</sup> 37 David <sup>4</sup>himself calleth him Lord, and whence is he then his son?
 And the common people heard him gladly.

41 And he said unto them, How say they that Christ is David's 42 son? For<sup>2</sup> David himself saith in the book of Psalms, The Lord said unto my Lord, Sit thou on 43 my right hand, till I make thine enemies 44 thy footstool.<sup>a</sup> David therefore calleth him Lord, how is he then his son?

 to answer him a word, neither durst any man

 him any more questions.

§ 122. The continuation of this discourse in St. Matthew (ver. 5-7), is very similar to the language of St. Mark and St. Luke. It is plain, however, from Lk. xi. 43, etc., that much the same discourse was uttered on more than one occasion. These verses of St. Matthew are therefore placed with the passage of St. Luke (§ 89) to which they are most closely parallel. Matt. xxiii. is apparently a collection of our Lord's sayings without mention of, or reference to, the circumstances under which they were severally uttered.

§ 123. The Widow's Mite.

ST. MARK XII. 41-44.

ST. LUKE XXI. 1-4.

41 And he<sup>2</sup> sat over against the treasury, and beheld how the people cast money into the treasury: and many that were rich cast in much.
42 And there came a certain poor widow, and she threw in two mites, which 43 make a farthing. And he called unto him his disciples, and said<sup>4</sup> unto them, Verily I say unto you, That this poor widow hath cast more in than all they which have cast into the treasury:
44 for all they did cast in of their abundance; but she of her want did cast in all that she had, even all her living.

1 And he looked up, and saw the rich men casting their gifts into the 2 treasury. And he saw<sup>3</sup> a certain poor widow casting in thither two 3 mites. And he said, Of a truth I say unto you, that this poor widow hath cast in more than they all:

§ 124. Our Lord speaks to certain Greeks, who desired to see Him, of His approaching Death. The Voice from Heaven.

ST. JOHN XII. 20-36.

20 And there were certain Greeks among them that came up to worship at 21 the feast: The same came therefore to Philip, which was of Bethsaida of 22 Galilee, and desired him, saying, Sir, we would see Jesus. Philip cometh and telleth Andrew: and Andrew and Philip come and<sup>1</sup> tell Jesus.

23 And Jesus answereth<sup>2</sup> them, saying, The hour is come, that the Son, of 24 Man should be glorified. Verily, verily, I say unto you, Except a corn of wheat fall into the ground and die, it abideth alone: but if it die, it bringeth 25 forth much fruit. He that loveth his life loseth<sup>3</sup> it; and he that hateth his 26 life in this world shall keep it unto life eternal.<sup>a</sup> If any man serve me, let him follow me; and where I am, there shall also my servant be: if any man serve me, him will my Father honor.

27 Now is my soul troubled; and what shall I say? Father, save me from this hour? but for this cause came I unto this hour. 'Father, glorify thy 28 name. Then came there a voice from heaven,<sup>b</sup> saying, I have both glorified it, 29 and will glorify it again. The people therefore, that stood by, and heard it, 30 said that it thundered: others said, An angel spake to him. Jesus answered 31 and said, This voice came not because of me, but for your sakes. Now is the judgment of this world: now shall the prince of this world be cast out.
32 And I, if I be lifted up from the earth,<sup>c</sup> will draw all men unto me. This he 33 said, signifying what death he should die.

34 The people therefore<sup>d</sup> answered him, We have heard out of the law that Christ abideth for ever:<sup>d</sup> and how sayest thou, The Son of Man must be 35 lifted up? who is this Son of Man? Then Jesus said unto them, Yet a little while is the light among<sup>5</sup> you. Walk while ye have the light, lest darkness come upon you: for he that walketh in darkness knoweth not whither he 36 goeth. While ye have light, believe in the light, that ye may be the children of light. These things spake Jesus, and departed, and did hide himself from them.

§ 124. The Greeks were probably in that precinct of the temple known as the court of the Gentiles; and as our Lord must have been sitting here when he saw the gift of the poor widow (§ 123), this, as Tischendorf has noticed, seems the proper place for the incident. Robinson well observes that after our Lord left the temple at this time, he returned to it no more. This interview therefore could not well have occurred later. The last clause of vs. 36 corresponds with Matt. xxiv. 1; Mar. xiii. 1.

§ 125. The Jews' Unbelief, notwithstanding the Words and Works of Christ

JOHN XII. 37-50.

37 But though he had done so many miracles before them, yet they believed 38 not on him: that the saying of Esaias the prophet might be fulfilled, which he spake, Lord, who hath believed our report? and to whom hath the arm 39 of the Lord been revealed?<sup>a</sup> Therefore they could not believe, because that 40 Esaias said again, 'He hath blinded their eyes, and hardened their heart; that they should not see with their eyes, nor understand with their heart, and 41 be converted, and I should heal them.'<sup>b</sup> These things said Esaias, because<sup>1</sup> he saw his glory<sup>c</sup> and spake of him.

42 Nevertheless among the chief rulers also many believed on him; but because of the Pharisees they did not confess him, lest they should be put out 43 of the synagogue: for they loved the praise of men more than the praise of God.

44 Jesus cried, and said, He that believeth on me, believeth not on me, but on 45 him that sent me. And he that seeth me seeth him that sent me. I am come a light into the world, that whosoever believeth on me should not abide 47 in darkness. And if any man hear my words, and keep them<sup>2</sup> not, I judge 48 him not: for I came not to judge the world, but to save the world. He that rejecteth me, and receiveth not my words, hath one that judgeth him: the 49 word that I have spoken, the same shall judge him in the last day. For I have not spoken of myself; but the Father which sent me, he gave me a 50 commandment, what I should say, and what I should speak. And I know that his commandment is life everlasting: whatsoever I speak therefore, even as the Father said unto me, so I speak.

to buy, the bridegroom came; and they that were ready went in with him to

This section is postponed by Jarvis until after chap. xiii. and xiv. of St. John, on the supposition that St. John records in those chapters a supper which occurred on Wednesday evening, twenty-four hours before the Paschal supper. Lightfoot had previously distinguished two suppers, but had connected only Jno. xiii. with the earlier one, which he identifies with the supper in the house of Simon at Bethany. In the form in which the theory of two suppers is brought forward by Jarvis, there is so much to be said in its favor that it may be well to mention the arguments for it, and also the reasons why harmonists generally have felt constrained to adhere to the arrangement here given.

1. The expression in Jno. xiii. 1: before the feast of the Passover, thus receives its simplest and most natural explanation. The feast indeed, by common usage, refers rather to the seven days' feast as a whole, than specifically to the eating of the Paschal lamb; still, it must include the latter in its meaning, and if the assertion really is that the washing of the disciples' feet took place "before the feast of the Passover," then we must understand this of a previous supper. To this, however, it has been well replied that before the Passover refers to knece, and the object of the expression will then be (quite in accordance with St. John's manner) to explain why our Lord did and said these things at the last supper — because he knew beforehand that his hour was come.

2. At the end of Jno. xiv. Jesus says "Arise, let us go hence." This shows a break between chapters xiv. and xv., and that the company must have left the place where the former was spoken, previously to the discourse of the latter. But we read in Jno. xviii. 1, that "when Jesus had spoken these words, he went forth with his disciples over the brook Cedron." The interval between leaving the room of the Paschal supper and the "going forth over the brook Cedron" seems too short for the long discourse of chaps. xv., xvi., and xvii. If, however, two suppers are supposed, the former ending with ch. xiv., all becomes clear. In answer to these things, it is easy to suppose that our Saviour, after saying "Arise, let us go hence," yet again resumed his discourse in the same place, and did not actually go forth until after the close of the latter discourse; and even if they did go out at the time supposed, we know too little of the localities to assert that there may not have been ample time for the subsequent discourse before they would have reached the gate of the city.

3. It is alleged that the lesson of humility in the washing of the disciples' feet is more appropriate to a previous supper, while the last supper itself is left to be occupied with still deeper spiritual teaching. Such arguments, however, resting upon our conceptions of what is fitting in the Scriptures are uncertain and hazardous. There is no impropriety in either supposition, and we must be guided simply by evidence.

4. The expressions in xiii. 33, "Yet a little while I am with you," and xiv. 19, "Yet a little while and the world seeth me no more," seem more agreeable to the supposition of a whole day intervening between their utterance and Christ's apprehension, than of only a few hours of the night. To this it seems a sufficient answer that the point of these expressions is not the intervening time, but the nearness of the end.

5. The direction to Judas (xiii. 27), "that thou doest, do quickly," with the misunderstanding of the disciples that it related to the purchase of things needed for the feast, seems to imply that it was uttered before the feast. The word feast, however, as already noted, applies to the whole seven days; and more closely examined, this passage will be found to favor the opposite theory. If the supper was on Wednesday evening, there was no occasion for haste, nor would the disciples have supposed that Judas had gone out in the night to make his purchases, when he had the whole of the next day before him. If, on the other hand, this was at the Paschal supper, all this is explained, as the feast would be going on in the morning.

On the whole, therefore, there seems no very strong reason to suppose two suppers, and there are positive objections to this theory. All four Evangelists (Matt. xxvi. 1; Mar. xiv. 18; Lk. xxii. 21; Jno. xiii. 21) record our Saviour's pointing out Judas as the traitor, in answer to the inquiries of the disciples, by substantially the same sign. By emphasizing the slight differences in the narration, and understanding that St. John speaks of a private indication to himself, the others of a more open pointing out of Judas to all the disciples, it is indeed possible to suppose that the action was repeated, and actually took place at both suppers; but it is far more simple and natural to suppose all the narratives to relate to the same transaction. The other objection is insuperable and decisive. All the Evangelists (Matt. xxvi. 34, 35; Mar. xiv. 30, 31; Lk. xxii. 33, 34; Jno. xiii. 37, 38) record both St. Peter's expression of his devotion and our Saviour's prophecy of his threefold denial. It is in the highest degree improbable that this should have occurred twice on successive evenings without allusion in any of the four accounts to its repetition. But that what St. John relates did take place at the Paschal supper, as well as what the others relate, is conclusively shown by the limitation of time in vs. 38: "The cock shall not crow till thou hast denied me thrice": since no one supposes that Peter's threefold denial was repeated on successive nights. The attempt of Lightfoot (Har. of N. Test. § 80, Vol. iii. p. 144, ed. Pitman) to explain these words, "not as meaning that he should deny him three times over before any cock crew; but that he should deny him thrice in the time of cock's-crowing, which time was a fourth part of the night," can hardly be considered as admissible. It is very obvious that no one hearing the expression would have so understood it, and the language cannot without violence be taken to mean anything else than that Peter should be guilty of this threefold denial before morning.

INTRODUCTORY NOTE TO PART VIII.

To enter intelligently upon the consideration of the several narratives of our Lord's Passion, it is necessary to have distinctly in mind the customs and usages of the Passover as it was celebrated at the time among the Jews. A very clear and succinct account of these, so far as needed for the purpose in hand, will be found in Andrews' "Life of our Lord," 4th edition, pp. 432-438. The following are some of the more important points to be remembered :

1. There was a difference in several respects between the original Passover as observed on the night of the coming out from Egypt, and the festival as subsequently kept in commemoration of that event. The selection of the lamb on the tenth Nisan seems to have applied only to the original Passover, and to have been afterwards discontinued; and the command to put away all leaven from their houses on the fifteenth Nisan (Ex. xii. 15) was extended by the scrupulosity of the Jews to the fourteenth. Thus, Maimonides (as quoted by Lightfoot in Mar. xiv. 12, III.): "From the words of the scribes, they look for and rid away leaven in the beginning of the night of the fourteenth day, and that by the light of the candle. For in the night-time all are within their houses, and a candle is most proper for such a search," etc. They nevertheless allowed leavened bread to be eaten until near noon of that day (the day beginning of course at sunset), for the same author says, "It is lawful to eat leaven on the fourteenth day to the end of the fourth hour; but in the fifth hour it is not to be used." Hence it happened that the fourteenth Nisan, though not strictly a part of the feast, came to be commonly known as "the first day of unleavened bread."

Another important difference consisted in the killing of the Paschal lamb. Originally this was to be slain by each man at his own house, and the blood sprinkled upon his door-posts; but afterwards it was killed only by the Levites in the court of the temple. Thus again, Maimonides (in Corban Pesach, cap. 1. See Lightfoot, ub. sup.), "The Passover was not to be killed but in the court where the other sacrifices were killed, and it was to be killed on the fourteenth day in the afternoon, after the daily sacrifice."

2. This last quotation shows the time at which the lamb was slain. According to Ex. xii. 6; Lev. xxiii. 5; Num. ix. 3, it was to be "between the evenings," i.e. as generally understood by the Jews of the time (cf. Josephus, Bell. Jud. vi. 9, § 3; Antiq. xiv. 4, § 3), and, as expressed above by Maimonides, between the evening sacrifice, at 3 P.M., and the going down of the sun. The Karaites and Samaritans are said to have understood the phrase of the time between the sunset and dark.

3. The Paschal lamb having thus been slain, was to be eaten on the following evening — according to our usage the same evening — the beginning of the fifteenth Nisan (See Ex. xii. 8). It must be wholly consumed before morning.

4. Other sacrifices were made on the fourteenth, and following days, called (Deut. xvi. 2) “the Passover of the flock and the herd,” which were sometimes eaten with the true Passover, in case the company was too large for the lamb; but otherwise, belonged to the feast of the following days. These were called by the Jews Chagigah, or feast-offerings, and the especial time for them was on the following day. With these the rejoicings of the feast were more particularly connected.

5. On the “morrow after the Sabbath,” the first-fruits of the harvest (barley) were offered, and waved by a priest before the Lord. Until this had been done no one might eat, ripened or green, any portion of the harvest (Lev. xxiii. 10–14).

6. The first and last days of the feast were marked by “an holy convocation,” and in them “no servile work” could be done (Lev. xxiii. 7, 8). Precisely what was included in servile work cannot now be determined; but these days were very differently regarded from the ordinary weekly Sabbath. The Talmudists call them “good days.” Maimonides says that everything connected with the preparation of food, as well as bathing and anointing were allowable, but not the ordinary labors of agriculture. Buying and selling do not appear to have been prohibited; in fact these were allowed upon the weekly Sabbath, provided no price was agreed upon, and no money paid. Probably these technical evasions were not required on the feast-sabbaths. Hence there does not appear to have been any “preparation-day” for these feast-sabbaths, as was rendered necessary before the weekly Sabbath by the greater strictness of the prohibition of labor.

7. Such of the people as were prevented, by reason of being “in a journey afar off,” or by uncleanness on account of a dead body, from keeping the Passover at its appointed time, were allowed to celebrate it on the same day of the second month (Num. ix. 10–12). There is no evidence that there was any other variation in the time of the observance of the day.

It is unnecessary to enlarge upon these points or upon the ceremonies observed in the Paschal Supper itself, as all these will be found abundantly described in any of the numerous treatises on the Passover.

A serious question remains to be considered, on which there has been great difference of opinion among commentators: Did our Lord anticipate the Passover with his disciples, and thus himself give up his life upon the cross at the time of the killing of the Paschal lamb; or did they partake of it at the regularly appointed time, when it was eaten by the Jews generally? The presumption is, of course, strongly in favor of the latter; and, indeed, it is hardly possible to suppose that the Levites in the temple would have killed the Paschal lamb at any other than the regular time. The language of the first three Evangelists is clear and explicit (see especially Mar. xiv. 12; Lk. xxii. 7). A few expressions in St. John, however, have suggested difficulties of a character so serious as to induce some persons to adopt the other hypothesis. These must be examined in view of the conclusion already come to in the note to the last section, that the narratives of all four Evangelists relate to the same supper.

I. Jno. xiii. 1. The phrase "before the feast of the Passover" has already been considered in the note to the last section. To this may here be added the excellent remark of Andrews (p. 444), "From the preposition 'before,' we conclude that nothing definite in regard to the time of the supper can be determined. Supposing all between vs. 1 and vs. 4 to be stricken out, and the statement to read, 'Now before the feast of the Passover, etc., he riseth from supper and laid aside his garments,' it would still remain probable that the Paschal Supper was meant. The presumption is very strong, that this meal, thus incidentally mentioned, must have been that so prominently and inseparably associated with the feast."

II. Jno. xviii. 28. "And they themselves went not into the judgment-hall lest they should be defiled, but that they might eat the Passover." It is alleged that this expression shows that the Passover had not yet been eaten by the Jews, and must therefore have been anticipated by our Lord. Two points must first be determined in order to fix the bearing of this expression on the question at issue: (a) what is the meaning of "eat the Passover?" (b) what was the nature of the defilement here feared?

(a) The phrase "eat the Passover," occurs five times in the New Testament (Matt. xxvi. 17; Mar. xiv. 12, 14; Lk. xxii. 11, 15), and once in the Greek of the Old Testament (2 Chron. xxx. 18), and in all these places it means to eat the Paschal Supper, strictly. As all the instances in the New Testament, however, refer to one and the same occasion, this concurrence does not go very far to prove that the expression must be limited to this. Now the word Passover is used in the New Testament in a variety of significations: (1) For the Paschal lamb; Mar. xiv. 12; Lk. xxii. 7; (and metaph.) 1 Cor. v. 7. (2) For the Paschal Supper; Matt. xxvi. 18, 19; Lk. xxii. 8, 13; Heb. xi. 28, etc. (3) For the whole paschal festival of the seven days of unleavened bread; Lk. xxii. 1; ii. 41-43; Matt. xxvi. 2; Jno. ii. 23. (4) Indefinitely, in such a way that it may be understood either as in (2) or as in (3), and yet the latter meaning having once been established, more naturally in that; Jno. ii. 13; vi. 4; xi. 55; xii. 1; xiii. 1. In Jno. xviii. 28, 29; xix. 14, the meaning is in dispute. It will be observed that all the instances in (4) are from St. John, and that all the passages in St. John in which the word occurs fall under this head or under (3). It is apparent that he uses the word in its most general sense. The phrase therefore, "that they might eat the Passover," as used by him, would seem naturally to refer to the feasts during the seven days or any of them, and not specifically to the Paschal lamb. Thus this expression would have no bearing upon the question, since it may as well be understood of the subsequent feastings as of the Paschal lamb.

(b) But its meaning is more definitely fixed by the defilement which the Jews feared. Very definite information indeed is wanting as to the nature and effect of the defilements from various causes. Yet, in all probability, the defilement arising from entering the house of a heathen could only have belonged to that inferior class from which one might be cleansed by ablution at the going down of the sun. But, on the other hand, the eating of the Paschal lamb was a matter of such importance that only the most serious impediment was allowed to interfere, — in the Pentateuch the only defilement named is that from the dead body of a man (Num. ix. 6, 7). — a defilement which continued seven days (Num. xix. 11–13). It appears, therefore, that by entering the judgment-hall of Pilate the Jews would have contracted a defilement insufficient to prevent their eating of the Paschal lamb, but incapacitating them for eating of those subsequent feasts which were probably held at an earlier hour of the day. The inference from this passage, on the whole, is in favor of the Paschal Supper having taken place on the previous evening.

III. Jno. xix. 14. "It was the Preparation of the Passover." This has sometimes been understood as meaning the preparation for the Passover, and therefore as necessarily preceding it. As a matter of fact, however, there is no evidence that the day before the Passover (for which other phrases were in use, cf. Matt. xxvi. 17; Mar. xiv. 12; Lk. xxii. 7), was ever called by this name, while there is evidence that this precise term was applied to the day before the weekly, or the festival, Sabbath (Matt. xxvii. 62; Mar. xv. 42; Lk. xxiii. 54; Jno. xix. 31, 42). In all these places it is used absolutely as the well-known designation of the day before the Sabbath. It would seem therefore, that "the Preparation of the Passover" as distinctly marks out the day before the Sabbath of the Passover week as we could do by saying "the Friday of the Passover."

Some other passages are brought forward which have either been sufficiently considered in the note to the previous section, or else do not seem to require consideration at all.

One other argument has been relied upon to show that the apprehension and trial of our Lord must have taken place before the Passover, which is quite without force, viz. that such a public judicial act was unlawful upon the Sabbath, and on all great festival days. The answer to this is patent in the Gospel narrative itself. Even the sanctity of the weekly Sabbath was not able to prevent the inhabitants of Nazareth from attempting to put Jesus to death on that day (Lk. iv. 16–30); and so at Jerusalem, at the Feast of Dedication, the Jews first attempted to stone, and then to arrest him (Jno. x. 22–39); on the last day of the Feast of Tabernacles, "the great day of the feast," the Sanhedrim was in session (Nicodemus being with them), and sent officers to take Jesus, and censured them for their failure to do so (Jno. vii. 37–52). Furthermore when the Sanhedrim at first determined not to put Jesus to death on the feast-day, it was not because of any illegality in the time, but only "lest there should be an uproar among the people." No scruples prevented the chief priests and Phari-

The objection that if our Lord was crucified on Friday and rose on Sunday He would not have been "three days" in the grave, can only be made by those not familiar with the Hebrew usage of numerals. Had He been crucified on Thursday, this usage would have required the expression "four days."

It seems quite unnecessary with this evidence to resort to the Rabbinical traditions, which, however, when fully examined, give testimony to the same effect.

In the early church, as is well known, the Eastern Christians kept their commemorative Passover on the evening following the fourteenth Nisan, at the same time with the Jews, and this they did on the authority, as they alleged, of St. John. Indeed, Polycarp testifies that he had once thus celebrated it with St. John himself. It can hardly, therefore, be supposed that St. John intended in his Gospel to teach that our Saviour himself kept the Passover on a different day.

THE LAST PASSOVER; OUR LORD'S PASSION; THE SABBATH.

THE SIXTH DAY OF THE WEEK. — FRIDAY (BEGINNING AT SUNSET THURSDAY).

And he took the cup, and gave thanks, and said, Take this, and 18 divide it among yourselves: for I say unto you, I will not drink of the fruit of the vine, until the kingdom of God shall come. 24 And there was also a strife among them, which of them should be accounted the 25 greatest. And he said unto them, The kings of the Gentiles exercise lordship over them; and they that exercise authority upon 26 them are called benefactors. § 131. It is plain from the concurrent order of the other three Evangelists that St Luke in his account of this supper, has not arranged the incidents chronologically. The verses omitted here will be found in §§ 133, 134.

The strife here mentioned by St. Luke alone was doubtless the immediate occasion for the washing of the disciples feet, as a basis for the lesson of humility recorded by St. John alone.

The preliminary cup taken before the Paschal meal in connection with the invocation of a blessing, and mentioned in Lk. xxii. 17, is not to be confounded with the cup given at the institution of the Lord's Supper at the close of the Paschal Supper.

§ 132. He washes the Feet of the Disciples.

ST. JOHN XIII. 1-20.

1 Now before the feast of the passover, when Jesus knew that his hour was come that he should depart out of this world unto the Father, having loved 2 his own which were in the world, he loved them unto the end. And during<sup>1</sup> supper the devil having now put into the heart that Judas Iscariot, Simon's 3 son, should<sup>2</sup> betray him; <sup>3</sup>knowing that the Father had given all things into 4 his hands, and that he was come from God, and went to God; he riseth from supper, and laid aside his garments; and took a towel, and girded himself.
 5 After that he poureth water into a basin, and began to wash the disciples'
 6 feet, and to wipe them with the towel wherewith he was girded. Then cometh he to Simon Peter: he<sup>4</sup> saith unto him, Lord, dost thou wash my 7 feet? Jesus answered and said unto him, What I do thou knowest not now;
 8 but thou shalt know hereafter. Peter saith unto him, Thou shalt never wash my feet. Jesus answered him, If I wash thee not, thou hast no part with 9 me. Simon Peter saith unto him, Lord, not my feet only, but also my hands
 10 and my head. Jesus saith to him, He that is washed needeth not to wash<sup>5</sup> 11 but is clean every whit: and ye are clean, but not all. For he knew who 12 should betray him: therefore said he that<sup>6</sup> Ye are not all clean. So after he had washed their feet, and had taken his garments, and was set down again, 13 he said unto them, Know ye what I have done to you? Ye call me Master, 14 and Lord: and ye say well; for so I am. If I then, your Lord and Master, 15 have washed your feet; ye also ought to wash one another's feet. For I

§ 133. Jno. xiii. 27-35 is inserted here on the supposition that Judas went out before the institution of the Lord's Supper. The want of connecting points between the narratives of St. John and of the other Evangelists prevents, perhaps, the absolute determination of this point, and there has consequently always been a diversity of opinion. The view here taken is that adopted, among the ancients, by Cyprian, Jerome, Augustine, Chrysostom, the two Cyrils, Theodoret, etc.; later, by Bellarmine, Baronius, Maldonatus, Gerhard, Beza, Bucer, Lightfoot, Bengel, etc.; and among recent commentators, McKnight, Krafft, Patritius, Stier, Olshausen, Ellieott, Alford, etc. The giving of the sop in the narrative of St. John (after which Judas immediately went out) certainly seems to have been during the Paschal meal, and therefore before the institution; but as this does not admit of positive proof, the question must remain one in part of Christian sentiment and fitness.

The order of the incidents recorded in this section is thus happily expressed by Robinson (Harm. in loco p. 224); "Jesus first declares that one of the twelve shall betray him; they in amazement inquire, 'Lord, is it I? is it I?' and Peter makes a sign to John leaning on Jesus' bosom, that he should ask, who it was. John does so; and Jesus gives him privately a sign by which he may know the traitor; namely, the sop. The amazement and inquiry still continuing, Jesus gives the sop to Judas; who then, conscience-smitten, but desiring to conceal his confusion, asks, as the others had done, 'Lord, is it I?' Jesus answers him, and he immediately goes out, before the institution of the Eucharist."

which betrayed

<sup>27</sup> And after the sop Satan entered into him. Then said Jesus unto him, That thou doest, do quickly.
<sup>28</sup> Now no man at the table knew for what intent he <sup>29</sup> spake this unto him. For some of them thought, unto him, Buy those then having received the

gone out, Jesus said, Now

§ 135. In St. Matthew and St. Luke, the incidents of this section follow the mention of their going out to the Mount of Olives, (Matt. xxvi. 30; Mar. xiv. 26); in St. Luke and St. John, they precede the corresponding statement (Lk. xxii. 39; Jno. xviii. 1). Hence it has sometimes been thought that the fall of Peter was foretold twice. It is better to suppose that the two former Evangelists mention the going out, and then pause to record this omitted incident, and then resume their narrative. In the verse immediately following this section (Matt. xxvi. 36; Mar. xiv. 32), both speak of their coming to Gethsemane.

It is, however, quite possible that this section should be placed after leaving the room in which they had partaken of the Supper, and before their arrival at the gate of the city. The objection to this arrangement is the great length of the following discourse in St. John.

 works that I do shall he do also; and greater works than these shall he do; 13 because I go unto the<sup>9</sup> Father. And whatsoever ye shall ask in my name, 14 that will I do, that the Father may be glorified in the Son. If ye shall ask me<sup>10</sup> any thing in my name, I will do it.

Yet a little while, and the world seeth me no more; but ye see me: because I live, <sup>20</sup> ye shall live also. At that day ye shall know that I am in my Father, and <sup>21</sup> ye in me, and I in you. He that hath my commandments, and keepeth them, he it is that loveth me: and he that loveth me shall be loved of my Father, and I will love him, and will manifest myself to him.

<sup>22</sup> Judas saith unto him, not Iscariot, Lord, how is it that thou wilt manifest <sup>23</sup> thyself unto us, and not unto the world? Jesus answered and said unto him, If a man love me, he will keep my words: and my Father will love him, and <sup>24</sup> we will come unto him, and make our abode with him. He that loveth me not, keepeth not my sayings: and the word which ye hear is not mine, but the Father's which sent me.

<sup>25</sup> These things have I spoken unto you, being yet present with you. But <sup>26</sup> the Comforter, which is the Holy Ghost, whom the Father will send in my name, he shall teach you all things, and bring all things to your remembrance, <sup>27</sup> whatsoever I have said unto you. Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you: not as the world giveth, give I unto you. Let not your heart be <sup>28</sup> troubled, neither let it be afraid. Ye have heard how I said unto you, I go away, and come again unto you. If ye loved me, ye would rejoice, because<sup>2</sup>

<sup>29</sup> I go unto the Father: for the<sup>3</sup> Father is greater than I. And now I have told you before it come to pass, that when it is come to pass, ye might believe. <sup>30</sup> Hereafter I will not talk much with you: for the prince of the<sup>4</sup> world <sup>31</sup> cometh, and hath nothing in me. But that the world may know that I love the Father; and as the Father gave me commandment, even so I do. Arise, let us go hence.

ST. JOHN. XV.

<sup>1</sup> I am the true vine, and my Father is the husbandman. Every branch in <sup>2</sup> me that beareth not fruit he taketh away: and every branch that beareth <sup>3</sup> fruit, he purgeth it, that it may bring forth more fruit. Now ye are clean <sup>4</sup> through the word which I have spoken unto you. Abide in me, and I in you. As the branch cannot bear fruit of itself, except it abide in the vine; <sup>5</sup> no more can ye, except ye abide in me. I am the vine, ye are the branches: he that abideth in me, and I in him, the same bringeth forth much fruit: <sup>6</sup> for without me ye can do nothing. If a man abide not in me, he is cast forth as a branch, and is withered: and men gather it and cast it<sup>5</sup> into the fire, and <sup>7</sup> they are burned. If ye abide in me, and my words abide in you, ye shall ask <sup>8</sup> what ye will, and it shall be done unto you. Herein is my Father glorified, that ye bear much fruit; so shall ye be my disciples.

<sup>9</sup> As the Father hath loved me, so have I loved you: continue ye in my love. <sup>10</sup> If ye keep my commandments, ye shall abide in my love; even as I also<sup>6</sup> have kept my Father's commandments, and abide in his love.

ST. JOHN XV.

11 These things have I spoken unto you, that my joy might be<sup>1</sup> in you, and 12 that your joy might be full. This is my commandment, That ye love one 13 another, as I have loved you. Greater love hath no man than this, that a 14 man<sup>2</sup> lay down his life for his friends. Ye are my friends, if ye do the things 15 which<sup>3</sup> I command you. Henceforth I call you not servants; for the servant 16 knoweth not what his lord doeth: but I have called you friends; for all things 17 that I have heard of my Father I have made known unto you. Ye have not chosen me, but I have chosen you, and ordained you, that ye should go and bring forth fruit, and that your fruit should remain: that whatsoever ye shall 18 ask of the Father in my name, he may give it you. These things I command you, that ye love one another.

19 If the world hate you, ye know that it hated me before.<sup>4</sup> If ye were of the world, the world would love his own: but because ye are not of the world, but I have chosen you out of the world, therefore the world hateth you.
 20 Remember the word that I said unto you, The servant is not greater than his lord. If they have persecuted me, they will also persecute you; if they have 21 kept my saying, they will keep your's also. But all these things will they do 22 unto you for my name's sake, because they know not him that sent me. If I had not come and spoken unto them, they had not had sin: but now they 23 have no cloke for their sin. He that hateth me hateth my Father also. If I had not done among them the works which none other man did, they had not had sin: but now have they both seen and hated both me and my Father.
 24 But this cometh to pass, that the word might be fulfilled that is written in 25 their law, They hated me without a cause.<sup>5</sup> When the Comforter is come, whom I will send unto you from the Father, even the Spirit of truth, which 26 proceedeth from the Father, he shall testify of me: and ye also shall bear witness, because ye have been with me from the beginning.

ST. JOHN XVI.

1 These things have I spoken unto you, that ye should not be offended. They shall put you out of the synagogues: yea, the time cometh, that whosoever 2 killeth you will think that he doeth God service. And these things will they 3 do,<sup>6</sup> because they have not known the Father, nor me. But these things have I told you, that when the time shall come, ye may remember that I told you of them. And these things I said not unto you at the beginning, because I 4 was with you. But now I go my way to him that sent me; and none of 5 you asketh me, Whither goest thou? But because I have said these things 6 unto you, sorrow hath filled your heart. Nevertheless I tell you the truth; it is expedient for you that I go away: for if I go not away, the Comforter 7 will not come unto you; but if I depart, I will send him unto you. And when he is come, he will convince<sup>7</sup> the world of sin, and of righteousness,

<sup>10</sup> because I go to the<sup>1</sup> Father, and ye see me no more ; of judgment, because the prince of this world is judged.

<sup>12</sup> I have yet many things to say unto you, but ye cannot bear them now.
<sup>13</sup> Howbeit when he, the Spirit of truth, is come he will guide you into all truth : for he shall not speak of himself ; but whatsoever he shall hear, that shall he <sup>14</sup> speak : and he will shew you things to come. He shall glorify me : for he <sup>15</sup> shall receive of mine, and shall shew it unto you. All things that the Father hath are mine : therefore said I, that he taketh<sup>2</sup> of mine, and shall shew it <sup>16</sup> unto you. A little while, and ye shall no longer<sup>3</sup> see me : and again, a little while, and ye shall see me.<sup>4</sup>

<sup>17</sup> Then said some of his disciples among themselves, What is this that he saith unto us, A little while, and ye shall not see me : and again, a little while, and <sup>18</sup> ye shall see me : and, Because I go to the Father ? They said therefore, <sup>19</sup> What is this that he saith, A little while ? we cannot tell what he saith. <sup>5</sup> Jesus knew that they were desirous to ask him, and said unto them, Do ye enquire among yourselves of that I said, A little while, and ye shall not see me : and <sup>20</sup> again, a little while, and ye shall see me ? Verily, verily, I say unto you,
 That ye shall weep and lament, but the world shall rejoice :<sup>6</sup> ye shall be sor<sup>21</sup> rowful, but your sorrow shall be turned into joy. A woman when she is in travail hath sorrow, because her hour is come : but as soon as she is delivered of the child, she remembereth no more the anguish, for joy that a man is born <sup>22</sup> into the world. And ye now therefore have sorrow : but I will see you again, <sup>23</sup> and your heart shall rejoice, and your joy no man taketh from you. And in that day ye shall ask me nothing. Verily, verily, I say unto you, Whatso<sup>24</sup> ever ye shall ask the Father, he will give it you in my name.<sup>7</sup> Hitherto have ye asked nothing in my name : ask, and ye shall receive, that your joy may be full.

<sup>25</sup> These things have I spoken unto you in proverbs ;<sup>8</sup> the time cometh, when I shall no more speak unto you in proverbs, but I shall shew you plainly of <sup>26</sup> the Father. At that day ye shall ask in my name : and I say not unto you, <sup>27</sup> that I will pray the Father for you : for the Father himself loveth you, because ye have loved me, and have believed that I came out from God.
<sup>28</sup> I came forth from the Father, and am come into the world : again, I leave the world, and go to the Father.

<sup>30</sup> Now are we sure that thou knowest all things, and needest not that any man
<sup>31</sup> should ask thee : by this we believe that thou camest forth from God. Jesus

§ 137. Our Lord's Sacerdotal Prayer.

ST. JOHN XVII. 1-26.

1 These words spake Jesus, and lifted up his eyes to heaven, and said, Father, the hour is come; glorify thy Son, that the<sup>2</sup> Son may glorify thee:
 2 as thou hast given him power over all flesh, that he should give eternal life
 3 to as many as thou hast given him. And this is life eternal, that they might 4 know thee the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom thou hast sent. I have glorified thee on the earth, having<sup>3</sup> finished the work which thou gavest me 5 to do. And now, O Father, glorify thou me with thine own self with the glory which I had with thee before the world was.

6 I have manifested thy name unto the men which thou gavest me out of the world: thine they were, and thou gavest them me; and they have kept thy 7 word. Now they have known that all things whatsoever thou hast given me, 8 are of thee. For I have given unto them the words which thou gavest me; and they have received them, and have known surely that I came out from thee, and 9 they have believed that thou didst send me. I pray for them: I pray not for 10 the world, but for them which thou hast given me; for they are thine. And all 11 mine are thine, and thine are mine; and I am glorified in them. And now
 I am no more in the world, but they<sup>4</sup> are in the world, and I come to thee.
 Holy Father, keep them through thine own name wherein<sup>5</sup> thou hast given 12 them to me, that they may be one, as we are. While I was with them<sup>6</sup> I kept them in thy name wherein thou gavest them to me, and guarded them,<sup>7</sup> and none of them is lost, but the son of perdition; that the scripture might 13 be fulfilled. And now come I to thee: and these things I speak in the world, that they might have my joy fulfilled in themselves.

14 I have given them thy word; and the world hath hated them, because they 15 are not of the world, even as I am not of the world. I pray not that thou shouldest take them out of the world, but that thou shouldest keep them from 16 the evil. They are not of the world, even as I am not of the world. Sanctify 17 them through the<sup>8</sup> truth: thy word is truth. As thou hast sent me into the 18 world, even so have I also sent them into the world. And for their sakes I sanctify myself, that they also might be sanctified through the truth.

19 Neither pray I for these alone, but for them also which<sup>9</sup> believe on me

21 through their word; that they all may be one; as thou, Father, art in me, and I in thee, that they also may be<sup>1</sup> in us: that the world may believe that thou 22 hast sent me. And the glory which thou gavest me I have given them; that 23 they may be one, even as we are<sup>2</sup> one: I in them, and thou in me, that they may be made perfect in one; <sup>3</sup>that the world may know that thou hast sent me, and hast loved them as thou hast loved me.
 24 Father, I will that they also, whom thou hast given me, be with me where I am; that they may behold my glory, which thou hast given me: for thou 25 lovedst me before the foundation of the world. O righteous Father, the world hath not known thee; but I have known thee, and these have known that thou 26 hast sent me. And I have declared unto them thy name, and will declare it: that the love wherewith thou hast loved me may be in them, and I in them.

§§ 141, 142. The Jews had now so far accomplished their horrid purpose that they held Jesus bound, a prisoner in their hands. What was to be done next? Very naturally they take him first to Annas, who had been formerly their high-priest, and was a man of great authority and of much esteem as a counsellor among them, and the father-in-law of Caiaphas, "the high-priest that same year." We have no certain indication of the time, but it must have been beyond midnight, perhaps an hour beyond. Annas, apparently without delay, sent him on to Caiaphas. This fact is distinctly mentioned by St. John in vs. 24. Arrived at the house of Caiaphas, a considerable time must have been consumed in notifying and assembling the members of the Sanhedrim. Some of them were doubtless already there, or came with Jesus. While they were assembling, Caiaphas appears to have made a preliminary examination in one of the rooms of his palace opening upon the large unroofed court around which oriental houses are built. It was here that the fire was built and that Peter uttered his first denial. Afterwards, he retired to the porch (Mar. vs. 68; Matt. vs. 71) or broad passageway leading from the gate of the house to the court. How long an interval elapsed between the first and second denials is not mentioned; probably not long. In that interval St. Mark mentions that the cock crew. This was the first cock-crowing, which occurred somewhat irregularly, not very long after midnight. St. Mark alone mentions it, as he alone had particularized the two cock-crowings in the prophecy of the Saviour. The second cock-crowing occurred with great regularity at day-break, or about three o'clock, A.M.

In the account of the second denial there are differences which have sometimes been imagined to be real discrepancies between the Evangelists. St. Matthew says the questioner was "another maid"; St. Mark "the" (i.e. probably, the same) "maid"; St. Luke, "another man"; St. John, indefinitely, "they." In this last expression is the key to the whole. In such a crowd and under such a state of excitement, an accusation made by one would naturally be caught up and repeated by another and another. The first maid, we may suppose, points him out to her companion and others as a disciple (Mar.); her companion takes up and repeats the story, (Matt.), whereupon some man, hearing it, directly charges Peter himself with it (Lk.); all which St. John covers by the indefinite expression "they." After this followed an interval of about an hour (Lk. vs. 59) during which, it has been well suggested, he may have gained courage to join in conversation, and thus have betrayed his Galilean origin. In the third denial there is really no difference at all. The two first Evangelists speak only in general terms, using the plural, St. Luke also is indefinite — another; St. John alone describes the person particularly.

Meantime the Sanhedrim was assembling more and more fully. It was expressly illegal for them to pass a capital condemnation in the night. Their formal assembling for this purpose was therefore deferred until daybreak (Lk. xxii. 66; cf. Matt. xxvii. 1; Mar. xv. 1). In the interval, however, the Sanhedrim did its work, but whether in strictly formal session, or merely by common understanding, does not certainly appear. Such form of trial as was had at all, however, was had during this time, and at the morning session nothing remained but to pronounce the legal condemnation.

In the account of this night, so full of events of deepest importance, some of which must have occurred nearly or quite simultaneously, it is difficult to determine the actual order of time of each incident. The first three Evangelists have recorded the denials of Peter consecutively, evidently because they formed one distinct subject in themselves, and not thereby forbidding the supposition that during their progress other incidents may have occurred. So too with other matters; so that it is not strange that some transpositions become necessary in order to place the parallel passages side by side. Thus, e.g. Jno. xviii. 18, quite as properly belongs in its place; but has been transposed to a previous section on account of the same thing being mentioned then by the other Evangelists, also quite as naturally and truly. Sections 142 and 143 may be considered as to some extent simultaneous. So also St. Luke (vs. 66) mentions the formal assembling of the Sanhedrim at daybreak, to avoid repetition, and then goes back to speak of their doings in the previous hours. These things create a difficulty in the arrangement of the parallel columns of a harmony, but constitute no real discrepancies.

§ 145. There is no necessity for deferring the account of the remorse and suicide of Judas until after the final condemnation of Christ by Pilate. When the Sanhedrim had passed their judgment, and permitted our Lord to be treated by the attendants as a condemned malefactor, Judas must have seen that all was over. Doubtless St. Matthew has narrated this in its proper place.

The narrative of St. Luke in Acts i. 18, 19, is perfectly consistent with that of St. Matthew. If the traditional site of the suicide of Judas be correct — and there is no reason why it should not be — on a tree overhanging the precipices of the valley of Hinnom, the breaking of the rope, or of a branch of the tree, would have produced the effects described by St. Luke.

As to the purchase of the field: much needless ingenuity, as in the supposition of two fields, etc., has been expended on this point. The simple solution lies in the fact that Judas was the occasion of the purchase, since he gave the money by which it was effected; therefore he is said to have done it. For similar instances, see Matt. xxvii. 60; Jno. iii. 22; cf. iv. 2; 1 Cor. vii. 16; 1 Tim. iv. 16, etc.

§ 147. Our Lord before Herod. He is sent back to Pilate, who again seeks to release Him.

ST. LUKE XXIII. 6-16.

<sup>6</sup> When Pilate heard,<sup>2</sup> he asked whether the man were a Galilean. And as soon as he knew that he belonged unto Herod's jurisdiction, he sent him to Herod, who himself also was at Jerusalem at that time.

<sup>8</sup> And when Herod saw Jesus, he was exceeding glad: for he was desirous to see him of a long season,<sup>3</sup> because he had heard<sup>4</sup> of him; and he hoped to <sup>9</sup> have seen some miracle done by him. Then he questioned with him in many <sup>10</sup> words; but he answered him nothing. And the chief priests and scribes <sup>11</sup> stood and vehemently accused him. And Herod with his men of war set him at nought, and mocked him, and arrayed him<sup>5</sup> in a gorgeous robe, and

<sup>13</sup> And Pilate, when he had called together the chief priests and the rulers
<sup>14</sup> and the people, said unto them, Ye have brought this man unto me, as one that perverteth the people: and, behold! I, having examined him before you, have found no fault in this man touching those things whereof ye accuse him:
<sup>15</sup> no, nor yet Herod: for he sent him to us;<sup>7</sup> and, lo, nothing worthy of death

§ 148. The words of St. Matthew, vs. 26, and St. Mark, vs. 15, "delivered him to be crucified," properly belong to § 151, but cannot well be separated from their context. They are introduced before § 149 because they really form part of the transaction now going on. Pilate reluctantly delivered our Lord to be crucified; after giving him up, he made still one effort more for his release, and then finally abandoned him.

<sup>8</sup> When Pilate therefore heard that saying, he was the more afraid; and went again into the judgment hall, and saith unto Jesus, Whence art thou? <sup>9</sup> But Jesus gave him no answer. Pilate saith<sup>7</sup> unto him, Speakest thou not unto me? knowest thou not that I have power to release thee, and have power <sup>10</sup> to crucify thee?<sup>8</sup> Jesus answered, Thou hast<sup>9</sup> no power at all against me, except it were given thee from above: therefore he that delivered me unto thee hath the greater sin.

§ 150. On the words "preparation of the passover" of vs. 14, see Introductory Note to Part viii. III. There has been much discussion in regard to the time mentioned in vs. 14. The apparent difference between it and the "third hour" of Mar. xv. 25 has led to a variation in the Greek text of St. John from the earliest times. The difference in the numerical notation by means of letters is indeed very slight (s' for J'), yet there is no occasion for making any alteration in the text as it stands. The actual hour must have been not much later than 6 A.M. for our Lord was taken before Pilate early in the morning (Matt. xxvii. 1; Mar. xv. 1), as soon after daybreak as the Sanhedrim could assemble and formally deliver him up (Lk. xxii. 66)—and it was 9 A.M. when they crucified him (Mar. xv. 24). This time is exactly designated by St. John, if we understand him to use the Roman official computation of the hours from midnight.

§ 151. St. John says that our Lord bore his own cross, or rather, that he went forth bearing it; St. Matthew, that when they were come out of the city they met Simon, and compelled him to bear it. Both accounts are perfectly consistent. The other Evangelists mention only the part recorded by St. Matthew, perhaps because Simon was so well known in the Christian community as having borne the Lord's cross.

Simon was coming "out of the country;" but as it does not appear from what distance, nor for what purpose he had been there, no inference can be drawn from this fact as to the day of the week.

The drink offered (Matt. v. 34; Mar. v. 23) was the acid, drugged wine, ordinarily given to those about to be crucified, to dull the sense of pain.

54 Now when the centurion, and they that were with him, watching Jesus, saw the earthquake, and those things that were done, they feared greatly, saying, Truly this was the 55 Son of God. And many women were there beholding afar off, which followed Jesus from Galilee, ministering unto 56 him :<sup>a</sup> among which was Mary Magdalene, and Mary the mother of James and Joseph,<sup>5</sup> and the mother of Zebedee's children.

41 Salome ; (who,<sup>4</sup> when he was in Galilee, followed him, and ministered unto him;) <sup>a</sup> and many other women which came up with him unto Jerusalem.

47 Now when the centurion saw what was done, he glorified God, saying, Certainly this was a righteous man.
48 And all the people that came together to that sight, having beheld<sup>3</sup> the things which were done, smote their breasts, and returned.
49 And all his acquaintance, and the women that followed him from Galilee,<sup>a</sup> stood afar off, beholding these things.

INTRODUCTORY NOTE TO PART IX.

---

IN the following narrative of the events connected with our Lord's resurrection, it is to be borne in mind that no one of the writers has undertaken to make a complete record of all that occurred. Each has mentioned those incidents which particularly concerned his own purpose or experience. In order to combine the four narratives into one consecutive story, it is necessary to make some conjectures in regard to intervening events which may probably have occurred. Such conjectures may not, perhaps, represent what actually took place, for in some instances several different conjectures may be formed; but so long as any of these are in themselves probable — likely to have occurred — and by means of them the statements of the several Evangelists are seen to be entirely consistent, it is impossible to allege contradictions between their narratives. Some study and careful attention is required thus to exhibit the four accounts harmoniously — perhaps more than is required in any other part of the Gospels, because here such a number of important events are crowded into so short a space of time; but beyond this, there is no other difficulty, nor is there any real discrepancy in the accounts.

The resurrection itself occurred at or before the earliest dawn of the first day of the week (Matt. xxviii. 1; Mar. xvi. 2; Lk. xxiv. 1; Jno. xx. 1. On the "at the rising of the sun" of Mar. 2, see note in loco.) The women coming to the sepulchre, find the stone rolled away and the body gone. They are amazed and perplexed. Mary Magdalene alone runs to tell Peter and John (Jno. xx. 2.) The other women remain, enter the tomb, see the angels, are charged by them to announce the resurrection to the disciples, and depart on their errand. Meantime Peter and John run very rapidly (vs. 4) to the sepulchre. (A glance at the plan of Jerusalem shows that there were so many different gates by which persons might pass between the city and the sepulchre that they might easily have failed to meet the women on their way.) They enter the tomb, and are astonished at the orderly arrangement of the grave-clothes, and then return to the city. Mary follows to the tomb, unable quite to keep pace with them, and so falling behind. She remains standing at the entrance after they had gone; and looking in, sees the angels. Then turning about, she sees Jesus himself, and receives his charge for the disciples. This was our Lord's first appearance after his resurrection (Mar. xvi. 9).

To return to the women who were on their way from the sepulchre to the disciples. They went in haste, yet more slowly than Peter and John. There were many of them, and being in a state of great agitation and alarm (Mar. xvi. 8), they appear to have become separated and to have entered the city by different gates. One party of them, in their astonishment and fear, say nothing to any one (Matt. xxviii. 8); the others run to the disciples and announce all that they had seen, viz. the vision of the angels (Mar. xvi. 8; Lk. xxiv. 9-11).

At this time, before any report had come in of the appearance of our Lord himself, the two disciples set out for Emmaus (Lk. xxiv. 13). (In the Harmony Lk. xxiv. 13 is allowed to stand in connection with the whole account of the visit to Emmaus to avoid breaking too much the thread of the several narratives; but it is plain that these disciples started before Mary Magdalene had announced the appearance of the Lord).

Soon after, Mary Magdalene comes in, announcing that she had actually seen the risen Lord (Mar. xvi. 10, 11; Jno. xx. 18).

While these things are happening, the first-mentioned party of the women are stopped on the way by the appearance of the Lord himself, and they also receive a charge to his disciples (Matt. xxviii. 9, 10).

Beyond this point there is no difficulty in the narrative, and the course of events will, it is hoped, be sufficiently clear in the Harmony itself.

§ 160. The buying of the spices in Mar. 1, properly belongs to the previous evening, i.e. it took place after sunset on Saturday, when therefore "the Sabbath was past." The clause cannot, however, be conveniently detached from the rest of the verse.

The expression of St. Mark at the close of vs. 2, "at the rising of the sun," must, of course, be understood consistently with the "very early" of the same verse, and therefore consistently with the similar expressions of the other Evangelists. The time designated in the original (see note in the Greek Harmony) is not so much the actual rising of the sun as the first appearance of its light at the dawn.

5 And the angel answered and said unto the woman. Fear not ye: for I know that ye seek Jesus, which

Come, see the place
7 where he<sup>3</sup> lay. And go quickly, and tell his disciples that he is risen from the dead; and, behold! he goeth before you unto Galilee; there shall ye see him: lo, I have told they saw a young man sitting on the right side, clothed in a long white garment; and they were affrighted.

6 And he saith unto them, Be not affrighted: Ye seek Jesus of Nazareth, which was crucified: he is risen; he is not here;

behold the place where 7 they laid him. But go your way, tell his disciples and Peter that he goeth before you unto Galilee: there shall ye see him, as he said unto you.

it came to pass, as they were<sup>1</sup> perplexed thereabout, behold! two men stood by them in shining 5 raiment:<sup>2</sup> and as they were afraid, and bowed down their faces to the earth, they said unto them, Why seek ye the living among the dead?
6 He is not here, but is risen: remember how he spake unto you when he was yet in Galilee,
7 saying, The Son of Man must be delivered into the hands of sinful men, and be crucified, and the third day rise again.<sup>a</sup>
8 And they remembered his words,

§ 162. The angel, according to Matt. xxviii. 2, sat upon the stone. Either therefore, the stone rolled inward, or else he afterwards changed his position. He mentions only one angel; so also St. Mark, specifying that he was on the right: St. Luke mentions (vs. 4) two. This may be only greater minuteness, or the second one may have been on the other side of the sepulchre.

Matt. xxviii. 8 and Mar. xvi. 8 plainly refer to different parties of women: the former speaks of their returning with great joy to tell their tidings to the disciples; the latter, of their being in such a state of terror — “ecstasy” — that they said nothing to any one. The company of women was large (Lk. xxiv. 10, etc.) and on their return they doubtless became separated, as there were several different gates by which they could enter the city. Thus also Matt. xxviii. 9, 10, receives a simple and natural explanation; our Lord appeared to one of the parties of women, not to the other.

And he, stooping down, and looking in, saw the linen clothes lying; yet went he not in. Then cometh Simon Peter following him, and went into the sepulchre, and seeth the linen clothes lie, and the napkin, that was about his head, not lying with the linen clothes, but wrapped together in a place by itself. Then went in also that other disciple, which came first to the sepulchre, and he saw, and believed. For as yet they knew not the scripture, that he must rise again from the dead. Then the disciples went away again unto their own home.

<sup>3</sup> The genuineness of Mark xvi. 9-20 has been much questioned. It is omitted from the two most important MSS., but contained in nearly all the others, although marked in some of them as doubtful. There is also much other authority against it, especially that it is not included in the canons of Eusebius. Griesbach marks the passage as probably to be omitted; Lachmann inserts it; Tregelles (on the printed text of the Greek Testament pp. 246-260) considers it a later addition, not written by St. Mark, but still to be received as a genuine part

§ 163. If vs. 12 of St. Luke be genuine, of which there is little doubt, it may have slipped from its proper place, and perhaps it was this which caused the ancient hesitation as to its genuineness.

It is better to consider this, as in the arrangement above, as absolutely the first appearance of our risen Lord. ST. MATT. XXVIII. 11-15.

11 Now when they were going, behold! some of the watch came into the city, they were assembled with the elders, and had taken counsel, they gave large 14 stole him away while we slept. And if this come to the governor's ears, we

§ 167. Our Lord joins Himself to two Disciples going to Emmaus.

ST. LUKE XXIV. 13-35.

13 And, behold! two of them went that same day to a village called Emmaus, which was from Jerusalem about 14 threescore<sup>4</sup> furlongs. And they talked together of all 15 these things which had happened. And it came to pass, that, while they communed together and reasoned, Jesus

§ 165. The appearance of our Lord to one party of women, and the announcement of the angel's message to the disciples by the other party, appear to have taken place nearly or quite at the same time.

Our Lord forbid Mary Magdalene to touch him (Jno. xx. 7), but allowed the other women to seize his feet (Matt. xxviii. 9). For this there may have been personal reasons, growing out of the warmth and impetuosity of Mary's temperament, which made it fitting to impress upon her a sense of the sacredness of our Lord's person, and to hold her somewhat aloof; but which did not exist in the other case.

Cleopas,<sup>a</sup> answering said unto him, Art thou only a stranger in Jerusalem, and hast not known the things 19 which are come to pass there in these days? And he said unto them, What things? And they said unto him, Concerning Jesus of Nazareth, which was a prophet mighty in deed and word before God and all the people; 20 and how the chief priests and our rulers delivered him 21 to be condemned to death, and have crucified him. But we trusted that it had been he which should have redeemed Israel: and beside all this, it<sup>3</sup> is the third day 22 since these things were done. Yea, and certain women also of our company made us astonished, which were 23 early at the sepulchre; and when they found not his body, they came, saying, that they had also seen a vision 24 of angels, which said that he was alive. And certain of them which were with us went to the sepulchre, and heart to believe all that the prophets have spoken!

26 ought not Christ to have suffered these things, and to 27 enter into his glory? And beginning at Moses<sup>b</sup> and all the prophets, he expounded unto them in all the scrip-28 tures the things concerning himself. And they drew nigh unto the village, whither they went: and he made 29 as though he would have gone further. But they constrained him, saying, Abide with us: for it is toward evening, and the day is now<sup>4</sup> far spent. And he went 30 in to tarry with them. And it came to pass, as he sat at meat with them, he took bread, and blessed it, and 31 brake, and gave to them. And their eyes were opened, longs to this section, and is the same with that mentioned by several of the Apostles in Lk. xxiv. 34. It must have occurred after the two disciples had gone away to Emmaus, and before their return.

The appearance of discrepancy between the positive announcement of the resurrection by the assembled disciples in Lk. xxiv. 34, and their want of belief in the story of the two returned from Emmaus, mentioned in Mar. xvi. 13, is only on the surface. The disciples were in that state of mind so natural under the circumstances, when they both believed and refused to believe. They were ready to tell whatever was remarkable within their own knowledge, and to discredit whatever others told to them.

§ 169. To this section probably belongs the clause of 1 Cor. xv. 5 — “then of the twelve.” If the question be asked “Why the Apostles remained so long in Jerusalem after Jesus had told them to go before him into Galilee?” it may be answered that they remained, of course, through the Passover, which extended to Thursday evening, and then they would have remained over the Sabbath for want of time to reach Galilee before it. Being thus in Jerusalem at the beginning of the “first day of the week,” a recollection of the events of the previous “first day,” must have suggested anticipations, justified by the event, which kept them still there through that day.

§ 170. Ver. 14. This was the third of the appearances to the assembled disciples mentioned by St. John. “The third time” is not meant to refer to all his appearances, for St. John himself has described particularly just before, his appearance to Mary Magdalene, then to the Apostles in the absence of Thomas, and again to them when he was present. This is the third manifestation only to the disciples.

Perhaps to this section, but in all probability to some part of the time while the Apostles remained in Galilee, belongs 1 Cor. xv. 6. “After that, he was seen of above five hundred brethren at once; of whom the greater part remain unto this present, but some are fallen asleep.” The special appearance to St. James, 1 Cor. xv. 7, — “after that, he was seen of James,” not being mentioned at all in the Gospels, cannot be definitely placed; neither can the following clause, “then of all the Apostles,” unless it be supposed that this does not refer to any particular appearance, but rather to our Lord’s frequent manifestation of himself to the Apostles during the forty days. Doubtless there were many such manifestations of which we have no other record than the brief allusion to them in Acts i. 3.

ST. MATT. XXVIII.

ST. JOHN XXI.

4 But when the morning was now come, Jesus stood on the shore : but the disciples knew not that it was Jesus.
 5 Then Jesus saith unto them, Children, have ye any 6 meat? They answered him, No. He saith<sup>1</sup> unto them, Cast the net on the right side of the ship, and ye shall find. They cast therefore, and now they were not able 7 to draw it for the multitude of fishes. Therefore that disciple whom Jesus loved saith unto Peter. It is the Lord. Now when Simon Peter heard that it was the Lord, he girt his fisher's coat unto him, (for he was 8 naked,) and did cast himself into the sea. And the other disciples came in a little ship; (for they were not far from land, but as it were two hundred cubits,) 9 dragging the net with fishes. As soon then as they were come to land, they saw a fire of coals there, and 10 fish laid thereon, and bread. Jesus saith unto them, 11 Bring of the fish which ye have now caught. Simon Peter went up, and drew the net to land full of great fishes, an hundred and fifty and three : and for all there were so many, yet was not the net broken.
 12 Jesus saith unto them, Come and dine. And none of the disciples durst ask him, Who art thou? knowing 13 that it was the Lord. Jesus<sup>2</sup> cometh, and taketh bread, 14 and giveth them, and fish likewise. This is now the third time that Jesus shewed himself to the<sup>3</sup> disciples, after that he was risen from the dead.
 15 So when they had dined, Jesus saith to Simon Peter, Simon, son of John,<sup>4</sup> lovest thou me more than these?
 He saith unto him, Yea, Lord; thou knowest that I 16 love thee. He saith unto him, Feed my lambs. He saith to him again the second time, Simon, son of John,<sup>4</sup> lovest thou me? He saith unto him, Yea, Lord; thou knowest that I love thee. He saith<sup>5</sup> unto him, Feed 17 my sheep. He saith unto him the third time, Simon, son of John,<sup>4</sup> lovest thou me? Peter was grieved because he said unto him the third time, Lovest thou me?
 And he saith<sup>5</sup> unto him, Lord, thou knowest all things;
 thou knowest that I love thee. He<sup>6</sup> saith unto him, 18 Feed my sheep. Verily, verily, I say unto thee, When thou wast young, thou girdedst thyself, and walkedst whither thou wouldest : but when thou shalt be old, thou shalt stretch forth thy hands, and another shall gird thee, and carry thee whither thou wouldest not.

 19 This spake he, signifying by what death he should glorify God. And when he had spoken this, he saith unto him, Follow me.
 20 <sup>1</sup>Peter, turning about, seeth the disciple whom Jesus loved, following, which also leaned on his breast at supper, and said, Lord, which is he that betrayeth thee?
 21 Peter therefore<sup>2</sup> seeing him saith to Jesus, Lord, and 22 what shall this man do? Jesus saith unto him, If I will that he tarry till I come, what is that to thee? follow
 23 thou me. Then went this saying abroad among the brethren, that that disciple should not die: yet Jesus said not unto him, He shall not die; but, If I will that he tarry till I come.<sup>3</sup> 24 This is the disciple which testifieth of these things, and wrote these things: and we know that his testimony is true.

Critical and Exegetical Commentaries, by Prof. James G. Murphy, LL.D., T.C.D., viz. on

GENESIS. With a Preface by J. P. THOMPSON, D.D., New York. 8vo. pp. 535.
Cloth, rounded edges.	$3.50
EXODUS. (Uniform with Genesis). 8vo. pp. 385.	3.00
LEVITICUS. (Uniform with Genesis and Exodus). pp. 318.	2.50

"Dr. Murphy in his commentaries has a definite plan, which he carries out. The text is explained, translated anew, and comments are added on the difficult and mooted points. He is a fair, clear, and candid interpreter. His aim is to reconcile the Scriptures with science by an impartial examination of the text."—Amer. Presbyterian and Theological Review.

"Thus far nothing has appeared in this country for half a century on the first two books of the Pentateuch so valuable as the present two volumes. His style is lucid, animated, and often eloquent. His pages afford golden suggestions and key-thoughts. . . . Some of the laws of interpretation are stated with so fresh and natural a clearness and force that they will permanently stand."—Methodist Quarterly.

"The most valuable contribution that has for a long time been made to the many aids for the critical study of the Old Testament is Mr. Draper's republication of Dr. Murphy on Genesis, in one octavo volume. It is a good deal to say of a commentary, but we say it in all sincerity, that this volume furnishes about as fascinating work for one's hours for reading as any volume of the day, in any department of literature; while its general influence will be salutary and effective for the truth. . . . The English reader will find nothing accessible to him which will compare favorably with this as a help in the study of this portion of the divine word; while he will, of course, read always with his own judgment upon the views which find expression."—Congregationalist.

BOOK OF PROVERBS. 12mo. pp. 432.	1.75

"The first characteristic of Professor Stuart as a commentator is the exhaustive thoroughness of his labors. His exegesis is in general skilful and felicitous, especially in bringing out the meaning of the obscure passages, and adding new and delicate shades of thought to the more obvious and superficial sense."—North American Review.

"The exegetical works of Prof. Stuart have many excellences, and it will be a long time before the student of the Bible in the original will be willing to dispense with them as a part of his critical apparatus."—Boston Recorder.

"The spirit of the man is so intertwined with them as to be a perpetual stimulant and benediction to the reader."—Congregationalist.

"In turning over its pages we recall the learning, the zeal, the acumen, and the idiosyncrasies of one of the most remarkable of the great and good men which our theological world has produced. . . . This contribution by Prof. Stuart has justly taken a high place among the Commentaries on the Epistle to the Romans, and, with his other works, will always be held in high estimation by students of the Sacred Scriptures."—*N. "We would recommend all scholars of the original Scriptures who seek directness, luminous brevity, the absence of everything irrelevant to strict grammatical inquiry, with a concise and yet very complete view of the opinions of others, to possess themselves of Ellicott's Commentaries." — American Presbyterian.

"His Commentaries are among the best, if not the very best, helps a student can have." — American Presbyterian and Theological Review.

"Ellicott is one of the best commentators of this class." — Princeton Review.

"I do not know of anything superior to them in their own particular line." — Dean Alford.

"We have never met with a learned commentary on any book of the New Testament so nearly perfect in every respect as the Commentary on the Epistle to the Galatians, by Prof. Ellicott, of King's College, London — learned, devout, and orthodox." — Independent.

"They fill the scholar with genuine admiration." — Watchman and Reflector.

"The Commentaries of Prof. Ellicott belong to the first class of critical writings of the New Testament." — Boston Recorder.

"To Bishop Ellicott must be assigned the first rank, if not the first place in the first rank, of English biblical scholarship. The series of Commentaries on the Pauline Epistles are in the highest style of critical exegesis." — Methodist Quarterly.

"The best English work of this character." — New Englander.

"Strictly grammatical and critical, thorough and fearless, concise yet complete, worthy of all confidence." — Evangelical Review.

JEREMIAH AND LAMENTATIONS. Translated from the Original Hebrew. 8vo. pp. 315.	$2.50
EZEKIEL. Translated from the Original Hebrew. 8vo. pp. 228.	2.00

"Dr. Henderson's Commentaries are rich in wholesome and true exposition." — Presbyterian Magazine.

"The work is invaluable for its philological research and critical acumen. . . . The notes are replete with the fruits of varied learning." — The Presbyterian.

"Dr. Henderson is one of the most eminent of modern biblical critics. One of the leading features of his mode of treating Scripture is his happy blending of textual with exegetical comment. His treatise on Jeremiah is well worthy, by its elevated scholarship, to take a place side by side with the commentaries of Bishop Ellicott and of Professor Murphy, also issued by Mr. Draper." — Publishers' Circular.

"He excelled in weighing evidence, and impressing upon it its relative value. His discrimination was clear and his judgment was sound. He dealt with fact, not with fiction. He searched for data, not for opinions. Dr. Henderson was not only well versed in the Hebrew language, but also in its cognates. Few men, either in England or America, have been his equals in Oriental literature. His Commentary on Jeremiah has the same general characteristics which appear in his Commentary on the Minor Prophets." — Bib. Sacra.

"The only satisfactory commentary on the Minor Prophets we know of in the English language." — Episcopal Recorder.

"The volume before us gives abundant evidence of patient scholarship and clear conceptions of evangelical truth." — Evangelical Quarterly.

"We have met with no so satisfactory a commentary on this part of the prophetic scriptures." — Watchman and Reflector.

A Harmony of the Four Gospels in Greek, according to the Text of Tischendorf, with a Collation of the Textus Receptus, and of the Texts of Griesbach, Lachmann, and Tregelles. 8vo. $2.50

"The notes of the author are marked by scholarship and good sense. The student will find it a convenient manual for the study of the Gospels, because he sees upon one and the same page the readings of the principal editions and manuscripts, together with the quotations made by the evangelists from the Old Testament." — Princeton Review.

"A very important matter in the preparation of a Harmony is, of course, the choice of a text. The one chosen by Professor Gardiner is that of Tischendorf's eighth edition of the New Testament. This text was chosen because 'it embodied the latest results of criticism, having had the advantage throughout of the Codex Sinaiticus and of a more close collation of the Codex Vaticanus.' Prof. Gardiner would, indeed, have published his Harmony more than a year ago, but waited till opportunity could be given for consulting this last edition of Tischendorf. It is an obvious merit in this Harmony, that the student can see at a glance whether or not the text of Tischendorf agrees or conflicts with that of Griesbach, Lachmann, and Tregelles in places where there is a difference of opinion. It is another excellence of the work that the Greek text is so accurate, evincing the most scrupulous care and thorough scholarship on the part of the editor." — Bib. Sacra.

"Dr. Gardiner's work has been well done, and he has given us a Harmony of great value." — Quarterly Review Evang. Luth. Church.

"By this scholarly work Dr. Gardiner has rendered all diligent students of the Gospel narrative an invaluable service. In a single volume, and by the most satisfactory arrangement of the several and inspired accounts of the life and doings of our Lord, the book furnishes the best results of the ablest and most laborious investigation of all known sources of knowledge regarding the original sacred text." — Reformed Church Monthly.

"It is a superior work of its kind." — National Baptist.

"This book, the result of great research and utmost painstaking, is well worthy the consideration of all Bible scholars." — Watchman and Reflector.

A Harmony of the Four Gospels in English, according to the Authorized Version; corrected by the best Critical Editions of the Original. 8vo. pp. xlv and 287. Cloth. $2.00

"The Harmony in English, the title of which is given above, is a reproduction of the Harmony in Greek; no other changes being made than such as were required to fit the work for the use of the English reader who desires to learn some of the improvements which modern criticism has made in the authorized English text." — Bibliotheca Sacra.

"We gladly commend this Harmony to every intelligent reader of the Scriptures. The need of such a guide is felt by every thoughtful Churchman at least once a year — in Holy Week — when he desires to read the events of each day in the order in which they happened so many years ago. We do not think that our laymen know how much they will be helped to the understanding of the Gospels by a simple Harmony, perhaps reads as we suggested above, in connection with some standard Life of our Lord." — The Churchman.

Diatessaron. The Life of Our Lord in the Words of the Gospels. 16mo. pp. 256. $1.00

"It is well adapted to the convenience of pastors, to the needs of teachers in the Bible-class and Sabbath-school, to the religious instruction of families. It bids fair to introduce improvements into the style of teaching the Bible to the young." — Bibliotheca Sacra.

"This little volume will not only answer as a Harmony of the Gospels for the use of those who only care to have results, but it will be an excellent book to read at family prayers, or to study with a Bible-class." — Christian Union.

The Confessions of St. Augustine. Edited, with an Introduction, by W. G. T. SHEDD. 12mo. Cloth, bevelled edges. $1.50

"This is a beautiful edition of a precious work. The Confessions of Augustine are so honest, that we easily become enthusiastic in their praise. The depth of his piety, the boldness of his imagination, the profoundness of his genius, his extravagant conceptions, his very straining and stretching of philosophical and biblical statements, have all a certain charm which ensures for his works an enduring popularity."—Bibliotheca Sacra.

"The best commentary that was ever written on the seventh and eighth chapters of Romans, from an experimental point of view, is contained in this autobiography of one of the most keenly metaphysical, intensely poetical, and, withal, sensuously enthralled natures that ever submitted to the power of sovereign grace. . . . We scarcely know of a better book for daily devotional perusal, especially by ministers."—Boston Review.

"This beautiful edition of a theological classic is desirable, on account of the careful comparison of the whole work with the Latin text, and the addition of explanatory notes."—Evangelical Quarterly.

"In this little work the renowned theologian nimbosoms himself without reserve and carries us along the stream of his spiritual life, through its turbid flow in mazes of error and vice, until it attains to calm under the sunlight of Christian faith. We commend this handsome edition of his work to the attention of our readers. It is refreshing to turn from the 'sensation' preacher of the day to the writings of a man whose depth of thought and strength of emotion are answerable to the ardor and vehemence of his manner."—New Englander.

"In this beautiful edition of Augustine's Confessions, published in the antique style, the translation has been carefully revised by Prof. Shedd, of Andover, from a comparison with the Latin text. His Introduction presents a fine analysis of Augustine's religious experience in its bearing upon his theological system. Both the intellect and the heart of the modern preacher may be refreshed and stimulated by the frequent perusal of these Confessions."—Independent.

"Prof. Shedd has earned our heartfelt thanks for this elegant edition of Augustine's Confessions. The book is profitable for the Christian to study, and we would commend it as a daily companion in the closet of the intelligent believer who desires to be taught the way to holiness through communion of the Spirit. Prof. Shedd's Introduction is a masterly essay, which of itself is a volume for attentive reading. It ought to be read before the book is begun. Thorough, searching, and discriminating, beyond the facts it communicates, its instruction and hints are suggestive and invaluable. The book is handsomely issued, and ought to have a large circulation."—New York Observer.

The basis of this beautiful edition of the greatest, truest, and most sincere of all psychological and religious autobiographies, is a vivid and sympathetic old English translation, whose author is unknown. Prof. Shedd has carefully compared it with the original, and illustrated it with explanatory notes. He has also supplied a scholarly Introduction, in which the individuality of Augustine is keenly analyzed, and the leading characteristics of the Confessions lucidly set forth. The publisher has done his part of the work in such a manner as to deserve the honor of being the first American publisher who has issued this, one of the great religious classics of the world, in a style at all adequate to its value and importance."—Evening Transcript.

"We have long wanted to see just such an edition of Augustine's Confessions. The editor has done a public service in introducing it; and its typographical beauty is no small recommendation of it."—Presbyterian.

"Augustine was the brightest light in the age of the Christian fathers. After many years of intense inquiry after the truth as it is in Jesus, he at last broke away from his doubts and perplexities and reached the object of his struggles. He became a decided, devoted Christian, an able minister of the New Testament, a powerful defender of evangelical doctrine against the heresies of his day, and an eminent bishop of the church. These confessions, as they are called in this book, are on great subjects of Christian experience and biblical truth, and are richly worth purchasing and reading, for he was a profound thinker and a mighty champion in Israel."—Religious Union.
